BEATY

It is said, is only ski[illegible]eep and not always even that, but in [illegible] Furniture it is visible beneath the s[illegible]ce. Seasoned timber is [illegible] first essential for perfection in Furn[illegible]. Much of the "cheap" Furniture [illegible] sale is made from "wet stuff," and [illegible] articles "go west" when put in a room w[illegible] there is a fire. We allow no we[illegible]ber into our new Factory at Parkgate [illegible]t, and this, with the exceptionally fine fa[illegible]ies we have there, enables us to produc[illegible] [illegible]rniture of unequalled style and quality. Traders, combine [illegible]triotism with good business by keeping representative stock of the new "OD" [illegible]iture.

PANHARDS LEVASSOR

"Pioneers of Sleeve Valve Designed Engines"

"One of the world's finest manufactured machines"

Behind the Style and Beauty of the Panhard Levassor, there's the performance that wins the enthusiastic praise of the hardest driver. Never-ending research work has given the Panhard many distinguishing features which make it one of the finest manufactured machines in the world—the Panhard Sleeve Valve, Patent Steel Front Wheel Brakes, and System of Lubrication, just to mention three of the features. But you can never visualise the effortless ease and matchless smoothness of the Panhard engine until you've been in a Panhard car, so we invite you to come for a run. Just drop us a line or ring up, and we will arrange for the run. 11/15 Five Seater Tourer, £385 14/20 Weymann Saloon, £575. Other models and prices.

DISBUDDING PEACHES.

A Gardening Correspondent writes:—

Little and often the motto, and to the observant eye and keen practitioner disbudding Peaches is practically a daily operation. In the first place, it is easy to see that ill-placed buds, such as those at the back of the shoots of all flat trained trees, and also the fore right ones, which, if left, form shoots standing out at right angles, are wholly superfluous; and with these we commence. Then, again, as the work proceeds, knowing that but one young shoot at the base of the fruit-bearing wood and one at top is actually necessary, further reduction goes on.

It is as well to leave it in what may appear prospectively superfluous, apart from always having an eye to the training in of an extra young shoot or two, with the possibility of substituting them for an older branch at pruning time. The amateur, however, must be impressed that the top bud (young growth) is absolutely necessary, for without it all below dies back and the fruit is lost.

PACKING EGGS FOR HATCHING.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Eggs may be spoiled for hatching when sent to a distance if not properly packed, even though they may not be broken. A violent shake detaches the germ, and it will not then hatch. It is a great mistake to think they should be packed as tightly as possible, for a bump or jar will crack them or destroy the germ. The ordinary pasteboard egg box is not the best for hatching eggs. We have found one of the small boxes to be had in any grocer's shop much better. It should be large and made of wood. Roll each egg loosely in a piece of newspaper, then twist round it, also in a loose way, a little soft hay, which acts as a buffer and prevents jarring. The eggs should not be so loose as to shake about, but they should not be jammed tight. The ends of the box should be thick enough to hold small screws, as the lid should be screwed on, not nailed. Cord the box with stout cord, by which it can be carried; write the address very plainly and mark it, "Valuable: Eggs for Hatching."

CHATS ABOUT PRATTS

with The Trade Van Driver

I have good reason to like Pratts. In many a rush of work, when time was precious and deliveries urgent, Pratts has stood well by me. Its use has prevented engine trouble and tantalising breakdowns. I never worry once I know Pratts is in the tank. The boss admits I don't use too much petrol. He knows that Pratts gives more mile's per gallon than any other. As long as I stick to Pratts he's satisfied. So am I.

SEVEN ASIDE MATCHES.

The annual seven aside competition in aid of the Hospitals Sunday Fund will be played at Lansdowne road to-day, commencing at 2.45. As usual, all the senior clubs have entered teams, and speculation is rife as to the likely winning side. In the interval between the semi-final and final rounds the finalists of the Provincial Towns' Cup, Balbriggan and Athy, will play a seven aside match. It is expected that this game will be played at 5.5 p.m. For the convenience of visitors, the tea-rooms of the Wanderers and Lansdowne Clubs will be open to the public during the afternoon.

THE DRAW.

A, Wanderers v. Monkstown; B, Clontarf v. Bective Rangers; C, Dublin University v. Lansdowne; D, Palmerston v. winner of A; E, University College v. winner of B; F, Blackrock College v. Old Wesley.

RUGBY LEAGUE WORLD TOUR.

Twenty-six players of the English Rugby League left Tilbury yesterday on the P. and O. liner Cathay on a world tour. They go first to Australia, where they engage in 17 matches, including test games; proceed to New Zealand for nine engagements, including three tests, and return via Canada, where they will play two exhibition matches, arriving at Liverpool on September 28.

Sermons will be preached in Harold's Cross Parish Church to-morrow on "The Moral Challenge of Greyhound Racing," at 11.30 a.m., and "Religion and the Gambling Spirit" at 7 p.m. The preacher will be the Rev. C. C. W. Duggan, B.D.

RACING IN THE UNITED STATES.

MR. SINCLAIR'S AND RANCOCAS STABLE CONNECTION WITH AMERICAN TURF.

Another upset was associated with four big winter races when the good-looking three-year-old Jack Higgins romped away with the Louisiana Derby at Jefferson Park, New Orleans, last Saturday. Jack Higgins, who is by Sweep—Pitant, sported the colours of his owner-trainer, Mr. W. Curran, and was ridden by C. E. Allen, astonished a huge throng by his easy win. The distance was nine furlongs, the value of the race to the winner $15,450, and the time occupied in running 1.52. Jack Higgins was sold by the Himyar Stud at Saratoga yearling sales for $3,000 to Mr. G. C. Winfrey, and was rated as one of the best two-year-olds raced during the winter and early spring meetings in the South last season, and although he failed to make good on the New York tracks he had a few fair races to his credit. Last fall, with a commission from a friend in Chicago, Mr. W. Curran visited the Long Island tracks and claimed the son of Sweep for $6,500, and he certainly has proved a bargain at that price. Jefferson Park meeting just concluded is reported to have broke quits on its two winter meetings, so say late reports from New Orleans.

Handy Mandy Wins Tiajuana Gold Cup.

Handy Mandy, who was badly beaten the previous week-end in the Coffroth Handicap, made some amends for that disappointment to her owner, Mr. E. P. Waggoner, by winning the Tiajuana Gold Cup of $10,000 for three-year-olds and upwards, run at two miles at Tiajuana, March 25th. Much the best in an ordinary field, and overcoming many obstacles, America's one mile and a half record time holder, Handy Mandy, who is by Brown Prince II.—Mandy Hamilton, by John o' Gaunt, beat her nine opponents in 3 mins. 25 1-5 secs.

Earle Sande's Reinstatement Popular.

The reinstatement of Earl Sande by the Maryland Racing Commission has given much satisfaction to American sportsmen. Sande is contract rider for the stable of Mr. Joseph E. Widener this season, and it is whispered that owing to difficulty in making the weights required on the American Turf the year 1929 may see Sande's migration to France to ride for the same interests there. Mr. Widener has maintained an extensive racing establishment in France for many years, and a string of twenty-six horses will carry his colours there this season.

Mr. H. F. Sinclair's Horses Barred.

The chief topic of conversation in racing circles on "Little Old New York" these times is the barring by the Maryland Racing Commission of the horses owned and bred by Mr. H. F. Sinclair. To all fair-minded persons, there is no possible connection between oil, and the scandal pertaining to it, and racing. For many years Mr. Sinclair and his Rancocas stable have held a prominent place. He was first heard of in the sporting world in connection with the boxing arena, and he was one of the backers of Carl Morris, the locomotive engineer, who abandoned the railroad track to fight Jack Johnson. It has been said that Mr. Sinclair wagered many thousands of dollars on Morris, when in a preliminary fight with Jim Flynn he was badly mauled in ten rounds, which put paid to his prospects of taking on the negro champion. Mr. Sinclair next interested himself in the national pastime, baseball; but his entry into this branch of sport cannot be written down as highly successful, and subsequently he took to racing, with which he became fascinated, and decided to establish a big stable. He engaged Samuel C. Hildreth to train his horses, and his first investment in bloodstock, Purchase, cost him 30,000 dollars, and proved a good buy. Thereafter he bought horses on all sides, and also the famous Rancocas Stud Farm in New Jersey, one of the most pretentious in the East, and representing an investment of millions. There are five stallions, about 100 brood mares quartered there, and a host of yearlings and recently-born foals. In addition, Hildreth has some fifty odd horses in training under his care. Zev sported the Rancocas colours when he defeated the Epsom Derby winner, Papyrus, in the first international race in 1923. The Rancocas racers topped this country's winning list for three years—namely, 1921, 1922, and 1923. In the latter year they won the greatest amount of money ever garnered in the annals of the American Turf. Mr. Sinclair reached the crowning point of his racing career when he was appointed a member of the New York State Commission, from which body he resigned two years ago His horses have at all times been raced above board, and are prime favourites with the New York racing public, who go down, hook, line and sinker, when one of the Rancocas candidates is rated a good thing.

Billy Barton's Bad Luck in the Grand National.

As I pen these lines another Grand National has been won and lost, and from what I can gather the American-bred, owned and Irish ridden Billy Barton was the victim of misfortune. Cruel ill-luck seems to have robbed the Baltimore sportsman, Mr. Howard Bruce, of victory in the blue riband of steeplechasing, but there is some consolation for Mr. Bruce and his host of American admirers, that although "Billy" did not win, his sterling performance justified his being sent across the Atlantic in search of international fame. The fine display of Billy Barton will have the effect of encouraging other American sportsmen and lovers of the hazardous chase to send their best steeplechasers across the water in future years and try their luck in the great Aintree race.

While our American sportsmen and Press to-day deplore the bad luck that befel the "invader," they acclaim loudly the success of the despised Irish-bred 'chaser Tipperary Tim, the hero of the hour, and recall the many great Irish horses which year after year proved successful in the Grand National. In passing, I might remind readers that the three-year-old filly, Philip's First by Prince Philip—Othello's First, a half-sister to the Lincoln Handicap hero, was a recent winner at Oriental Park, Havana, and also a winner of three races in the New York racing circuit last season.

A New York Backer of Tipperary Tim.

Because he fancies Irish names, especially when they are real Irish, Mr. Thomas Wood, a publisher, well-known up and down Broadway, has money to burn to-day. On the eve of the Grand National Mr. Wood got in connection with his commissioner to learn the prevailing odds against Tipperary Tim. "Write your own ticket," said the bookmaker. "Does that mean you will lay what they pay in England when the horse wins?" asked Mr. Wood. "It does—the limit lid is off to you for Tipperary Tim." Well, "Tim" won, and Mr. Wood collected his bundle, and "Tipperary" is the popular ballad on Broadway.

The Grand National Described by Wireless.

For the first time the running description of a big sporting event—the Grand National—was transmitted across the Atlantic by telephone. From the racecourse to Baltimore went the voice of Mr. C. P. Williamson, a United Press staff correspondent, who travelled over for the purpose. In Baltimore Mr. Williamson's description was picked up by an announcer and relayed to thousands of radio listeners throughout the country. The start of the race, every jump and every spill was flashed over the wire to Baltimore instantaneously, and, a second later, was being broadcast through station WBAL in Baltimore. Mr. Williamson, through the courtesy of Messrs. Topham, had a point of vantage from which he could witness the full progress of the race. The United Press was given a station at the corner of Tattersall's stands, immediately adjacent to the Press box and opposite the finish. English postal authorities installed special apparatus for the Transatlantic call, which was designed to eliminate the external noises—cheering, etc.—during the race. The speaker was covered with a blanket to eliminate other noises, with sufficient room over the top of the United Press box to view the entire course with field glasses.

The Lord Mayor's fund for the relief of distress in the stricken coalfields now amounts to £69,000. Latest donations include £25 from Cardinal Bourne and £25 from Mr. Lloyd George.

GOLF.

IRISH PROFESSIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP.

A STRONG ENTRY.

For the Irish Professional Championship, which will begin at Rosses Point, Sligo, on Tuesday, with the first and second rounds, and conclude on Wednesday, when the remaining 36 holes will be played, the entry is a representative one, but there is one notable absentee—S. Fairweather, of the Malone Club, a former holder.

Of the thirty-two competitors, ten are from Northern clubs, but with H. McNeill and Leo Wallace among them the opposition to "the South" will be very strong.

The Dublin professionals during the winter had the advantage of being able to keep "fit" by taking part in the Alliance competitions, and several of them are presently playing better than ever. But the best of them will find the reconstructed links of the Co. Sligo club, with its tightened-up greens, fairly difficult. In fact, the improvements suggested by Mr. Colt have transformed the course into a really good golfing test, and not many loose shots to the greens will go unpunished.

THE DRAW.

H. M. & H. M.
10.15 & 1.45—Nolan, W. (Portmarnock) and McDermott, M. (Hermitage).
10.20 & 1.50—Stevenson, P. (Royal Portrush) and Dan Murray (Skerries).
10.25 & 1.55—O'Neill, J. (Howth) and McCourt, J. (Co. Sligo).
10.30 & 2. 0—Hamill, H. (Ormeau) and Pope, C. W. (Fortwilliam).
10.35 & 2. 5—O'Hare, P. (Unattached) and Quinn, J. (Clontarf).
10.40 & 2.10—McNeill, H. (Royal Portrush) and McCavery, W. (Lahinch).
10.45 & 2.15—Travers, T. (Dun Laoghaire) and Sullivan, J. (Bray).
10.50 & 2.20—Mahony, D. (Elm Park) and Doran, J. (Portmarnock).
11. 0 & 2.30—Wallace, R. (Royal Belfast) and Skillen, L. (Donaghadee).
11. 5 & 2.35—Cahill, M. (Galway) and Macnamara, W. E. (Unattached).
11.10 & 2.40—Smyth, F. (Royal Dublin) and FitzHugh, H. H. (Knock).
11.15 & 2.45—Holley, W. (Castle) and Gaffney, T. (Killiney).
11.20 & 2.50—McDowall, G. (Grange) and Martin, J. (Newlands).
11.25 & 2.55—Gaffney, J. (Lucan) and Sawey, P. (Carnalea).
11.30 & 3. 0—Shannon, T. (Milltown) and Hamill, J. (Bangor).

The pairings for the Second and Third Rounds are:—

H. M. & H. M.
10.15 & 2. 0—O'Hare, P. (Unattached) and O'Neill, J. (Howth).
10.20 & 2. 5—Travers, T. (Dun Laoghaire) and McCavery, W. (Lahinch).
10.25 & 2.10—McCourt, J. (Co Sligo) and Mahony, D. (Elm Park).
10.30 & 2.15—Pope, C. W. (Fortwilliam) and Hamill, H. (Ormeau).
10.35 & 2.20—Holley, W. (Castle) and FitzHugh, H. H. (Knock).
10.45 & 2.30—Stevenson, P. (Royal Portrush) and Murray, D. (Skerries).
11. 0 & 2.45—Doran, J. (Portmarnock) and Wallace, R. (Royal Belfast).

11.25 & 3.10—Hamill, J. (Bangor) and McDowall, G. (Grange).
11.30 & 3.15—Quinn, J. (Clontarf) and McDermott, M. (Hermitage).

THE IRISH "OPEN."

AUSTRALIAN CHAMPION ENTERED.

Among the entries received for the Irish Open Championship, to be played for next month at Newcastle, County Down, is that of Rufus Stewart, the open champion of Australia.

Thirty-five years old, Stewart, in addition to winning the Australian title last year, carried off the South Australian championship, and the previous year was runner-up for the Open in his adopted country. He has entered for the Open at Sandwich, and is spoken of as one of the strongest of the overseas contingent.

Abe Mitchell is also coming for the Championship, as are Henry Cotton, Arthur Havers, the brothers Whitcombe and George Gadd, and an Anglo-Irish entrant, whose play will be watched with considerable interest, is Michael Bingham, a native of Tralee. A prodigious hitter, he won the "long-driving" championship in 1924, and in the same year became champion of the English Midlands, the professional championship of the Midlands having come his way the previous year.

Another interesting competitor is A. W. Butchart, a native of Newcastle, who made a big reputation as a clubmaker, and will be re-visiting the links after an absence of many years.

So far only two amateurs have sent on their names—Dr. J. D. McCormack and Mr. N. Manly. On Wednesday, in the Alliance match against the Professionals, Mr. Manly, playing W. Holley almost on level terms, beat him by one hole, and it is doubtful if Dr. MacCormack ever played as good a game as he has developed during the last couple of months. In some respects he has effected radical changes in his style; changes which have made for greater power and accuracy, and, even should Major Hezlet not be able to compete, Irish amateur golf will be adequately represented by the Hermitage player.

The entries received so far are:—

Dr. J. D. MacCormack (Hermitage).
Mr. N. Manly (Royal Dublin).
Abe Mitchell (unattached).
H. Cotton (Langley Park).
C. Whitcombe (Crews Hill).
E. R. Whitcombe (Meyrick Park).
M. Bingham (Stourbridge).
G. Gadd (Roehampton).
Rufus Stewart (Koonyonga, Australia).
A. Havers (Coombe Hill).
C. Sayner (Birkdale).
E. Large (Keighley).
A. Butchart (unattached).
L. Holland (Gerard's Cross).
W. Nolan (Portmarnock).
R. Vickers (Heswall).
J. J. Taylor (Potter's Bar).

THE ROEHAMPTON £200 TOURNAMENT.

MITCHELL'S THIRD SUCCESSIVE WIN.

ROEHAMPTON, Friday.

The finest golf which has been played in this country for many years created a sensational final in the Roehampton Cup competition here to-day, and in the result Abe Mitchell beat Fred Robson at the nineteenth hole.

Mitchell had the unfamiliar experience of having to play his second shots first at most of the long holes, and it also was unusual for him to find an opponent as deadly in his short game. The putting was phenomenally good on either side, and both holed long putts on several greens.

Mitchell won on the nineteenth green, after an extraordinary spell of hard luck which befel Robson at the eighteenth. Robson had secured a one hole lead, and all the way home his figures were more often "birdies" than par figures. He was dormy one, but his drive to the eighteenth was caught in the roots of a tree, and he had to play a left-handed shot backwards. Mitchell took his chance to square the match, so that they had to go out again.

At the nineteenth Robson was faced with a four-foot putt to save the issue, with Mitchell's ball on the hole. He just missed, and Mitchell thereby secured his third successive win.

Robson took the lead at the second, and, after losing it at the fourth, he had a succession of three 3's, to become 2 up at the seventh. He missed a putt of less than a yard at the eighth, and turned one up. Mitchell squared at the eleventh with a 3, they halved the twelfth in 2, and the thirteenth in 4's. Then Robson holed a three-yarder for his second 2 at the fourteenth. A halved fifteenth in 4, the sixteenth was sensationally halved in 3. Robson holed a twelve-yarder there, and then came Robson's disaster at the eighteenth.

Robson had had a squeak against Robertson in the semi-final round. During the match he played very badly, but he has never played better than he did against the invincible Mitchell in the final. Results:—

SEMI-FINAL ROUND.

Fred Robson (Cooden Beach) beat W. Robertson (West Lancs.)—at the 20th.

FINAL.

NO REPLY FROM HAGEN.

"If the Hagen-Compston match is not played on the dates originally fixed, 27th and 28th of this month, then the match will not be played here," said Mr. H. Le Fleming Shepherd, secretary of the Moor Park Club, yesterday. "It is a case of the original dates or nothing. This perplexing situation has arisen in an unexpected way. Some weeks ago Hagen agreed to accept a challenge of Compston, which had been outstanding for many months, to any professional in the world to a match for a substantial money prize, and shortly afterwards it was announced that the men had agreed on the Moor Park course and the dates mentioned. Hagen sailed from New York to England on Wednesday, so that necessarily the time available to him for practice before Friday next will be extremely short.

A message reached England that he was desirous of a postponement for a short time, and he was quoted as saying that the practice question was uppermost in his mind in making his request. A wireless message was sent to him from London this week informing him in mid-Atlantic that the Moor Park authorities would not consent to a change of dates, and asking him to wireless back any helpful information. So far, no reply has been received to that message.

MAJOR HEZLET WINS SURREY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Major Hezlet, the former Irish Open and Close champion, in the final of the Surrey Championship at St. George's Hill yesterday, beat a fellow-British internationalist, W. L. Hope, by one hole.

Although Hezlet was never behind, he lost a lead of one several times. He got in front at the second, and, after being square at the sixth, turned one up. The pair were level at the fifteenth, and the Irishman became one up and two to play. The seventeenth and eighteenth were halved.

W. L. Hope (St. George's Hill) beat Major Keith Thorburn (Sunningdale) (holder), 2 up.
FINAL—Hezlet beat Hope, 1 up.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT (CRIMINAL)

AN ARMY PAY ORDER.

CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Mary Behan, who appeared in the dock with an infant in her arms, pleaded not guilty to charges of forging and uttering last November a pay order on account of a soldier's marriage allowance by altering the amount from £3 3s. to £30 3s.

Free State Army officers gave evidence as to the issue of the Army order in question for £3 3s.

James Patton, acting manager of the Munster and Leinster Bank, Inchicore, said that when the cheque was presented on November 30 last, he told the woman that the draft could not be paid until the alteration was initialled. He sent for the draft a little later, and forwarded it to the military authorities. It had never been paid. The teller informed him that when presenting the draft the woman said that she did not know whether it was right or not. She thought it was back pay coming to her husband.

Detective Officer Glynn said that he had arrested the accused woman in Waterford. When arrested she said that it was not fair to put this on her, as her husband was present when the cheque came. She knew that it was for £30 3s., instead of the usual fortnightly draft.

Prisoner, in the course of evidence, stated that the draft was in the altered form when she received it. Her husband advised her to take the cheque to the bank and ask them about it.

The husband of the accused woman said, in evidence that the cheque was for £30 3s., and he did not know why it was so big. He was in the Army at that time.

Prisoner was found not guilty of forgery, but guilty of uttering, and was put under a rule of bail to keep the peace for two years.

A member of the jury suggested that in issuing pay orders, the Army authorities should have them crossed with a stamp "not over five pounds," or such like.

STOLEN JEWELLERY.

TWO DUBLIN MEN SENTENCED.

William O'Dea, senior; Patrick O'Dea, and Bridget Kiernan, pleaded not guilty to receiving a gold watch and chain, a wedding ring, sapphire ring, and a sum of £4 on February 14 last, knowing them to have been stolen; also with receiving on February 9 a gold bangle, gold expanding bracelet, and a manicure set.

Mr. Carrigan, prosecuting, said that these articles were obtained as the result of burglaries in Upper Beechwood avenue.

A pawnbroker's assistant gave evidence as to lending £1 to William O'Dea on a wedding ring which, he said, belonged to his mother.

Inspector Cuddihy said that the female prisoner made a statement in which she said that some of the articles had been given to her as a present by young O'Dea. She got suspicious as to where he got further gifts.

Each of the male prisoners made statements on oath denying the charges. The wedding ring was found by Patrick.

In the case of the female prisoner, who also elected to give evidence, a nolle prosequi was entered, and she was discharged.

The jury found both prisoners guilty on each of the counts, and they were sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

LOAN OBTAINED BY FRAUD.

DUBLIN LABOURER SENT TO PRISON.

Thomas Kelly, a man of the labouring class, was found guilty of obtaining a loan on December 21st last by false pretences from Oscar White, a money-lender, of 23 Aungier street, Dublin, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, with hard labour.

The prisoner called on Mr. White and represented himself as an employé of Messrs. Guinness, stating that he was the owner of No. 3 Camac Cottages and its contents. He asked for a loan of £5, and gave as his security a cooper employed in Guinness's. Both the prisoner and this man signed the promissory note. On these representations the loan was granted, the prisoner getting £3 15s. The prisoner did not own the house No. 3 Camac Cottages, nor was the surety that signed the bill a cooper in Guinness's.

PENAL SERVITUDE.

Isaac Carroll, who pleaded guilty to larceny by a trick, by which he obtained money from soldiers, and against whom there were three previous convictions for similar offences, was sent to penal servitude for three years.

EX-SOLDIER SENTENCED.

Joseph Behan, an ex-Free State soldier, was sentenced to four months' imprisonment for an offence against a girl under sixteen years of age.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

PAWNBROKER'S ASSISTANT SENDS FOR DETECTIVE.

(BEFORE MR. KENNY.)

ward Sweeney (20), no business, of 72 Middle Abbey street, Dublin, was remanded in custody, charged with having illegally in his possession a woman's 9-carat gold bracelet watch, valued at about £2 10s.

J. Donnelly, of Mr. Cunningham's pawn office, Marlborough street, said that when he asked defendant where he bought the watch he replied, "At Dundalk for 35s." He also said "It is quite all right; it is my property." Becoming suspicious, he sent for a detective.

Detective Officer Finlayson said that defendant when charged and cautioned made no reply.

AN UNUSUAL CHARGE.

Charged with having, on March 19 last, counselled and procured Andrew Howard (now awaiting trial) to break and enter the house of James Morgan, Orwell road, by keeping a "look-out" while Howard was trying to force open the windows with a table knife, Bernard Rogers (36), of no fixed residence and no address, was remanded in custody for a week.

SERIES OF THEFTS.

SIX BOYS REMANDED.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

According to police statements in the Dublin Juvenile Court, six boys from the Gloucester street area, whose ages ranged from 12 to 15 years, had an enjoyable time for a brief period at the expense of the Dublin public.

They pleaded guilty to having broken into the following premises:—The drapery establishment at 23 Drury lane, stealing property and cash value for £27; Messrs. O'Reilly's, Poolbeg street, stealing tea and sugar value for 11s., recovered by police; International Harvesting Company, Leinster street, stealing property value for £2 17s.; Raleigh Cycle Stores, 6 Leinster street, stealing 16s.; St. Mark's Hall, Westland row, stealing a mandoline, recovered by police; Messrs. Peterson and Co., Pearse street; Messrs. Gilbeys, Clare street; Messrs. Lee and Co., 23-24 Wellington quay, stealing £6 worth of chocolates and cigarettes; dairy shop, 8 Fleet street, stealing 11s. 6d.; Alexander Dixon's, 61 Dawson street, stealing fountain pen value for 32 6d.; a lock-up shop in Arran quay, stealing goods value for 25s.

Inspector Michael O'Callaghan, B Division, said that a "jemmy" and a large variety of housebreaking implements were found in their possession. They admitted that they went to Fairyhouse Races and backed horses, and also to Shelbourne Park, where they backed dogs. On other evenings they went to the picture theatres.

They were remanded to Summerhill till Wednesday.

APPLICATION FOR OCCASIONAL LICENCE.

The application for an occasional licence for the annual ball of the Jubilee Institute of Nurses, to be held in the Plaza Ballroom on August 8 and 9 next, was again mentioned. The application was made by Mr. J. Vincent Brady, solicitor, on behalf of Mr. John Nugent, manager of the Dolphin Hotel, caterer for the function.

When it was intimated to the Justice that the application could not appear that day, the Justice said that he would adjourn the hearing till next Friday. The police were, he understood, opposing the application, and so was a parishioner.

LICENSING PROSECUTIONS.

Mary McGuinness, spirit grocer, Chapelizod, was fined 40s. for keeping her premises open for the illegal sale of drink. A charge of selling drink illegally was dismissed, with a note that it was a proper case to bring.

John Conway, licensed publican, of 4 Upper Stephen street, was fined 20s. for keeping his premises open for the sale of drink after closing hour on February 15 last.

Michael Humphreys, licensed publican, Royal Oak, Dame street, Dublin, was summoned for keeping open after closing hour on a week night last February.

Mr. Cussen, having heard the evidence, expressed the opinion that the case ought to be withdrawn, and adjourned it for a week to enable Mr. J. W. Davis, solicitor for the Civic Guards, to place it before the authorities.

HAVOC AND ROBBERY AT DALKEY.

BOYS' ESCAPADE.

In the Dublin Juvenile Court yesterday, before District Justice Cussen, a remarkable story of destruction at Dalkey was told when seven boys were charged on five summonses with robbery and malicious damage to property. The defendants, all under sixteen, were three sons of one family, three of a second, and one of a third, all three families occupying a good social position.

When the case was before the Court last Friday evidence was given of the damage done, in the month of March, at Khyber Lodge, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, who were away at the time. Valuable furniture, gas and other fittings were smashed, and property, including jewellery belonging to Mrs. Roberts, was stolen. Mrs. Roberts in her evidence said that the house had been left a complete wreck.

Other evidence was that £1 in cash had been stolen from the Sorrento Café, which had been broken into, and that a number of street lamps had been smashed. Mr. McGuckin, counsel for six of the defendants, and Mr. Dixon, solicitor for the seventh, admitted the guilt of the boys, some of whom were remanded to the Summerhill house of detention.

OFFENCES ADMITTED.

At yesterday's hearing the boys were further charged with breaking into the residence Grosvenor House and stealing therefrom £9 10s. in money, and breaking into Ardnacree House and doing damage to the extent of £125. Those offences were also admitted.

Mr. Sean OhUadhaigh, solicitor, who now appeared for Mrs. Roberts, asked the Justice to hold that the parents of the defendants, of whom at least two were in good positions, were responsible for the damage done by their sons. The repairing of the damage done at Khyber Lodge would cost at least £200. If compensation were not paid by the parents, it would have to be met by the County Council and the Urban Council.

Mr. McGuckin submitted that Mr. OhUadhaigh had no locus standi in the Court.

It was explained to the Justice that arrangements had been made to send all the boys to boarding schools, and the Justice bound them all over under the Probation Act. He adjourned for a week his decision on the point raised as to the compensation to the owners of the damaged property.

THE ROYAL VICTORIA EYE AND EAR HOSPITAL.

The Monthly Meeting of the Council of the Royal Victoria Eye and Ear Hospital was held on Wednesday the 18th inst., at 9.30 a.m., the President, Sir George Roche, in the chair. Also present:—Major General Dallas Edge, C.B.; Sir William Thompson, Senator P. J. Brady, Messrs. Alfred T. Collins, F. V. Gordon, Hon. Treasurer; H. C. Mooney, F.R.C.S.I.; Charles H. O'Conor; Hewitt R. Poole, B.L.; L. Werner, F.R.C.S.I.; and the Hon. Secretary, Major Arthur Whewell.

Apology for non-attendance received from Mr. J. Andrew and Mr. F. C. Crawley.

The minutes of last meeting were read and signed.

The report of the Finance Committee was read and approved, and cheques to the amount of £892 1s. 3d. in discharge of bills recommended by the Committee for payment were signed.

On the recommendation of the Medical Board, Dr. Somerville-Large was appointed House Surgeon to the hospital for one year, commencing 1st April, 1928.

The numbers treated at the hospital during the month were as follows:—Intern Department—Admitted 164, discharged 172. Average number of beds occupied, 98.64. The total number of visits paid by extern patients during the month was 2,954, giving an average of 113.6 attended daily throughout the month.

The Council wish to thank all those who so generously supported and contributed to the sale of cakes, eggs and flowers held on the 4th inst., the proceeds of which amounted to £35 3s. 9d.

The following subscriptions received since last meeting are greatfully acknowledged:—Miss Pidgeon, £1; Employés, Dublin Dockyard, £23 4s. 9d.; Miss L. E. Roberts, £1; G. Ledbetter, Esq., £1 1s.; Miss Longfield, £1; Mr. Alfred T. Collins, £3 3s.; Miss Falconer, £2 2s.; R. H. Elmes, £1 10s.; Mrs. Rhode, £1; Mr. G. W. FIVE-YEAR-OLD DUNLOP LITIGATION.

DEFENDANTS WHO HAVE DIED.

Two further actions in the five years old Dunlop litigation were mentioned to Mr. Justice Maugham in the Chancery Division, London, on Thursday—the Dunlop Rubber Co., Ltd., v. Ormrod and the Dunlop Rubber Cotton Mills, Ltd., v. Ormrod.

Mr. Droop, for the companies, stated that the first action had been discontinued against two of the defendants a long time ago, and had abated against the other defendant, Mr. Ormrod, who had died.

The Judge—It will be marked "abated," and no order made.

Mr. Droop said that in the second case the first two defendants were dead, and the action against them was abated. The other defendant, Dr. Worthington, was living, and Mr. Carthew, who represented him, agreed to the action standing over generally, with liberty to apply to restore it.

The Judge—Very well.

DAIL EIREANN.

TRAFFIC DIVERTED TO THE NORTH.

EFFECT OF FREE STATE RAILWAY RATES.

"A FLIGHT OF IMAGINATION."

Dail Eireann, at short sitting yesterday, passed the estimate for the Railway Tribunal. Several members complained that traffic, which, in the ordinary course, should go by the Great Southern Railways and the Free State ports, was being diverted to Northern Ireland, and demanded that the Tribunal should investigate the matter.

Mr. John Good said that the rates were lower on the railways in the Six Counties than on the Great Southern line, and traders could not be blamed for sending their goods by the cheapest route.

MEMBER'S COMPLAINT.

"FLIGHT OF IMAGINATION" EXPLAINED.

Mr. SEAN LEMASS (F.F., South Dublin) said that he wished to make some remarks with reference to the reports concerning the previous day's discussion in the Dail, which appeared in the issues of both the Dublin daily papers that morning.

"These papers," he said, "by the courtesy of the Dail, are entitled to have their representatives here for the purpose of getting speedy reports of the business done, but when inaccurate and altogether misleading reports appear, it is necessary, I think, that attention should be drawn to the fact. The House will recollect that on the railway vote yesterday I moved to reduce the amount by the sum of £27,360. Both papers state that the vote which I was moving to reduce was for £25,636. The vote was, in fact, for £52,136. There is no such figure mentioned throughout the estimate as £25,636. It is a pure concoction which originated in the imagination of the reporters present, and nowhere else

"The difficulty that arose was due to the fact that a vote on account had been passed by the House amounting to one-third of the total estimate in each case. The proposal, therefore, to reduce the entire vote by the entire amount of a single sub-head was considered to be irregular, and it was necessary to reduce the amount mentioned in the amendment. It was a difficulty which might easily arise, and when it did arise and was detected it was very easily remedied.

"FLIGHTS OF IMAGINATION."

"I do not wish to say anything else in the matter. We hope we will get a fair report of the proceedings here in the Press, and that there will be at least nothing in the nature of flights of imagination, such as we have had on this occasion. The reference which I made during the debate on that estimate to the colliery railway was also misrepresented and reported in a manner which gave an entirely wrong impression of what I did say. I presume that was due to the fact that the discussion was not understood by the Press representatives present. In the other case, however, that interpretation cannot possibly be placed on their action. They have concocted a figure for which there was no justification whatever."

Mr. McGILLIGAN (Minister for Industry and Commerce)—I am not interested in the dispute between Deputy Lemass and the newspapers, but in the interests of accuracy the vote moved for yesterday (Vote No. 57) was that a sum not exceeding £25,636 be granted to complete the sum necessary to defray the charge, which will come in course of payment during the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1929.

Mr. LEMASS—Will you tell me where that amount is given? It has not appeared on the Order Paper or in the estimate.

Mr. COSGRAVE — That is the sum I moved.

Mr. McGILLIGAN—Of which already one-third has been granted.

RAILWAY TRIBUNAL.

Mr. COSGRAVE moved that a sum of £5,065 be voted to complete the amount necessary to derfray the salaries and expenses of the Railway Tribunal under the Railways Act, 1924.

Mr. S. MOORE (F.F., Wicklow) said that he would like some more information about the working of the Tribunal. Was the Minister for Industry and Commerce satisfied that it would bring about useful reforms? How many generations were to pass before the Act was fully implemented? When would the Tribunal be able to deal with the ports? They all knew that the western ports had not had their fair share of traffic.

Mr. M. O'REILLY (F.F., Meath) asked for a better and more humane transport system. He said that they were completely out of date in the transport of livestock.

Mr. F. AIKEN (F.F., Louth) asked the Minister to give some assurance that the Railway Tribunal would give serious attention to the practice that had been going on of diverting traffic from such ports as Dundalk, Greenore, Drogheda and Sligo to ports in Northern Ireland. He said that it was the duty of the Railway Tribunal to deal with this matter, and if it did not fulfil that duty the Minister should set up some body that would.

Mr. M'GILLIGAN said that the Railway Tribunal was restricted in its functions by the Act. Many of the matters raised in the debate might have been raised before the Tribunal by interested parties, such as the traders who, he asserted, had not done their duty before the Tribunal.

TRADERS BLAMED.

Mr. GOOD (Ind., Dublin Co.)—Does the Minister say that the traders have not been represented before the Tribunal? I say that is not so.

Mr. M'GILLIGAN—Their activity has practically ceased, and the work that should have been done by certain interested traders has been done by officials of my department.

Mr. GOOD—When the traders appear before the Tribunal they are told that, owing to the statutory regulations, the standard revenue must be maintained.

Mr. McGILLIGAN said that the Tribunal was set up to fulfil certain definite functions. It had already carried out two of its functions—to establish classification and to determine the standard revenue—and the work of fixing the standard charges was now proceeding. He thought that the Tribunal had been carrying out the duties for which it was set up.

Mr. W. DAVIN (Lab., Leix-Offaly) said that the matter raised by Deputy Aiken was an important one, and it was the duty of the Tribunal to investigate any preferential treatment in the way of through rates given to Ports in Northern Ireland as against ports in the Saorstat. If the amalgamated company was a party to those through rates it would be open to the Tribunal to investigate the matter. He wanted to know what traders were represented before the Tribunal, and who they were represented by.

SMALLER REVENUE.

Mr. GOOD said that, so far as he knew, the traders were represented at every meeting of the Tribunal, but the difficulty they encountered was that the original Act set out that the standard revenue must be maintained. The revenue of the railways had been falling owing to the competition of other forms of transport. If the rates had to be reduced to meet that competition how could the standard revenue be maintained?

The traders had been represented at every meeting of the Railway Tribunal so far as he knew. But what could they do? How could they put forward a case for standard revenue on a falling income? It was common knowledge that the rates were lower on the railways in the Six Counties than in the Twenty-six Counties, and they could not blame traders for sending their goods over the cheapest routes, and that was what was happening to-day.

Trade was going over Northern railways and through Northern ports because it was the cheaper way. If they wanted that traffic diverted to Southern ports and railways they would have to get some means of lowering the rates, and if they did that, they would have to find means of meeting the question of standard revenue.

Mr. HUGO FLINN (F.F., Cork City) said that the present difficulty was caused by the inept legislation in regard to amalgamation of railways.

In regard to the appointed day, Mr. McGILLIGAN said that it could not be fixed until such time as the standard charges were fixed, and he could not say when that would take place.

On a division, the vote was passed by 73 votes to 50.

VACCINATION.

The debate on the second reading of the Vaccination (Amendment) Bill, 1928, was resumed.

Mr. G. WOLFE (Govt., Kildare) said that in the past smallpox had devastated whole populations, and the only relief was got from vaccine. He agreed that improved sanitation had a great deal to do with suppressing the disease; but without vaccination there would be a great danger of communities being attacked. He hoped that the law with regard to vaccination would be continued.

Mr. J. J. BYRNE (Govt., North Dublin), supporting the measure, said that compulsory vaccination did not result in the complete immunity from smallpox. Medical men told them that vaccination, to be effective, should be repeated every seven years; and if that were so, why did not the medical profession demand that it should be done, and not be content with vaccinating infants.

Mrs. COLLINS O'DRISCOLL said that the conscience clause, if passed into law, would give two classes of mothers—those who were foolishly fond of their children and those who were careless—an excuse for evading vaccination.

Mr. M. P. CONNOLLY (Govt., Longford-Westmeath) said that it had not been established that children who were vaccinated were immune from small-pox for even six months. Why should they inflict pain and possibly the death of their children to give them immunity from a possible contraction of disease for a period of six months? The general opinion of 90 per cent. of the people of the country was that the fear of smallpox was now a bogey. He held that vaccination should be left to the decision of the father and mother of the child.

MINISTER'S OPPOSITION.

Mr. MULCAHY, Minister for Local Government and Public Health, said that his opposition to the bill was very strong, and he was supported by the highest medical opinion. There was no body of medical opinion in favour of the bill, while the official medical bodies had passed strong resolutions in favour of the existing vaccination laws. It was untrue to suggest that the Local Government Department had not seriously assisted the local bodies to carry out the vaccination laws, because the number of children vaccinated as compared with the number of births rose from 38 per cent. in 1922 to about 95 per cent. in 1927.

Their experience had been that the present Vaccination Act was justified, and that such modification as had been made in England had brought about the really disastrous position in regard to smallpox that existed. There was, it was true, a danger to Ireland owing to the existence of smallpox in England, but they were taking every precaution to see that the disease was not carried by any old clothes that might be taken into the country.

He knew of no means, however, by which they could detect persons who, while not showing signs of the disease when they came into the country, showed symptoms a few days afterwards.

A FURTHER DANGER.

In any outbreak of smallpox in this country there a sadditional danger in the fact that a very small percentage of their medical men had any experience of the disease.

In the last eleven cases of smallpox in the country there was additional danger in the disease from the houses in which it occurred because of the very vigorous medical steps taken. All the medical evidence showed them that vaccination could safeguard people from losses and disabilities consequent on smallpox.

As to calf lymph, he doubted if it was prepared as carefully in any country as it was in Ireland. Deputies had a big responsibility in the matter, and they should reject the bill.

Mr. G. BOLAND (F.F., Roscommon), supporting the bill, said that he failed to see why parents should be called upon to take the risk of their children contracting some loathsome disease through vaccination when there was no outbreak of smallpox threatened. He had asked doctors if they had their own children vaccinated, and a number told him that they had not. In other words, they were in favour of vaccination for the people's children, but not their own.

Mr. COSGRAVE said that, so far as he could recollect or find out, there was never any document sent out by the Local Government Department in 1919 intimating that the vaccination laws were not to be enforced, and he was certain that there was no Dail decree in the matter.

Progress was reported, and the House adjourned till Wednesday next.

RATHMINES URBAN COUNCIL STAFF.

THE PROPOSED REVISION OF SALARIES.

Mr. John Healy, a member of the Rathmines and Rathgar Urban District Council, writes to call attention to the proposed revision and increase of officials' salaries. He says that the statement submitted at a recent meeting of the Council showed the present salaries of thirty-two officials, the proposed increases, the future periodical increments and the maximum salaries. It did not, however, show the positions held by these officials, and "other most important information was omitted," namely, the present total salary and emoluments paid to each of these officials during the year. "The recommendation of the Salaries Committee, approved by the Council, represent, in the majority of cases, an increase of about 20 per cent. on the existing salary, while in others this salary is considerably higher." If the proposed revision of salaries is approved by the Local Government Department the actual annual payments will also be further automatically increased. There may be, and probably are, some individual cases that deserve consideration with a view to a reasonable revision of salary, but the adoption of a recommendation for a wholesale all-round increase, and the suppression of facts having an important bearing on the position, compels the reflection whether those people who advocate the complete abolition of elective bodies and their replacement by Commissioners or paid managers are not correct in their conclusions."

DUBLIN CAMERA CLUB.

At the annual general meeting of the Dublin Camera Club, held on Thursday, the hon. secretary, Mr. J. L. Campion, reported on what had been a very successful year. At the Irish Salon last September, nine members had fifty-five exhibits. There was a credit balance of £10 9s. 4d.

The following were elected:—Patron—Mr. A. Werner. President—Mr. H. M. Dockrell. Vice-Presidents—Messrs. George Prescott, T. H. Mason and G. J. Singleton. Hon. Secretary—Mr. J. L. Campion. Hon. Treasurer—Miss F. Adams.

PENSIONS FOR GAS WORKERS.

Yesterday's issue of the Dublin Gazette contains a notice of an application for a private bill to empower the Limerick Corporation to grant employés of the Corporation's gas undertaking pensions or gratuities.

Mr. Patrick Macken, Lecarrow, whose death took place in Jervis Street Hospital, Dublin, was brother of Dr. H. Macken, Custume Barracks, Athlone.

LUCAN TRAMWAY RE-OPENING.

A DELAY FEARED.

COUNTY COUNCIL'S DEMAND.

Unless some satisfactory agreement can be reached between the Dublin United Tramway Company and the Dublin County Council there is every likelihood that the work of reconstructing the Dublin to Lucan tramway line and the re-opening of the service will be held up in its final stages.

It had been anticipated that the scheme of relaying the line would have been completed and that the trams would be running in the month of May. The work is almost complete, and for some time cars have been running over the greater portion of the line for the conveyance of the workers to and from the city. In all several hundred men have been engaged on the work, of whom almost 80 were from Lucan and district.

THE NEW DIFFICULTY.

The permanent way is ready from the Parkgate terminus to within a short distance of Lucan Bridge, and the standards and overhead wires have been put up all the way to the terminus at Dodsboro' corner, near the Spa Hotel.

A serious difficulty has now arisen. The company carried out the work of erecting the standards and overhead wires along the right-hand side of the road over the old line from Lucan Bridge to the Lucan terminus with the intention of running the tramcars on that side of the road, as had been done by the old company. The County Council authorities, it appears, have now intervened, and insist that the tram-line must be run on the opposite side of the road—that instead of crossing the road at the foot of the Convent Hill the line must continue along that side for the rest of the way to the terminus. The work on this section is now almost at a standstill until this deadlock is got out of the way. It is a pity that it should have occurred, as the line is, to all intents and purposes, finished as far as Lucan. The only outstanding work is the erection of the overhead high-tension cable. With day and night "shifts" working, the whole work should be completed in a short time. But if the trouble about the Dodsboro' section of the road is not surmounted, the service will be hung up, or passengers will be taken only as far as Convent Hill.

RE-OPENING AWAITED.

There are interesting changes on the line, especially at Chapelizod, where it runs straight along one side of the road, instead of having the old cross over. The residents of the districts through which the line runs are keenly awaiting the re-opening of the tramway service. There is a general feeling that, with an assured and steady tram service, there will be great development in building along the route. At Ballydowd and other places en route building sites are offered, and it is generally assumed that these will be taken as soon as the service is restored. Apart from that, however, there is the natural desire of thousands of Dublin citizens to see the service to Lucan restored, so that the beauties of the district may once again be freely approached.

If the trouble between the company and the County Council can be patched up there is no reason why the service should not be in full swing within a few weeks, in time for the opening of the holiday season.

PROTESTANT ORPHAN SOCIETY.

PREPARING FOR CENTENARY YEAR.

"I cannot say I feel altogether cheerful about the position of affairs as far as our funds are concerned," the Archbishop of Dublin said yesterday, when presiding at the annual general meeting of the Protestant Orphan Society at 21 Molesworth street, Dublin. "There is a debit balance of nearly £400; this is not a little disquieting," His Grace continued. "I hope that it does not indicate any serious or real decrease in public interest in the work. I think that we shall be able to test this better in the year on which we are now entering, the centenary year of the Society. It has been very wisely decided to inaugurate a Centenary Fund, and I am particularly glad to see that it is proposed to seek the interest and co-operation of those who at one time or another have been under the protection of this Society.

"There are many cases in which young people who have been brought under the Society's guidance and governance have reached good positions in the world. There is nothing more right than that this fund should be brought before their notice, and that, having benefited, and benefited substantially by this work, they should now give something in return for what they have received"

THE REPORT.

The report of the year's work was read by the Rev. J. Tobias. On November 30, 1928, the Society will have completed its 100th year. The Centenary Fund is to be created to commemorate this event, and subscriptions are asked from all interested in the work, and from those who in the past have been on the Society's books. It is hoped that there will be a good response to the appeal, the proceeds of which will be invested, and the income applied either to increase the present average grant of £12 a year paid for orphans, which is considered inadequate, or in any other way that may commend itself to the Committee.

The income from offertories, card collections, subscriptions and donations for the year ending January 31st, 1928, was as follows:—Offertories, £559 17s. 3d.; card collections, £845 16s. 1d.; subscriptions and donations, £201 8s. The offertories show an increase of £26 18s. 3d.; card collections, a decrease of £126 10s. 4d.; subscriptions and donations show a decrease of £63 7s. 0d. The decrease is mainly due to amounts being paid in after the accounts for the year had closed. The year closed with a debit balance of £394 10s. 4d. Legacies received during the year amounted to £789 15s. 4d. National War Bonds redeemed amounted to £1,071 2s. 1d., which, with the McCabe Bequest, £1,000, makes total amount invested £2,860 17s. 5d.

THE ORPHANS.

The number of orphans on the roll at the beginning of the year was 292, and there were admitted during the year 37 children, as compared with 29 in the previous year, making a total of 329, as compared with 346 in 1926. Apprenticed during 1927, or otherwise provided for, 23; given up to mothers or friends, 28; provided for by other institutions, 8. On roll at close of year, 21st January, 1928, 270.

Dr. T. G. Moorhead proposed the adoption of the report, and suggested that in publishing it a little more detail should be added as to the way in which the money is distributed.

The Rev. Canon W. M. Weir seconded, and the report was adopted.

THE CLAIMS OF THE SOCIETY.

Mr. George Shannon proposed a resolution that the meeting expresses its thankfulness to the contributors and collectors for their support, and commending the claims of the Society to the members of the Church in the United Diocese. He said that he hoped that the result of the Centenary Fund would be an increase in the subscriptions. It would not be a bit too much, he said, if the Committee were in a position to double the amount of the grant.

Sir William Smyly seconded the resolution.

The appointment of Mr. Archibald Robinson as trustee in succession to the Rev. J. C. Irwin, deceased, was proposed by the Rev. H. C. Cave and seconded by the Rev. J. Haythornthwaite.

A vote of thanks to the Archbishop for presiding and to the speakers who addressed the meeting was proposed by the Rev. J. Tobias, and seconded by the Rev. J. G. D. Pyper, Rector of Swords.

ARMY OFFICERS RESIGN.

The resignations of Captain Luke Henry O'Brien, Captain William Bruen and Lieutenant Michael Kennedy from the Irish Free State Army have been accepted by the Executive Council.

The undermentioned officers have been permitted to retire, and have been appointed officers in the Reserve of Officers:—Colonel Thomas Francis Fitzpatrick, Commandant Alphonsus O'Neill, Commandant John Haughey, Commandant Isaiah Conroy, Lieutenant John Lynch, Lieutenant Henry John O'Flanagan, Second Lieutenant Francis Curran, and Second Lieutenant Laurence Clancy.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

DUBLIN'S WOMAN'S PROPERTY.

DISPUTED WILL AND CODICIL.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

The hearing was resumed of the action in which Joseph H. Dowling, 59 Belgrave square, Rathmines, seeks to establish a will dated 3rd February, 1927, and a codicil dated 10th February, 1927, of Mrs. Annie J. Cummins, formerly of 60 Belgrave square, Rathmines, who died in June, 1927. The will is contested on the usual statutory grounds by Thomas King Moylan, Christina Gorman, the Rev. James Hackett, and Mary Grace Doyle, all of whom, except the last-named, also allege undue influence against the plaintiff.

Mr. Lynch, K.C., Mr. Dickie, K.C., Mr. A. E. Burne and Mr. Binchy (instructed by Mr. F. J. Allen) appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. Wood, K.C., Mr. Rearden, K.C., and Mr. T. Finlay (instructed by Mr. J. Fagan) for the Rev. James Hackett; Mr. Henry, K.C., Mr. Hughes, K.C., and Mr. Tobias (instructed by Messrs. Hardman and Sons) for Thomas King Moylan and Mrs. Christina Gorman; and Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C., Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Joseph Mooney (instructed by Mr. J. J. Morrin) for Mrs. Mary Grace Doyle.

Mr. Wood, addressing the jury, submitted that the will of 3rd February was not made of Mrs. Cummins's own volition. The fact, he said, that "Babsey" Ryan locked the old lady up in her room showed how completely Miss Ryan had Mrs. Cummins under her dominion. The talk about bringing her bread and milk was all humbug. There were two persons absolutely in control of Mrs. Cummins on 15th December—Dowling and Miss Ryan—one of her person and the other of her property. He charged these two people with working together, safely as they thought, and unseen, bringing documents in existence for the further acts of depredation on which they were engaged. Not a soul was told of the power of attorney given to Dowling to manage Mrs. Cummins's affairs. Why the silence? Then they came to the 3rd February—the making of the will and the last act in the play. Mr. Allen, the nominee of Dowling, was brought to the house to have the will executed; but Dowling never let the mind of Allen meet the mind of Mrs. Cummins, if there was any mind there. Dowling, on his own admission, was impecunious, and had such power over the old lady that he got her to sign a document agreeing to accept 15s. a week for the past and accruing rent due. The fact that Mrs. Cummins signed rent receipts and cheques was a matter of habit. They were automatic acts and had no mind behind them. Under the will of 3rd February the scheme was to rob the relatives, and Dowling came in for the first time. Miss Ryan told them that Mrs. Cummins told her to write to Father Hackett informing him of the new will of 3rd February, but that she did not bother about it. This was an order from a woman who they were told was stern and exacting, with an alert mind. All the talk about an alert mind was humbug. The old lady was stupid, as Dr. Hayes said, and Miss Ryan knew she was safe in not obeying the orders of the testatrix.

CLERGYMAN'S EVIDENCE.

The Rev. James Hackett, one of the defendants, stated that he visited Mrs. Cummins on Sunday, 13th June, 1926. She was seated at a table and seemed as if she were going to have a fit of apoplexy. He asked her if she had made a will, and she said she never had, and then asked the witness to help her. The following day (Monday, June 14th) he came back to No. 60 Belgrave square, and at 5 o'clock in the evening he wrote the will at Mrs. Cummins's dictation. The witness had up to then never heard anything about her property, nor did he know the names of the houses, or where they were situated. Mrs. Cummins dictated the will word for word. When the question of witnesses arose the name of Mr. Dowling was mentioned, and Mrs. Cummins got into a rage, and said that she would not allow him to have anything to do with the will. Witnesses were found whom he did not know, and they and Mrs. Cummins signed in the presence of each other, and in his presence. By that will Mrs. Cummins bequeathed to Mary Grace Doyle, her sister, the house No. 60 Belgrave square, with all its furniture, lands, etc.; the houses, Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 Belgrave terrace, and the house, No. 37 Upper Mount Pleasant. To Miss May Ryan she left No. 5 Belgrave terrace and 59 Belgrave square. The houses, Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 Kensington terrace she directed to be divided equally between Julia Moylan and Christina Gorman. To her cousin, Kate Hayden, she left No. 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 Gulistan terrace, and to the witness all her shares in the Dublin Suburban Dwellings Co., Ltd.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lynch the witness said that he wanted to break the Dowling will. He would not accept anything under the will of 1926. He wished to rectify his position by having the will of 1920 accepted.

Questioned by Mr. Justice Sullivan as to what he meant by saying that he was deceived by Miss Ryan, the witness said that Miss Ryan wrote to him some time about December before the last will was made, saying that Mrs. Cummins had a bad turn; that she did not know that she was in her own house; said that she was never in the house before, and asked to be brought to her own home.

Mrs. McKell proved that the signature to the will of 1926 as witness was that of her husband, Robert McKell, who died last December.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN.

Mr. Henry, addressing the jury on behalf of Thomas Moylan and Mrs. Christina Gorman, said that on the evidence given he wished unreservedly to withdraw any charge of undue influence against the Rev. Father Hackett in connection with the will of June, 1926. Counsel then detailed the provisions of a will made by Mrs. Cummins in July, 1920, and said that the document was drawn up by Mr. Hardman, of Hardman and Sons, solicitors. Under it the testatrix left £50 for Masses; £100 to Mrs. Julia Moylan; to Mary Grace Doyle, her sister, to whom she frequently sent money in France, half of her estate after the payment of money legacies; to Christina Gorman, a cousin, one-quarter share of her estate. Here she had provided for the two persons who had a real claim, her full sister and her cousin, Mrs Gorman, who had come to reside with her as an adopted daughter. To Miss Nelly Hayden, her third adopted daughter, she left one-quarter share of the estate, in the event of Mrs. Doyle pre-deceasing her. The Rev. Father Hackett was no relation, and was not mentioned in the will. Neither was J. H. Dowling, the tenant, who did not pay his rent, and who, when pressed, said that the only thing he did was to go up a ladder and look at the roof. Mr. Moylan and Christina Hayden were the executors of that will, made when Mrs. Cummins was in full possession of her faculties. Dealing with the will of 1926, drawn up by Father Hackett, counsel pointed out it had many errors and wrong descriptions and names. When making it she could not remember what her property was and who were the objects of her bounty. He suggested that Mrs. Cummins had no disposing powers then

MEDICAL EVIDENCE.

Mr. Tobias read the evidence of Sir Arthur Chance, taken on commission, which was to the effect that Mrs. Cummins was suffering from senile dementia for two or three years, and was unlikely to know the people who had claims on her in February, 1927, and June, 1926.

Dr. Richard Shaw said that he knew Mrs Cummins's family well. He called in January, March and April, 1926, to attend Mrs. Gorman, when he met Mrs. Cummins frequently. She did not know him until he told her his name. On several occasions he met her after, and each time she did not know him. One day he met her going up the stairs and spoke to her. Fifteen minutes later, when the witness was going away, he went to bid Mrs. Cummins good-bye and she did not know him. In his opinion, Mrs. Cummins was not capable of making a will in January, March or April. 1926.

Cross-examined by Mr. Lynch—On his first visit in January, 1926, he commented upon the great change that he saw in the old lady to Mrs. Gorman and Mrs. Moylan. He was thirty-five years a doctor, and this was the first time that he was called as a witness in a will suit. Mrs. Cummins was not a patient of his.

The further hearing was adjourned to to-day.

DUBLIN MATRIMONIAL SUITS.

THE WIFE'S CASE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

The hearing was resumed of the consolidated actions in which James Edward Behan, of 60 Grove Park, Rathmines, petitions for a divorce from his wife, Olive Norman Behan, on the grounds of alleged adultery and cruelty; and Mrs. Behan petitions for a divorce from her husband on the grounds of alleged cruelty. Each denies the allegations made by the other.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., Mr. Hughes, K.C., and Mr. Cherry (instructed by Mr. W. J. Keery) were for Mr. Behan; and Mr. Wood, K.C., Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C., and Mr. McGuckin (instructed by Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons) for Mrs. Behan.

Further evidence was given on behalf of Mr. Behan, some of which had bearing on his confinement in Grangegorman Mental Hospital, and was with the object of showing that no sign of insanity had ever been seen in him.

There was also evidence regarding Mr. Behan's complaint against his wife on the occasion of a dance in 1921.

The case for the husband having closed,

Mr. Fitzgerald opened the case for Mrs. Behan, who, he said, from being an employé of James Edward Behan, when she was Miss Robinson, became his wife, and lived apparently on the most excellent terms with him up to 1918 or 1919. In 1921, when she remonstrated with her husband about matters which counsel mentioned, Mr. Behan, apparently for the first time, entertained suspicions of her. In 1922 she issued a summons against Behan, and some time in November or December, 1922, his attitude became cruel; at any rate, he was no longer the affectionate husband. In 1924, or possibly towards the end of 1923, he used his hand, on which he wore a ring, for the purpose of striking her, and she bore the marks on her arms and shoulders afterwards. In 1926 he assaulted her so badly that she had to go to a firm of solicitors and get them to write to him, and his conduct became so bad before the 21st July, 1927, that she had to enlist the services of Mr. Moynihan to interview him and get a statement of his complaints, and to try to get him to improve his conduct. The suggestion that Mrs. Behan was responsible for her husband's incarceration in Richmond Lunatic Asylum was one of the most disgraceful things in this case, because the order of committal was made by a Dublin magistrate on the advice of the divisional doctor who examined Behan.

Mrs. Behan was then examined by Mr. Wood, and, in the course of her evidence, speaking generally, she said that from the time of the marriage up to 1921 her husband was always very cross. She deposed to an incident which she said occurred about eight o'clock on a morning in July, 1921. Her husband, she said, came into her bedroom; she was in bed. He had a razor in his hand and he drew it across her neck and threatened to kill her.

Some further questions were being put by counsel as to what took place on the occasion, but Mrs. Behan seemed to hesitate and was very slow in giving replies.

Mr. Justice Hanna asked her if she was embarrassed in giving her evidence in presence of the crowd of people present in Court.

Mrs. Behan said that she did not like it.

Mr. Justice Hanna then directed that the Court should be cleared.

This having been done, the examination of Mrs. Behan was continued, and in further evidence she denied the truth of her husband's account of what occurred on the occasion of the dance already referred to. Part of his account she described as a lie. She further said that he was drunk at the time.

In replies to other questions dealing with matters in the petition, Mrs. Behan said that she left the house three times on account of her husband's violence. He was always telling her to leave the house.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Mr. Behan said you threatened to commit suicide three times: have you ever threatened to commit suicide?

Witness—No.

She also denied, in answer to Mr. Wood, that she became hysterical and beat her head against the wall because her husband refused to have anything to say to her.

The evidence of Mrs. Behan had not concluded, when the further hearing was adjourned until Monday.

ACTION BY LEVER BROTHERS.

INJUNCTION AGAINST A TRAVELLER.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

A case of Lever Bros., Ltd., Port Sunlight, Chester, against William Rourke, of 36 North Circular road, Dublin, was listed.

Mr. Morgan Byrne (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Sons), on behalf of the plaintiffs, said that this was an application for an injunction to restrain the defendant from communicating with any customers of the plaintiffs in connection with the defendant's business relations with such customers on behalf of the plaintiffs, and from endeavouring to collect from such customers, or any of them, any accounts which may be owing by them to the plaintiffs, and from printing, distributing, or circulating in Saorstat Eireann or elsewhere, any circulars or communications to any persons relating to the plaintiff's business. The defendant, said counsel, was for many years a traveller in the employment of the plaintiffs, and certain disputes arose regarding money that the defendant alleged he was entitled to. In April, 1927, the defendant issued a summons claiming an account in respect of this money, and was assisted by senior and junior counsel and a very able solicitor. The plaintiffs sent over an auditor and an assistant to go over the accounts, and the accounts were fully gone into by the solicitor and all the advisers of the defendant, and although the plaintiffs were satisfied that very few of the items were sustainable they came to a settlement with the defendant to end the matter. It was clear that the defendant and his advisers thought that the settlement was a most excellent one. The defendant was to get £50 for costs and £75 for himself. That consent was entered into on the 3rd March, 1928, and it was made a rule of Court by his lordship. On the 16th March the payment was made, and in the receipt the defendant undertook that he would not in any way communicate with any customers of Lever Bros., Ltd., in connection with any business relations that he might have had with such customers in the past on behalf of Lever Bros., Ltd., or endeavour to collect from such customers any accounts which might be owing by them to Lever Bros., Ltd. The ink had hardly dried on the document when the defendant commenced a bombardment of the plaintiffs, threatening them with thousands of circulars that he said he would write to their customers, saying that he had been defrauded, and sending the plaintiffs letters making all kinds of charges. Having regard to these letters the plaintiffs asked for an injunction.

Mr. Dickie, K.C., who, with Mr. Conolly (instructed by Mr. Michael Noyk), appeared for the defendant, said that there had been no disclosure of the letters that had passed between the defendant and the plaintiffs, and the letter on which the plaintiffs were basing their application for an injunction was "the Jewish agreement letter." What the defendant threatened to do was to find out from customers whether at the time the settlement was made, certain accounts had been paid to Lever Bros. The defendant's case was that at the time the settlement was entered into, an account was made up, in which there was debited against his commission certain sums as bad debts which he ascertained had been paid, and he wrote a letter to know if the account had been paid to Lever Bros. The defendant, if he had paid Lever Bros. was entitled to collect the amount that he had paid. He said, "As I have had to pay the account to Lever Bros. I want to be paid the amount of the account by you." That was not in the consent at all. The original consent was simply for the payment of £75 and £50, and there was not a word in it about the defendant undertaking to do anything. Counsel submitted that this was not a case for an injunction.

Mr Justice Meredith said that the letters, particularly those written to the plaintiffs, were the most scandalous that he had ever read, and he could not regard them as being written simply with the bona fide object of obtaining information. He granted an injunction pending the hearing of the action.

AN UNATTENDED VAN.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

In an action for damages for personal injuries suffered by Mary Carter and Kathleen Carter, and for loss incurred by William Carter, of Aldboro' Parade, Dublin, in which Lipton, Ltd., were the defendants,

Mr. Cawley (instructed by Mr. Samuel Henry) mentioned that the action had been settled. the defendants paying £100 and costs to the plaintiffs, and he applied to have the consent to the settlement made a rule of Court. Counsel said that the action arose out of the defendants' workman leaving a motor van unattended on the public street A boy got into the van and started the engine, and the van went on to the footpath, striking Mrs. Carter and her daughter, knocking them down and injuring them.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne received the consent and made it a rule of Court.

Messrs. Hoey and Denning, solicitors, were for the defendants.

CLARE BUSINESS MAN'S AFFAIRS.

EXAMINATION IN BANKRUPTCY COURT.

In the Bankruptcy Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Johnston, Francis O'Dea, a bankrupt, who carried on the business of licensed publican, grocer and undertaker at Kildysart, County Clare, was examined with a view of ascertaining the extent of his interest in the shop, business and property now in his possession, but which formerly belonged to his father-in-law, James Hehir, and also what interest he had in a ship that was known as the Glencloy, which plied on the Shannon, and was owned by about fifteen or sixteen traders in the town of Kildysart, together with certain stocks and shares now standing in the names of the executors of James Hehir, deceased.

James Hehir died in 1916, and his daughter, the wife of the bankrupt, died in 1921 intestate and without issue.

The bankrupt stated that the entire business and the shares in the ship belonged to his wife, and that it was transferred to him after her death. Under James Hehir's will his son, Patrick Hehir, who was described as a "ne'er-do-well," became entitled to a legacy, and he (the bankrupt) purchased from Patrick his rights under the will for £160. The negotiations for purchase were carried on through a Limerick solicitor.

It appeared that there were two nephews of Mrs O'Dea, named O'Meehan, who became entitled to legacies, and that the executors held that any debts that were owing by the bankrupt's wife should be paid before they distributed the assets.

The examination was adjourned.

Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., with whom was Mr. Gavan Duffy (instructed by Messrs. E. F. Collins and Son) appeared for the assignees.

CHURCH OF IRELAND WIDOWS' FUND.

The Board of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund (Church of Ireland) met on Thursday, 19th inst. The Chairman (Mr. J. A. Maconchy) presided. The other members attending were the Dean of Limerick, the Dean of Christ Church, Canon Lockett Ford, the Rev. J. H. Yates, the Earl of Belmore, Major Wellesley, Mr. Garvey, and Mr. Ferrar.

One case was investigated. After consideration of the advice of the actuary and of the medical certificate, the Board decided, as enabled by Section 11 (b) not to enrol.

Permission to continue membership at a revised rate was granted to a member who had undertaken duty in England.

Notification was received of the death of a contributor.

One widow and one orphan were declared entitled to benefits at full rates.

Payments were ordered—Church of Ireland Fund, £15 10s.; Diocesan Funds, £295 9s. 10d.

After transacting the remaining business, the Board adjourned to 21st June.

PHARMACEUTICAL PRELIMINARY.

BACK TO JAIL.

TIPPERARY WOMAN'S FRESH OFFENCE.

At Urlingford (Kilkenny) District Court Mary Mahony, of Fennor, Co. Tipperary, who was released from Mountjoy Prison before the term of her imprisonment had expired on a good conduct licence, was charged with leaving the Kilcooley Police Sub-District on March 15th last without a licence to do so and without notifying the Guards.

The Superintendent informed the Justice that the accused woman had been convicted on twenty-three charges of house-breaking and larceny and one of child desertion, for which in all she was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

Mr. Justice Molloy returned her for trial.

She was now further charged: "That at Tubbrid on 10th March, 1928, she did unlawfully receive and carry away a stolen bicycle, the property of Miss Ellen Kealy, Tubbrid, Co. Kilkenny."

The Justice said that he must convict in this case. He would not be too severe, however, as she would have to serve her unexpired term in Mountjoy. He sentenced her to one month, with hard labour.

WORK OF PEAMOUNT CARE COMMITTEE.

SUCCESSFUL SALE OF COUNTRY PRODUCE.

The country produce sale held by the Peamount Care Committee at 111 Grafton street, Dublin, from March 31st to April 7th was a great success, the total profits being £154 6s. 4d. This is a considerable advance on the sum yielded by the previous year's sale, which was £105.

The main work of the Committee is the care of the tubercular patients who have returned to their homes after treatment in Peamount Sanatorium, and to ensure, as far as possible, that the change from the pure air and healthy surroundings of Peamount to the very different conditions prevailing in their own houses will not have bad effects. Home conditions are improved in any way the Committee find it possible; orders are given for extra nourishing food for the patient; separate beds and bedclothes are supplied to prevent the spread of infection, and advice given as to preventive precautions, cleanliness, fresh air and home treatment.

PHARMACEUTICAL SOCIETY OF IRELAND.

Licence Examination.—Passed with Honours:—Michael P. McGoldrick. Passed (arranged in order of merit):—Patrick C. Cahill; Mary Walsh, Kevin Doherty, and Bernard J. McCloskey, equal; Michael D. McHale; Kathleen Deery; John K. Carvill; Denis Sullivan; Julia J. Ryan and Keith H. Middleton, equal; Bernard Noyck; Patrick Fowler; Kathleen J. Casey; Isabella M. Gilleece; Patrick J. Byrne; Mary Marshall; Arthur C. O. Evans; John J. Walsh and Peter Anthony Martin, equal. Twenty-three candidates were rejected.

Registered Druggist Examination. — Passed (arranged alphabetically):—Maggie Brennan, Marie Collins, Catherine J. Clune, John C. Heffernan, William J. Hillman, Owen Lynch, Alexander McAllister, Norman McCausland, Michael P. McGoldrick. Five candidates were rejected.

Pharmaceutical Assistants' Examination.—Passed (arranged according to merit):—Cornelius Dillane; Elizabeth M. Treston; Owen Lynch; James J. Dalton; James A. Doyle; Walter Lundie and Patrick A. Moriarty, equal; Frances McGrath and Catherine M. Harrington, equal; Kathleen Fogarty; Patrick F. Ryan; Eileen Byrne; Anthony A. Cullinane. Two candidates were rejected.

Preliminary Examination.—Passed with Honours—Kieran Joseph Campbell; Gerald Patrick O'Keane. Passed (arranged in order of merit):—Rose Ann Tully and Philip Ryan, equal; Brigid Coghlan; Christina Cahill; Richard Purcell and William Rice, equal; Alice Eileen Walsh, Patrick McGuirk, Charles F. Crowe; Martin Leo Daly; Samuel George Boyd; Oliver J. Stephens, Teresa Rosaleen Brady, Thomas Byrnes, and Desmond MacCarthy, equal; Patrick Joseph Stack; Patrick A. Murnane; Bridget Mary Moloney; Ronald Arthur Methven. Eighteen candidates were rejected.

THE BREMEN'S FLIGHT.

ITS SCIENTIFIC VALUE.

WHAT AIRMEN WILL LEARN.

(By COLONEL CHARLES F. RUSSELL, Chief Inspection Officer, Free State Army, and Late Officer Commanding at Baldonnel.)

THE successful flight of the Bremen across the North Atlantic has been generously acknowledged as a great achievement. The world's Press, as the mouthpiece of all sections of people, and representing all grades of opinion in difference of outlook, have poured forth lavish praise on the airmen. The terms gallantry, valour, courage, pluck, and soforth, have never had such use as within the past few days.

That this praise is well deserved and appropriate for the accomplishment of such a dangerous enterprise nobody will deny, and my complaint is not on this score, but that the scientific value of the flight has not been acknowledged. From this point of view, let us be honest, and admit that the general opinion prevails that the flight is of no scientific value or importance. To say that it was a mere "stunt," comparable in futility with the attempt of a certain gentleman to shoot Niagara in a barrel is not to exaggerate the general feeling before the flight. Doubtless, now, in the atmosphere of success, this feeling has changed, and there are more people ready to acknowledge the practicability of trans-Atlantic air travel in the future.

DEMAND WILL BE MET.

There is a story going the rounds which is, perhaps, indicative of this general change in feeling. It is related that a certain candid gentleman (in a small way) said when informed of the success of the flight: "Arrah! I suppose we'll be driving asses and carts over there in a few years." From this point of view alone, then, the flight is of great inportance, since there is nothing which retards progress more than lack of interest or conviction on the part of the public. If the public wants to fly and demands air transport it will get it, just as sure as its call for something faster than the coach and horse was such, and, similarly, the sailing ship was replaced by something faster and more trustworthy.

The psychological effect of the flight, all important as it may be, can, however, hardly be included under that heading, and I leave it out, to examine the purely aeronautical side. First of all, then, under this heading we have learned that an aeroplane of certain wing design (peculiar to Germany) will rise in still air with a loading of fifteen pounds per square foot of wing surface under the comparatively small pull of 280 horse power, and in a run of 1,250 yards. Anybody who saw the "take off" at Baldonnel will realise that this was by no means certain, and, further, will appreciate the fact that this great test required some tremendous incentive for its accomplishment. The incentive was, of course, the conquest of the Atlantic, the perilous nature of which made the initial danger of the "take off" seem insignificant

Believing that this performance demonstrates an aero-dynamical efficiency unsurpassed by any other type of aircraft, it is proper that the name of Dr. Junkers, the designer of the machine, should be very closely associated with the success of the flight.

SPECIAL UNDER-CARRIAGE.

The next point of value also concerns the "take off." For the first time a secondary undercarriage was used to support the tail in flying position, so that the increased weight behind the normal centre of gravity would not be suddenly thrown on the fuselage or body members. The gear was arranged to disconnect as soon as the machine left the ground, and, so far as I know, it is a completely new idea.

The effect of such an arrangement on the rudder and steerage way of the machine was very doubtful. According to one authority, it was highly dangerous, and liable to throw the machine on her nose. This theory, although, doubtless, well founded, proved to be incorrect. The gear worked excellently under very unfavourable conditions, and something new has been learned.

It will be recalled that lack of knowledge on both of these points was responsible for the loss of life and distruction of the French Atlantic machine some two years ago in New York. Such is the way of progress. A certain death rate seems to be demanded for each successive step.

Before leaving the general question of the efficiency of the machine, I may observe that the successful flight of the Bremen gives new life to dispute in aeronautical circles as to the relative merits of the water-cooled and air-cooled engine. The first successful Atlantic crossing from the West, which ended at Galway, was made under the power of a Rolls-Royce water-cooled engine, the first crossing from the Eastern side also being made with a water-cooled engine. Apparently, the water-cooled adherents are not yet dead, but rather very much alive.

METEOROLOGY.

I come now to the value of the flight from the point of view of meteorology. Will the log of the Bremen record the conditions predicted? If not—and this is fairly apparent—the conditions met with at certain points should be of great value. Even now, with the meagre knowledge to hand—the landing point of the Bremen, Greenly Isle—an explanation can be offered. From the point of view of meteorological research, the flight of the Bremen was one which set out to discover the accuracy of certain information. To do this before conditions change speed is essential, and no other craft but an aeroplane could accomplish it. I do not suggest that this was, in fact, the mission of the Bremen; but merely that, inasmuch as this has been accomplished, her flight is of great scientific importance.

Next, with regard to aerial navigation, valuable information should be available as to the conduct of the compass and other navigation instruments. Did the compass remain steady all the way over, or did swinging, which so many pilots complain of, take place; and, if so, at what points?

FREEZING POWER OF FUEL.

This is the type of information which will be forthcoming in the Bremen's log, and must prove of great value for the perfection of super-marine navigation. From information so far to hand, it would appear that compass trouble was experienced off the Newfoundland coast, and, certainly, since this is not the first time that such trouble was met with, conditions there should be investigated before further flights are undertaken.

One further question which comes to mind in this very brief survey is the question of the fuel. The Bremen carried Benzol, which freezes at 16 degrees centigrade, and on this score there was much worry before departure. In fact, the Northerly course was feared on this account. Yet the Bremen flies to the regions of Labrador, where the temperature is reputed to be below the freezing point of its fuel. How was this managed?

The foregoing are just a few of the facts picked up at random, which will, perhaps, go to show the scientific value of the Bremen's flight. In addition to all the good things said about the three gallant airmen, may I add this as a further contribution?

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

An Ulster Antiquary : Omnibuses in London : Liverpool Taxi-Fares : April's Lyrids Trick Cycling in Dublin : An Irish Artist : Amateur Golfers.
Chimney Fires : A New Play.

An Ulster Antiquary.

I admire the industry and devotion of Dr. John S. Crone, the popular president of the Irish Literary Society of London. His "Concise Dictionary of Irish Biography," just published by the Talbot Press, is a valuable book of reference, remarkably comprehensive.

DR. JOHN CRONE.

Dr Crone is an Ulsterman, and I remember his telling how he used to "sit under" the father of Mr. Robert Lynd, who was a Presbyterian minister. He possesses a splendid collection of Irish books, including many rare, old volumes. He showed me a volume presented to one of the leading United Irishmen (I think it was Thomas Russell) with the inscription, "From his steady friend, Leonard McNally." It was only long years after the deaths of all parties that history learnt that McNally, the "steady friend," was the steady betrayer of those who trusted him.

The Irish Book Lover.

By the way, that useful little periodical, The Irish Book Lover, which Dr. Crone founded in 1909, has been revived this month with his blessing, by Mr. Seamus O Casaide, the well-known bibliographer, and Mr. Colm O Lochlainn, who describes himself as "that fairly optimistic, but (it must be admitted) rather old-fashioned printer."

London Next.

I notice that London is soon to have pneumatic-tyred 'buses with covered top decks. In appearance, comfort, and, I may add, speed, our Dublin 'buses are infinitely better than London's bone-shakers. There the solid tyre is supreme, and the ungainly covered double decker is in the majority. We have led the way with balloon tyres on our 'buses; but I hope we will not follow suit with double-deckers.

'Bus-driving is hard work, but here we provide adequate protection from the weather for the driver. In London I noticed on Monday last the miserably exposed position of the London drivers, who shivered as the snow fell in the forenoon. Apparently windscreens are forbidden to them and to taxi-drivers also.

'ansom, Sir?

I was surprised to notice also four "hansoms" in a row in Leicester square waiting for the theatre crowds. I was always under the impression that there were but two of these obsolescent vehicles in London—one at Euston, the other, I know not why, at Baron's Court.

Perhaps, however, the American tourist invasion keeps them busy. In 1913 I took what I thought was my last chance to sample this peculiar vehicle, and drove uncomfortably in one from New street to Snow Hill Station in Birmingham. It struck me as very strange to watch the Bremen start on her historic flight before breakfast, and after dinner to be invited to go down Fleet street in a hansom cab.

Taxi Fares.

It is so pleasant to read Commissioner Horwood's announcement posted in the London taxis that the fare payable is three-quarters of that indicated on the meters, for the rate is now ninepence a mile.

When, I wonder, will Dublin taxis follow suit? At present they do not attract as much custom as they might, for a shilling is rather dear. But beware Liverpool. There the rate is 1s. 6d. a mile.

A Pretty Scene.

I was amused to see a pretty exhibition of youthful spring-tide exuberance near where I live on the outskirts of Dublin last evening. A boy, and a girl about eight or nine years of age were cycling up and down the road "trick-riding," and some of their tricks were really excellent and meritorious. The little girl was "skipping" the bicycle. It is difficult to explain. She was cycling without her hands on the handlebars and swinging the rope over her head and under the bicycle. The little boy was stunt riding, standing on the saddle with one leg, and other similar tricks. All the time the two children kept up calling and shouting to each other in evident delight. It was a pretty scene.

'Navy Week.'

The British Navy, like the Army, is bestirring itself on behalf of its charities, and preparations are well advanced in the three great ports for the projected "Navy Week"—sometime during the late summer. There will be a combined attempt to eclipse the Aldershot Tattoo, which last year, despite unfavourable weather, was a "record" success, both in point of attendance and cash receipts. At that show there were upwards of 184,000 spectators, and £23,794 was raised, or only £1,206 short of the Royal Tournament's "record" last year at Olympia.

If the Navy fails in its laudable effort to do better than the second line, it will not be through lack of a spectacular and interesting programme. All the big ships of the Atlantic Fleet will be distributed in the different ports, and the public will be personally conducted over the great vessels by the crews who man them. Railway and motor coach companies intend to offer special facilities to visitors from all parts of the country.

Sybil Thorndike's Tour.

Miss Sybil Thorndike told a friend of mine a night or two ago that she has only one regret in connection with her South African tour, and that is that she must leave Christopher, her little son, behind. To have her two daughters, Ann and Mary, with her is a great joy. The three are simply devoted to one another, and I do not know which is the most excited about this family tour, she or her girls. They are all going to have a very busy time, but Miss Thorndike believes that it is very good for young people who intend to make the stage their career to have to work extremely hard.

MISS THORNDIKE.

In the planning of the tour she has cut out everything which savours in the least bit of extravagance, and she is even going to manage with what help is available in regard to dressing, instead of taking her regular "dresser" with her.

Lord Leitrim.

Few people alive to-day remember the sensation created throughout Ireland exactly half a century ago this month by the assassination of Lord Leitrim. In broad daylight he and two of his servants while driving into Derry were set upon by an armed band who attacked them from a plantation at Cratlaghwood, about four miles from the Peer's residence at Manor Vaughan, Milford, Co. Donegal.

Ireland for a considerable time previously had enjoyed immunity from serious agrarian crime, and all parties were feeling assured that the legislation of the Gladstonian Ministry restraining the powers of the landlords, and obliging them to compensate tenants evicted without lawful grounds, would usher in a more peaceful era. But their hopes were dashed by the murder of Lord Leitrim, and for a long time after violent passions raged and sickening deeds were committed.

Though many arrests were made, no one ever was brought to justice. The intense excitement created throughout the country at the time spread to the Houses of Parliament, and especially in the Commons, where the Irish Nationalists, though small in number, created a regular bear-garden, and it became necessary to clear the House and sit with closed doors. The night in which the Irish members' motion censuring the Government was defeated was the wildest for furious language that Westminster ever knew.

His Early Career.

The early part of Lord Leitrim's career was in marked contrast to the latter. While he sat in Parliament as Lord Clements for County Leitrim he was an advanced Liberal, or what the politician of to-day would call a Radical, and made himself famous by his fierce and persistent opposition to coercive laws introduced between 1844 and 1854. He was regarded as the chief parliamentary obstructionist of his time. On one occasion he appeared in the House in full military uniform, and declared that, much as he valued his sword, he would break it rather than submit to the degradation of having affixed to it a Government brand.

When he succeeded to the title he found the Ulster tenant-right custom prevailing on all his estates, and he set himself, as he often avowed, to smash it. That made him the most unpopular landlord of his day, and indirectly led to that extraordinary act, committed during the Viceroyalty of the Earl of Carlisle—viz., the issue of a command to the manager of an hotel in Maam, in the West of Ireland, owned by his lordship, to shut its doors against the Lord Lieutenant and party while touring that country. The order was literally obeyed, and the incident was a subject for gossip for months after.

John Keating, A.R.H.A.

Mr. John Keating unites a love of the wild West, its beautiful scenery and peasant life, with a love for modern machinery. In this sense he is, perhaps, the most modern of all Irish artists. He spent the two last summers on the Shannon, where he painted a series of machinery pictures: crane tower, engines and tracks, steam navvies and other accessories of the Siemens - Schuckert scheme.

MR. JOHN KEATING.

Mr. Keating has two pictures in this year's Hibernian Academy, another in the Boston Exhibition, while a third is in the Imperial Institute, London. Mr. Keating's pictures are good "sellers" in London, so that the two going to the Briish Artists' Exhibition in June are sure to rouse interest. One of these is entitled "The Fireman," while the other, "Quixote," represents that gentleman with a great sword and mighty castles behind him. The new Playboy, published by Allen and Unwin, has ten illustrations by John Keating—remarkable paintings of those truly amazing scenes suggested by the play.

Some Portraits.

Mr. Keating has painted many well-known Free State citizens, amongst whom are the ex-Governor-General, President Cosgrave, the "rebel" Bishop O'Dwyer, of Limerick; Mr. Hal. MacDermot, brother to The MacDermot of Coolavin; Colonel P. Brennan, of Leinster House, and Mrs. Lupton. The present Governor-General, Mr. James McNeill, is the purchaser of one of the "Playboy" pictures; Lady Cunard of an interior; Mr. E. C. Carter of an allegory; while Mr. Quibell, a North of England gentleman, cannot have too many "Keatings" in his house.

Two years ago the Belgian Government honoured Ireland in buying a Keating picture, "The Mountainy Man." In the artist's own words, it is "a fellow up in the mountains looking over a wall with a gun in his hand."

The April Lyrids.

No meteoric display in the first half of the year excites the interest that attaches to the Lyrids. This historic star-shower has been observed from very early times, and ancient accounts show that the display has occasionally attained a splendour that has been only equalled or excelled by the November star-showers. At present the shower is looked for about the 21st April, but a thousand years ago it occurred some nine or ten days earlier in the month.

The present month offers a good opportunity for observing these April meteors, and there is good reason for thinking that they will be seen in larger numbers than usual. The Lyrid shower is generally so tenuous that moonlight is a great impediment to observation and usually obliterates all but the most brilliant members of the shower, but on the present occasion there will be no moonlight to diminish the spectacular effects when it is most in evidence, which will be to-morrow.

Meteor Showers.

The Lyrids take their name from the constellation Lyra. In this constellation the brightest star is Vega, or Alpha Lyræ, as it is more usually called, and the Lyrid radiant centre is situated a little to the south-west of this first magnitude star. The Lyrid shower takes place on the night of April 21, and calculated maxima fall due almost exactly at midnight on April 22, 2.30 a.m.

During the remainder of the month there are three important meteor-showers, the first of which takes place on April 24 and April 25. There is another great meteor shower on April 27. In some respects this is the most important meteor shower of the month, but the principal maximum at 5.10 a.m. will be visible only in America. The third shower takes place on April 28, and occurs at times suitable for observation on this side of the Atlantic.

Dr. Benes in London.

Dr. Benes, the Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia, who is now in London, is one of the European Socialists who have made good as constructive statesmen in post-war Europe. With Professor Masaryk he organised the Czecho-Slovak movement for independence. He was co-founder of the Little Entente, one of the signatories of the Locarno Treaty, and one of the authors of the late unlamented Geneva Protocol. He has conducted the foreign policy of the new Czecho-Slovak State with great ability, and has ambitious ideas in favour of a Locarno for South-Eastern Europe. These, however, encounter a good deal of opposition, notably from Austria.

M. BENES.

A New Judge.

Irish people will be interested in the appointment of the Hon. Frank Russell to be Lord Justice of Appeal. The new Lord Justice is one of the younger sons of the late Lord Russell of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England. His mother was Ellen Mulholland, the daughter of a well-known Belfast doctor, and sister of Lady Gilbert Rosa Mulholland, who will be remembered by an older circle of Dublin book lovers.

Lord Russell had five sons, of whom three are still living. He chose his Irish title from that Northern beauty spot which he loved and knew so intimately in childhood and boyhood. His brother, Father Matthew Russell, S.J., was one of the best loved and venerated priests in Dublin. He edited The Irish Monthly as a labour of love, and many people now come to reputation were among his young contributors, fostered by him with a tenderness rare among editors.

Father Russell was as gentle as Lord Russell was dominant. They were singularly alike in appearance, and it used to be said of the pervading likeness between the members of the Russell family that knowing one you would know another if you met him in the remotest part of the world.

A Foul Practice.

The Dublin City Commissioners have many good deeds to put to their credit, and they might easily add another, without entailing any trouble to themselves or the citizens. It would be an order to the Civic Guards' officers throughout the metropolitan area to enforce an old bylaw passed by the Corporation nearly forty years ago forbidding the wilful and deliberate setting fire to chimneys.

It is a foul and contemptible practice, against which the genial soul of Charles Lamb, were he still alive, would inveigh with undissembled wrath. The London of his day certainly did not lend itself to this objectionable device for cheating the sweep of his honest fee; else his well-known essay would have made the grievance clamant for redress.

Dublin holds an invidious position in this respect. Here housewives, regardless of consequences, put the torch to the soot-encrusted flue, with results which mean the befouling of the washing of many an industrious charwoman. Other municipalities rightly make this a penal offence, and the air and neighbourly relations are, therefore, all the healthier.

Mr. O'Casey's New Play.

Mr. Sean O'Casey, the Dublin playwright, who, as I have previously noted, has completed a new play, which will shortly be seen on the boards, is Dublin born, and is very proud of that fact.

His education was much on the lines of the distinguished Irish navvy poet, Mr. Patrick McGill, for Mr. O'Casey relates that he was "educated in the streets of Dublin," and then worked as "a builder's labourer, as railway labourer, and then as general labourer."

This experience, however, did not extinguish his fine imaginative qualities, as has been proved by his plays, "The Shadow of a Gunman," "Juno and the Paycock," and especially "The Plough and the Stars."

Irish friends of Mr. O'Casey who have been privileged to read his new play have passed high opinions on its merits, and its production is being eagerly awaited. Mr. W. B. Yeats used his persuasive powers with a view to its first being placed on the boards at the Abbey Theatre in Dublin, but definite arrangements for its appearance have not yet been made.

The Cork Accent.

Let it be clear at the outset that this story was told to me by a friend who is a Corkman and proud of it—that is to say, he was a normal native of that great city or county. He wished to discover the address of a friend who lived either in, or near, a seaside town a few miles from Dublin, and, as a last resort, put through a call to the local Civic Guard station.

The Civic Guard, who answered fully, maintained the reputation of the force for courtesy and helpfulness, but he could not make out what the man in Dublin was saying. They wrestled with the situation for a few moments, and at last the Guard had a brain wave. "Hold on a minute," said he, "and I'll get a man who'll be able to talk to you."

"And a minute later," said my friend, "I heard coming over the wire the finest Cork accent that I have heard since I left the old city." There was not the slightest difficulty with the remainder of that telephone conversation.

England's Amateur Golf.

At first glance the entries for the English Native Amateur Golf Championship, to be decided on the Royal Lytham and St. Anne's Links next week, look strangely unrepresentative. Appearances, however, are apt to be deceptive. Many of the big figures in golf are not qualified to compete in a purely English championship.

MR. C. TOLLEY.

Sir E. W. E. Holderness, for instance, was born at Lahore, in India, and Charles Hezlet, although born of Irish parents at Sheerness and a resident at Woking, has disqualified himself by playing in the Irish Native Championship, which incidentally he has won. Willie Murray and T. A. Torrance are Scots, and Douglas Grant is an American.

Two men who might have entered, but have not done so, are Roger Wethered and Cyril Tolley. They did not play last year, and it seems a great pity that such giants of southern golf again should be absent, especially as the title, which was first played for in 1925, has not yet been won by a southerner.

QUIDNUNC.

WHERE GOLD IS WORTH NOTHING.

'CHANGE SEATS BOUGHT BY CHARACTER ONLY.

AMERICA'S DIFFERENT CODE.

(By A BROKER.)

At present, seats in a Stock Exchange are probably more coveted than those of the mighty.

SEATS of the "money-makers" are actually worth far more than their weight in gold. As a fact, although it is traditional to speak of "seats" in the great Stock Exchanges of the world, the privileged operators prefer to transact most of their business standing, and in most of the Exchanges the actual seats are quite commonplace items of furniture. It has been suggested that one result of the recent succession of sensational operations in stocks has been to enhance the value of a seat in the British Stock Exchange. This is a mistake. It is true of every other Exchange in the world, but not of London. The reason is that the London Exchange has a fixed rate, and is content beyond that with most carefully guarding the right of admission.

Thus, a seat in London may, and often does, pass to a man less wealthy than many rivals who would gladly pay anything to obtain it. Usually, however, character and credentials tell.

It is true that successive "booms" or sensations such as we have witnessed in oils, rubbers, artificial silks and gramaphones involve work at high pressure. Whatever may be the ultimate fact of certain stocks, and however "bulls" and "bears" may fare, it is all good for business; but the Committee of the London Stock Exchange is a very conservative body and is notoriously opposed to any spectacular extension of members.

ANNUAL RE-ELECTION.

There are already nearly four thousand of these "golden seats," and there are not likely to be further extensive additions. With a man's own fees and subscription, and the requisite sureties of two members, a seat requires a capital of less than three thousand pounds. The holder, however, has to submit himself annually for re-election, so that he must always be on his best behaviour in his relations with clients.

No other Exchange is so well guarded against the dangerous fever of a fierce competition for seats when some share "boom" is raging. Recent big deals have left the membership of the British Exchange unaffected, whereas they have produced the inevitable panic struggle to obtain "golden seats" in Wall street. The price of a seat in the New York Exchange has recently gone up to £60,000, with frenzied competition to gain this privilege of dealing in big money-making.

Only a few days ago a financier paid as much as £68,000 for a seat in Wall street, and it was recalled that his grandfather had obtained a seat, just fifty-six years ago, for no more than a thousand pounds.

Members of the American Exchange can do many things that are not permissible in this country. They can even run a chain of branches, and one member is known to have as many as fifty-one offices dotted about the United States.

OFFICE-BOY GAMBLERS.

Money can buy a "golden seat" in the Stock Exchange in Brussels, which has also been experiencing a sensational "boom." It is quite easy to enter if one has sufficient cash, and it is equally easy for all sorts and conditions of people to have direct transactions. Thus it has been recently reported that typists and office boys, as well as small shopkeepers in hundreds, have lined up to have a gamble in stocks.

Strange queues, however, of this description are unknown in the City of London. Such gamblers, if they must dabble in stocks, must do so through outside brokers, and members of the most exclusive and most dependable Exchange in the world do not countenance wild business or encourage people who cannot afford to speculate.

As a fact, the majority of the "golden seats" in the London Stock Exchange are held by men who once were clerks. This means that they have passed through the exacting test of at least four years' service, so that their character has been well and truly tried.

It is a mystery to many foreigners when they learn that during a hectic "boom" in shares there is no wild traffic in seats on the London Stock Exchange. They will speak with gusto of the value of a place in Berlin or Vienna, and will marvel that London's doors are closed to a rush of candidates for membership. There is a very simple solution of the mystery. In the eyes of the Committee in London, character is more than fine gold.

WATER-COLOUR SOCIETY OF IRELAND.

THE ANNUAL "AT HOME."

In connection with the exhibition of the Water-Colour Society now open in Mills's Hall, Dublin, a very enjoyable afternoon party was given yesterday by twelve hosts and hostesses—Mr. A. V. Montgomery, Mr. R. Caulfeild Orpen, R.H.A.; Mr. Lancelot Bayly, Major T. Crosbie Goff, D.S.O.; Mrs. Fitzgibbon, Mrs. H. L. Pilkington, Mrs. Henry Peel, Miss Alice Boyd, Miss Helen Colvill, Miss Griffith, Miss Hamilton and Miss French.

A short musical programme was arranged, to which Mr. Joseph O'Reilly contributed three delightful vocal items—"Where e'er you walk" (Handel), "Serenade" (Schubert) and "Who is Sylvia?" (Schubert), the accompaniments being artistically played by Dr. Annie Brereton, Mus.Bac. The works of art afforded much interest to the guests, who were entertained at tea.

Among those present were:—Lady De Freyne, Lady Hemphill, the Hon. Martin and Mrs. Hemphill, the Hon. Mrs. FitzGerald, the Hon. Mrs. George Stopford and Miss Stopford, Lady Thompson, Mrs. Hornibrook, Sir Philip and Lady Hanson, Colonel and Mrs. W. N. Stokes, Major and Mrs. Dease, Mrs. and the Misses Longworth Dames, Dr. and Mrs. Boxwell, Mr. Laurence Grattan Esmonde, Mrs. Mark Firth, Mr. Nolan-Ferrall, Major and Miss Nolan-Ferrall, Miss Rosamund ffrench, Miss G. Austin, Mrs. John Garvey and party, the Misses Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs, Miss Maud Hutton, Mrs. Le Fanu, Mrs. O'Brien and party, Mrs. Greene, Mr. and the Misses Greene, Mrs. John Molony, Miss Higginson, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Orpen, Mr. and Miss Pim, Dr. and Mrs. Gibbon FitzGibbon, Mrs. R. Caulfeild Orpen and party, Mrs. Synnott, the Misses Townsend, Mrs. and Miss Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Delap, Mrs. Hugh Delap, Miss Macnie, Miss O'Neill, Miss Cruise, Professor Joly and party, Mr. and Mrs. Rawdon Green, Mr. S. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Lillis, Mr. and Mrs. Bodkin, Mr., Mrs. and Miss Steen, Dr. and Mrs. Garrett Hardman, Mr., Mrs. and Miss Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, Miss Sykes, Mrs. Cecil Smith, Miss Hughes, Mr. John Fitzgerald, Dr. and Mrs. Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. Randall McDonnell, Miss Moses, Mrs. Maunsell and party, Mr. and Mrs. Mahony, Miss Gwendolyn Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Miss K. Tuthill, Mr., Mrs. and Miss Brett, Mr. and Mrs. Dix, Mr. Alexander Colles, Miss Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Paul, Mrs. and Miss Goff.

IRISH DAFFODILS IN LONDON.

Mrs. Alfred West, Kilcroney, Bray, was most successful with her Irish-grown daffodils at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Vincent square, Westminster, on the 17th and 18th insts. The awards to her blooms were nine first prizes, five second prizes, and three third prizes, the Barr Memorial Daffodil Cup, and a silver-gilt Banksian medal for winning the greatest number of prizes in the amateur classes at the show.

No. 1.	No. 2.
THE ANSWERS. 1. One Diamond 2. No bid. 3. One No-trump. 4. No bid.	THE ANSWERS. 1. One diamond. An obvious bid; no argument to support it necessary.
1. The hand has much more than enough strength to justify one diamond; but, as it does not contain A-K-Q, it would not justify a two-diamond bid. The hand has not sufficient strength for pre-empting with four diamonds.
2. "A" must pass, as he has a good chance of defeating the No-trump; to bid diamonds would be apt to force the adversaries into spades, at which they doubtless would have a better chance than at No-trump.	2. One diamond. Same comment as No. 1.
3. "Y" must, of course, deny his partner's spade with a bid of two diamonds or one No-trump. The latter is preferable, as it shows two suits stopped and presents a much better chance of game than the diamond would. The defenceless hearts, being three cards, are not specially dangerous; and there is a good chance that "Z" can stop that suit.	3. Redouble. It looks like a chance to obtain a big penalty. The best way to secure it is by a redouble.
4. After three passes, "B" should pass with this hand. With such great major weakness, it would be unsound to risk opening the auction in the fourth hand position.	4. One No-trump or one heart. A peculiar situation; so much so, that it is hard to imagine how the other three players can have the strength for the declarations they have made. It is a place, however, in which strength should be shown and the hand has more than the requisite to justify either a heart or a No-trump bid; if the partner's double be dependable, either looks satisfactory, and the selection seems to be optional.

LEOPARDSTOWN RACES.

THE APRIL MEETING.

The weather prospects being discouraging yesterday fewer race-goers than usual made their way to Foxrock, where an attractive card had been arranged, and interesting sport was enjoyed. There was little to remind visitors that April is so far advanced—little show of blossom in the herbaceous borders and the foliage was very backward.

Among those seen in the club enclosure were:—Lady De Freyne, Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, General Sir Bryan Mahon, Major-General Hammond, Lady and Miss Chance, Colonel Clarke, Mons. Goor, Belgian Consul; General and Mrs. Waldron, Major Boyd-Rochfort, V.C., and Mrs. Boyd-Rochfort; Mr. E. Belaney, Miss Belaney, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Colonel and Mrs. Bramston Newman, Captain and Mrs. French, Major J. D. Barry, Miss Hamilton, Captain L. J. Arnott, Mr. Justice Wylie, Miss Scovell, Mr. J. BALL AT THE PLAZA

IN AID OF 8th K.R.I. HUSSARS.

A most successful ball took place last night in the Plaza, Dublin, in connection with the Benevolent Fund of the 8th (King's Royal Irish) Hussars. During the interval in dancing the autographed Bateman Cup ball was raffled by Mr. W. E. Crawford, the well-known international.

The attendance was large and representative, and decorations were worn by the officers. The music was supplied by Pete Low and his Plaza Band. Over four hundred people were present, including—

General the Right Hon. Sir Bryan Mahon, K.C.B., D.S.O.; Major J. Tynan, D.S.O.; Captain W. D. Henry (committee chairman), Captain T. H. Tuite, M.C.; Captain Hughes, Major T. A. FIXING STANDARD CHARGES.

TRADERS' CASE AT RAILWAY TRIBUNAL.

The Court of the Irish Railway Tribunal sat yesterday in the City Hall, Dublin, to deal with the question of the settlement of standard charges on the Great Southern Railways, in accordance with Section 27, Subsection 1, of the Railway Act, 1924.

Judge O'Brien presided, and the other members of the Tribunal—Messrs. J. R. Kerr and H. Mangan—were also present.

Mr. E. J. Phelps, K.C., who, with Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by Mr. McDonald, solicitor), appeared for the railway company, said that the guiding star for the Tribunal should be the evidence of competent men—and Mr. Keogh and Mr. Elliott, with the help of their assistants, had given evidence which took into consideration every possible contingency. The estimate submitted was a sanguine one, and, as far as passenger traffic was concerned, it was not fulfilled for the first fifteen weeks of the year, because the passenger receipts were down by £32,228.

Counsel submitted that the company's estimate of receipts from merchandise and live stock traffic was a fair and reasonable one, and that the Tribunal ought to accept it.

MOTOR TRAFFIC.

Mr. E. W. Selfe, representing the traders, said that they were not satisfied with the rates at present being charged, and they believed that these standard charges could be reduced with benefit, not only to the traders, but to the railway company. He contended that the present charges tended to divert traffic from the railway company to the omnibus or motor traffic.

Continuing, Mr. Selfe said that the Traders' Committee felt that the railway company was not treating the subject seriously enough, and that traffic would continue to be diverted from the railway. For this reason the members of his Committee felt that they could be of little more assistance to the Court.

Judge O'Brien said that the Court was there to hear evidence cogent to the matter under discussion. He inquired if Mr. Selfe's objectors would give evidence.

Mr. Selfe said that the traders felt that, as goods might be sent by motor lorry, they had no need to put forward any further evidence. Their idea was that if the railway company did not need their traffic they would ultimately have no traffic at all. The railway company was getting something out of the Railways Act.

Mr. Phelps—We have got a good many hard knocks. (Laughter.)

Mr. Selfe—They are getting a standard revenue, or the promise of one. The least they might do is to give the tribunal control of their rates.

Mr. Kelly—The Act does not allow it.

SERVICES AND RATES.

Mr. Selfe said that his committee felt that they would be safer in the hands of the tribunal than in the hands of the railway company, although he was very sorry to say that. The unanimous opinion of his committee was that the only hope of the railway company was to meet the trader by better services and lower rates, as it was doing in its passenger service.

Mr. Kelly, replying on behalf of the railway company, said that 81 per cent. of the tonnage carried by the railway company was at exceptional rates, and he contended that it was by such rates that they could accommodate the commercial requirements of the country. Hitherto the Irish railways had only to meet competition from other railways, canal or sea traffic; but now they had to meet the competition of the internal combustion engine. They recognised that for certain short distances this traffic was permanently lost to the railways. Nothing that the railway companies could do would prevent that; but in the case of long-distance traffic the situation was entirely different. Exceptional rates, which represented a reduction on the standard rates to be fixed by the tribunal, would enable the company to meet this competition.

The tribunal adjourned.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ADDRESS.

A deputation from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland waited on the Governor-General of the Irish Free State yesterday at the Viceregal Lodge and presented to him an address of welcome.

THE ADDRESS.

The address was as follows:—

We, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland desire to offer our hearty congratulations to Your Excellency on your appointment to the high and responsible position of Governor-General of the Irish Free State, and to express our best wishes for the success of your administration, as you enter upon the duties of your office in succession to your distinguished predecessor, who commended himself by his outstanding capability and fairness to Irishmen of all creeds and classes.

We can assure Your Excellency, as the representative of His Majesty the King, that the members of our Church are strong in their loyalty to their Sovereign and in their fidelity to constitutionally established government.

We are deeply interested in the welfare of our native land, and are in hearty sympathy with the Government of the Irish Free State in their efforts to promote the peace, prosperity and progress of all the people under their jurisdiction. We thoroughly appreciate what they have already done in this direction and we can give the assurance that in such efforts for the good of the people they shall have the hearty co-operation of all the members of the Presbyterian Church.

It is our earnest hope that all the people of this land may cultivate a spirit of good-will in their relations towards one another, and that the great desire of each and all may be for the highest good of our common country.

We pray that Your Excellency may be guided by Divine wisdom in all the duties that pertain to your high office, and that your efforts to promote the well-being of the people may be crowned with abiding success.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S REPLY.

The Governor-General in reply said.—

I thank you for the welcome which you have given me on behalf of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland. I recognise the sincerity of the assurance given on behalf of the members of wour Church, that they are both loyal to His Majesty the King and faithful to the constitutional Government of the Saorstat.

I also value your sympathy with the efforts of the Government to promote peace and prosperity, and your appreciation of what has already been done for all citizens without distinction. I have no doubt that my Government will continue to deserve your sympathy and your confidence, and that the members of your Church will continue to discharge their duties as good citizens.

I share your hope that the people of this land may cultivate a spirit of mutual good-will and may work together for the common good, and I am gratified that, as regards myself, you have lost no time in manifesting the good-will of your community.

The members of the deputation were:—The Right Rev. James Thompson, D.D., Moderator of Assembly; the Rev. J. L. Morrow, M.A.; the Rev. E. J. McKee, LL.D.; the Rev. G. T. C. Clements, B.A.; Professor R. A. S. Macalister, M.A., LL.D., D.Litt.; Mr. W. M. Clow, J.P.; Mr. Joseph McFarlane, Mr. J. C. M. Eason, the Rev. W. J. Lowe, M.A., D.D., LL.D.

MR. LEGGETT BYRNE'S MATINEES.

On May 17th and 18th next Mr. and Mrs. Leggett Byrne will give two entertaining matinees at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin. The programme is made up of a fifteen minutes' play and four beautiful dance scenes, and over 100 pupils from three years of age upwards will take part in the matinees, which will be given at 2.30 p.m. each day. The music for the dances has been chosen from the works of well-known composers, and there will be an augmented theatre orchestra.

ARMY CADETS.—Exam. announced for June, 1928. At last Exam., Oct., 1927, the First Place was secured by a student of the Intermediate and University College, 109 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin. Oral, Correspondence and Self-Tuition Courses.—(Advt.)

WIRELESS MARRED BY TRAMWAYS.

SUGGESTIONS TO OBVIATE INTERFERENCE.

DUBLIN ENGINEER'S PLANS.

With reference to the alleged interference with wireless reception in Dublin caused by the Dublin tramway system, an Irish Times representative was informed by Mr. Coleman, proprietor of the Scientific Electric Works, Charlotte street, Dublin, yesterday, that there were two devices which would minimise or eliminate this interference.

Mr. Coleman first demonstrated by a wireless receiving set the grating sounds which caused so much annoyance to listeners-in. The interference is principally with transmissions from England and other countries.

"About three years ago," said Mr. Coleman, "I did some experiments in connection with the elimination of this class of interference, and similar classes of interference from other electrical machinery. I started by putting up an artificial tram trolley line in the shop, and trying various devices to mitigate interference. I finally discovered means by which it could be greatly lessened, and I got into communication with Mr. Harriss, general manager of the Dublin United Tramways Company. He replied that he was interested in the matter, and asked for full particulars of the devices which I suggested. I sent him the necessary details, and there was some correspondence, but the matter never came to anything. Mr. Harriss raised an objection to the positions in which some of these devices would have to be fitted.

"My suggestion was that condensers should be fitted in the tramway section pillars, and Mr. Harriss's objection was that the space available in the section pillars and the humidity of the air therein was such as to preclude the use of any such apparatus, and the matter was, therefore, dropped. I offered to supply the apparatus, if Mr. Harriss would give permission to have it fixed, but Mr. Harriss brought forward the objections already mentioned."

Asked as to the cost of the suggested device, Mr. Coleman said that, roughly, he estimated it at £3,000. That was the outside figure, because in certain places it might not be needed at all.

"How far that experiment would succeed in actual tramway conditions," said Mr. Coleman, "it is impossible to tell without further test, as my experiment was confined entirely to a small artificial tramway line for experimental purposes, but I think that the interference could be greatly minimised, if not eliminated, by this device."

Mr. Coleman explained that another source of interference with wireless reception was the jumping of the trolleys when passing crossings. This, he said, was very bad in some districts. As a cure for this he suggested that a double trolley head should be used in every tram. That would mean that one trolley wheel would always be in contact with the electric cable, and jumping would be obviated.

"I believe," said Mr. Coleman, "that that would cost about £2 per tram car. I believe that such an apparatus is in use in Cologne and Berlin. These two devices worked together would, I believe, effect a perfect cure, but either, separately, would effect a great improvement, even if only applied to certain sections of the line on which the most noise exists."

Asked if he had brought his suggestions under the notice of the Government, Mr. Coleman replied in the negative, and pointed out that the onus was on the Tramway Company to put the thing right.

Assuming that Mr. Coleman's two suggestions were put into effect the cost would be roughly about £3,500.

CORK WAGES TROUBLE.

COMMISSIONER'S NEW PROPOSAL ACCEPTED.

From Our Special Correspondent.

CORK, Friday.

A meeting of municipal workers who are affected by Mr. Commissioner Monahan's proposed reduction of wages, was held tonight, to consider a modified proposal put forward by the Commissioner at a conference earlier in the day. The meeting decided to accept the Commissioner's latest proposal.

This provides that the wages of all labourers employed by the Commissioner will be reduced by 2s., commencing on the first pay-day in May.

OBITUARY.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL D. O. HYDE, D.S.O.

Lieutenant-Colonel Dermot Owen Hyde, M.B., R.A.M.C., C.B.E., D.S.O., Officer Commanding the British Station Hospital at Maymyo, Burmah, died of influenza at the British Military Hospital, Maymyo, on Thursday last.

Born in 1877, Lieutenant-Colonel Hyde was the only surviving son of the late Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Hyde, A.M.S., of "Aberlour," Palmerston road, Dublin, and of Jean, daughter of General Sir Patrick Craigie, K.C.B. In 1908 he married Hilda Edith Richmond, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel F. de R. Mauduit, and had two sons.

Lieutenant-Colonel Hyde was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and took the degrees of B.A. and M.A., and the Diploma in Public Health. In 1900 he received a commission in the Royal Army Medical Corps, and visited Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania with the Imperial Representative Corps. He served in the South African War with Kavanagh's Column and Calwell's Column.

In 1911 Lieutenant-Colonel Hyde was appointed to the West Riding Division of the Territorial Force, and worked on the mobilisation schemes of the medical units, including the Territorial General Hospitals of Leeds and Sheffield. He proceeded with the division to France, and commanded a field ambulance with the 5th Division during the Somme battle. In 1917 he was appointed Officer Commanding the Number 1 Casualty Clearing Station, and from 1918 to 1919 he was A.D.M.S. of the 21st Division. After the great war he was appointed Senior Medical Officer of Bermuda, and served as a member of the Board of Health of the Colony. He returned to England in 1922, and proceeded to the Dardanelles, being appointed A.D.M.S. to the 28th Division. His chief recreations were tennis and golf.

MR. A. TOUGHER.

Mr. Abraham Tougher, a well-known business man, died yesterday at his residence, Dungeeha, Knock, Belfast, in his eightieth year. Mr. Tougher had been associated with various commercial houses in Belfast, including that of Messrs. Millar, Boyd and Reid, Ltd., of which he had been chairman of directors. For some years he represented the Shankhill district on the Belfast Water Commissioners.

CHILDREN'S BALLET IN GAIETY THEATRE.

The entertainment to be given by the pupils of the Misses Mallins in the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, on Thursday next, 26th inst., when the entire proceeds will be given to the Children's Clothing Society (Police Aided), promises to be an interesting and enjoyable entertainment. The promoters have been much gratified to learn that Sir Robert Baird, D.L., Belfast, has, with his characteristic generosity, invited all the pupils and staff of the Girls' Masonic School, Ballsbridge, to the number of 103, to attend the entertainment as his guests. The full theatre orchestra will be responsible for the music, and the scenic effects are being brought from London.

£3,000 FOR CULLEN-McKIERNAN HEIRS.

James Cullen married Anna McKiernan. They emigrated to New York prior to 1860. They had seven children, all dead without issue. Anna McKiernan was born in 1835, the daughter of Bernard and Sarah McKiernan. The nephews and nieces of James Cullen and Anna McKiernan Cullen are entitled to £3,000. Apply to John J. Dwyer, 40 Wall street, New York, N.Y.

SCENE IN COUNTY MAYO.

FAMILY CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING GUARDS.

Dr. Hardy, a prominent Republican and a candidate for the Mayo County Council at the forthcoming elections; his mother, his brother, Joseph Hardy, national teacher, and his two sisters, figured as defendants at Foxford District Court, charged by Guards Leanan, Loughran, and Maguire with assault and battery, and using indecent language on Easter Sunday.

Dr. Hardy, in a cross-action, sued Guard Leanan for £50 damages for assault and battery, and Mrs. Hardy had a similar action against Guard Loughran.

Much public interest was taken in the case, and the Court was crowded.

Inspector O'Mahony, in opposing an application by Messrs. Ruttledge and Corr (who appeared for the defendants) for an adjournment, said that he was instructed by the Attorney-General to do so, as the cases were regarded as of great importance from the public point of view. The Guards, he said, were openly obstructed and assaulted on the public street of Foxford on Easter Sunday morning, in the presence of a large crowd coming front Mass. The law was openly defied, and instead of evidence of regret on the part of these people, the defendants issued civil bills against members of the Garda for assault.

The solicitors for the Hardys having agreed to the actions for damages being left over until the charges by the Guards were disposed of, the cases were adjourned to next District Court.

INLAND TRANSPORT PROBLEM.

QUESTION OF CONTROL AND REORGANISATION.

Senator J. T. O'Farrell, Irish Secretary, Railway Clerks' Association, speaking at the annual meeting of the Tralee Branch, referred to the problem of inland transport control and reorganisation, which, he said, was one of the most pressing problems of the moment. From the very inception of mechanically propelled transport it had been accepted as a universal principle that there should be some public control and regulation of all such forms of transport.

While encouraging competition, the State, in authorising new lines, was always careful to prevent, as far as practicable, wasteful or unecenomic competition. Even the street cabs and taxis have to run under definite binding regulations. No tramway company can be established except under Statute, and then only on condition that it maintains the road between the rails and for a certain distance on each side of the rails.

'BUSES AND LORRIES.

The one form of transport that had escaped everything in the way of effective local or State regulation or control ,was that conducted through the medium of 'buses and lorries for both long-distance and short-distance traffic, whether of passengers or merchandise. This traffic made the heaviest demands on the public roads, and paid the smallest proportion of all motor traffic for the damage it inflicted. While enjoying all the privileges that the closely controlled railway and tram services were granted, it was free from the disadvantage of being a common carrier, having to take both highly paying and low paying traffic. The State provided Civic Guards as signalmen and pointsmen in ever-increasing numbers free of charge.

Thus what seemed at first glance to be a cheap service was in effect a very expensive one, paid for by non-users as well as users through local rates and State taxation. The small trader in the country, who first welcomed this type of transport, now found he was paying for it twice over in increased rates for road maintenance, and, in addition, had lost his customers, who found it more convenient to shop in Dublin or some very large town. There were strong complaints from over-served districts, like Kingstown and Blackrock, to the effect that the service, far from being beneficial, had become a public nuisance and a menace to public safety.

QUESTION OF PERMITS.

It was past time that the Government should introduce legislation prohibiting any public transport service to be run except under permit prescribed by law. In issuing such permits regard should be had as to whether the proposed new service involved wastleful or uneconomic competition. No permit should be issued unless the applicant could produce an insurance policy covering damage to persons or property to the extent of £3,000 for any one accident. It was not fair to other forms of transport for public authorities to give free 'bus stances, while railway and tramway companies had to provide or pay for theirs.

The whole position, he contended, should be approached in the same way as if a new tramway or railway service were being opened up, either to compete with or supplant an existing tramway or rail service, and action taken accordingly. Moreover, it was time that all concerned were compelled to accept the very reasonable commercial principle that all traffic run for profit should pay for the whole of the estimated damage inflicted upon the roads over which it ran. If this principle were adopted, the taxation of lorries and 'buses would be at least four or five times as high as it is to-day.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—An anti-cyclone remains centred near Iceland, and a depression over Denmark is filling up. Another depression centred out on the Atlantic is gradually approaching the West of Ireland. Weather, apart from a few scattered showers, will continue mainly bright. Less settled conditions may, however, spread from the Atlantic to Ireland.

Ireland, all Districts.—Light, variable winds, freshening from south-west, fine at first, becoming cloudy, with, perhaps, some rain or drizzle later; local morning mist or fog; frost in morning, then milder.

Irish Sea.—Crossings from Holyhead, Heysham and Stranraer, St. George's Channel, crossing from Fishguard.—Northerly to variable, then southwesterly winds, mainly light to moderate; bright at first, more cloud later; local morning mist; sea slight or moderate.

LEGAL APPOINTMENT.

The Governor-General of the Free State, on the advice of the Executive Council, has assigned Mr. Bernard Roche, barrister-at-law, temporary Assistant Circuit Judge to Donegal, Leitrim, Cavan and Monaghan, in lieu of Sligo, Roscommon, Westmeath, Queen's County, King's County and Longford.

BORDER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

A reciprocal arrangement has been entered into between the Free State and Northern Governments for the better enforcement of school attendance in border areas.

The military barracks at Nenagh have been inspected by the Superior of the Christian Brothers in Ireland, with a view to the purchase of the buildings for a boarding school.

MAKING HISTORY IN MUSIC.

DUBLIN PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY'S BOAST.

NEXT SEASON'S PLANS.

"Your Society has made history in music in Dublin, and by its efforts other societies and organisations have been awakened, or have sprung into existence, with the result that a renaissance of music has taken place in Dublin." This statement occurred in the first annual report of the Council of the Dublin Philharmonic Society, presented at the annual meeting in Dublin last night.

The Society is an amalgamation of the Dublin Symphony Orchestra and the Dublin Philharmonic Choral Society, which, after working together in the Beethoven Centenary celebrations, were merged formally last July.

The report of the Council on the season 1927-28 detailed the concerts given by the Society, including two which yielded profits amounting to £268 for charities. Reference was made also to the Civic Week Concert and the assistance given by the choir at the Military Tattoo in that week. The part taken in the orchestral concerts by three members of the Society—Miss Rhoda Coghill, Miss Petite O'Hara, and Mrs. Ida Starkie-O'Reilly—who appeared as instrumentalists, and by two others—Mrs. Norah Lough and Mr. William Mulcahy—who sang in the quartet at the performances of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, was mentioned, and supplemented by a list of the works by Irish composers produced at the several concerts.

The Council placed on record their thanks to the Minister for Defence and the Adjutant-General for allowing members of the No. 1 Army Band to play in the Orchestra. "By the help of these instrumentalists, it has been made possible for this Society to perform the great works mentioned."

FINANCE.

With regard to finance, the report showed that the year closed with a balance of £156 10s. 5d., being the profit on the year's working. With the balance taken over from the amalgamating societies—£93 4s. 2d.—a total of £249 14s. 7d. now stands to credit on capital account. To professional players, soloists, and members of the Orchestra, £439 had been paid in respect of the Society's five concerts;, but, including the concerts given before the formal constitution of the Society as an amalgamated body, the amount so paid was £649. At the close of the season the Council decided to present to Colonel Brasé a cheque for £100 as an honorarium, in respect of his magnificent work for the Society since its inception; but Colonel Brasé refused to accept it, and immediately handed the cheque back as a donation to the Society's funds. "The Council wish to place on record their high appreciation of the magnificent services which Colonel Brasé has rendered to this Society—first, by the wonderful way in which he built up the orchestra, composed, as it largely is, of amateur players, most of them previously unacquainted with orchestral work; secondly, by suggesting the amalagamation of the two original societies. Colonel Brase has never spared himself in any way. . . and there is no doubt that the major portion of the success attained by the Society has been due, not only to his great gifts as a conductor and musician, but also to his inspiring leadership in all the activties of the Society." The Council also expressed appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. J. Turner Huggard, the choral condutor.

"A TRIUMPHAL YEAR."

Chief Justice the Hon. Hugh Kennedy, President of the Society, in putting the report to the meeting, said that it had been a triumphal year, and a unique achievement for the first year of a musical society in Dublin. The work had been carried on under the impulse of enthusiasm, and with a good will to everybody. There was no hostility to any other organisation. (Hear, hear.) In that respect they were breaking the traditional character of musicians. (Laughter.) It was difficult to express what the public of Dublin and of the country owed to Colonel Brase, who had introduced something new into the musical life of Dublin. He felt sure that before long the fame of the musical work done by Colonel Brase with the material available in Dublin would spread beyond these shores. The Chief Justice further paid tribute of praise to the services of Mr. J. Turner Huggard and Colonel Carty.

The report was adopted.

In connection with the election of officers, many speeches were made in praise of Colonel S. W. Carty, who was described by the chairman as an ideal secretary, and by Dr. Ashe as a dynamo in trousers.

Dr. James Ashe said that he had been asked by two members of the music trade to mention that tariffs on the imports of foreign musical instruments were hampering music in the Free State.

Mr. R. McNevin accepted the office of assistant secretary in place of Mr. W. Mulcahy; other officers were re-elected.

Colonel Carty announced that a large proportion of last season's subscribers had applied for seats for next season's concerts, and numerous applications had been received from new subscribers. The first concert would be the Schubert Centenary Concert, on the 3rd November. It would be followed by a Wagner Concert on 8th December, and a "Messiah" performance on the 22nd December. Later in the season there would be a miscellaneous orchestral programme, and a Brahms programme. He hoped that next year it would be possible to arrange an interchange of visits with the Belfast Philharmonic Society.

TWENTY SHILLINGS IN THE £.

TRIM RATEPAYERS' BURDEN.

For the third year in succession the ratepayers of the town of Trim, County Meath, are called on to pay a rate of twenty shillings in the £.

At a meeting which he held specially to strike the rate, Mr. Commissioner Forde said that it was a matter of deep regret that the Urban Council must, of sheer economic necessity, reimpose a rate of twenty shillings in the £ for the financial year ending March 31st, 1929. The ratepayers had borne, and must for the third year in succession continue to bear, this temporary heavy financial burden.

The ratepayers, he added, may expect a considerable reduction next year.

BANKRUPT AND "RASCALLY PEOPLE."

Peter M'Cusker, an aged farmer, who resides in the Dungannon district of County Tyrone, a bankrupt, was asked in the High Court, Belfast, yesterday, about a note which was found in his spectacle case. This note, which was to the effect that £120 had been left with a man named Frank M'Farland, had been found when M'Cusker entered the Infirmary for treatment

M'Cusker, in evidence, said that he had hidden £230 in a haystack, as he thought it was unsafe to have that money on his person. He went back the next morning for the money, but it was gone. He did not report the matter to the police, as he thought they would not believe him, and he did not want to be the laughing-stock of the country.

Mr. Justice Brown—I hope you don't expect me to believe you.

M'Cusker also stated that his failure was due to lawyers. They have been the ruination of me, he declared. "I was away in England for many years, and when I came back I had no idea of the rascality of the people of this country."

Mr. Warnock, for the assignees, pressed the witness to state where he had the money lying, and eventually M'Cusker admitted having small amounts in banks in Dungannon, and also money in a bank somewhere in Donegal. He could not recall where his papers were at present, and denied that he knew anything about a pomissory note for £75, which was also found in his spectacle case. He knew two men named Frank M'Farland, but he had never given either of them money.

His Lordship said that the witness had been given an opportunity to file his schedule, and he had not availed himself of it.

Mr. Warnock said that in the interests of the creditors M'Cusker ought to be committed to prison.

His Lordship said that he would give M'Cusker another week, and this was his last chance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE "NEW" THEOLOGY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I have given Dr. Long a text of Scripture. Now let me give him a quotation from the Prayer-book. The first paragraph of Article XV. runs thus: "Christ, in the truth of our nature, was made like unto us in all things, sin only except." If Christ was like us in all things, with the sole exception of sin, then obviously He must have been like us in limitation of knowledge.

Is it not strange that the Bishop of Birmingham should be attacked for preaching doctrine which is easily shown to be in accord both with Holy Scripture and with the formularies of the Anglican Church? Again I fear it is Dr. Long and others like him, and not Bishop Barnes, who are straying from the teaching of the Church.

If it be asked how the omniscience of the Godhead could co-exist with human limitations, either in knowledge or otherwise, we are asking questions which raise the much larger question of the Incarnation itself. Briefly, I may refer Dr. Long to another text of Scripture—Phil., ii., 6—where the rendering of the Authorised Version, "made Himself of no reputation," in the Revised Version is translated more literally, "emptied Himself." Founded on this expression is the "Kenosis theory," as it is called from the Greek word here occurring (Kenosis=emptying). St. Paul appears to state that Christ "emptied Himself" of all His Divine attributes, or all such of them as would prevent His becoming truly and completely Man.—Yours, etc.,

THE IRISH WOOL CLIP.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The similarity of the claims of New Zealand and our own has a great bearing on the value of the wool in this country, as the majority of sheep there, like our own in the Irish Free State, are bred mainly for the mutton value and are of similar breeds. Therefore, the prices realised at their sales now closed must be our basis for the coming clip. Farmers here must realise, when they are marketing their wool, that they are competing against the New Zealand farmers. The same manufacturers use the wool from both countries for the same purpose, and are always prepared to pay more for wool on which they can rely that it has been well handled and contains no inferior stuffings of dead wool, lamb or daggings wound inside the fleeces.

To obtain the highest value in the world's markets the New Zealand farmers remove all belly wool and britch from the fleeces, and these are sold separately at their respective values. The brokers refuse to handle any wool unless treated in this manner. Consequently the buyer's doubts are removed, and it is only then a question of valuing on an estimated yield of a clean scoured basis. They never wash the sheep before shearing, as in most cases it is not convenient, and the buyers prefer the wool in a greasy condition. It preserves the whiteness in the fibre, and in the case of long transit and much handling it prevents felting; also it prevents moisture and dirt from entering the fleeces. Some of our growers of late years have been neglecting to remove the daggings from the fleeces, and have not been washing the sheep thoroughly before shearing. Consequently they have lost the confidence of the buyers, with the result that in many cases the home-washed fleece wool has been of less value than our competitors' in the unwashed state. Let growers give this matter their serious attention in order to give the users confidence and restore the prestige of our valuable product.

The question of washing the sheep before shearing, of our home wools, is a very open one, but we must present the fleeces in a well-tied condition, whether washed or unwashed. Nothing detracts so much from the general appearance and value as a badly tied fleece, and incidentally it reflects on the owner, and he invariably gets a smaller price than the grower who is known to give his personal and strict attention. If a fleece is badly tied, it is torn in the handling after reaching the warehouse, and this means additional expense to have it re-tied. The fleeces are graded according to quality, and shipped to respective users, some using one quality only, and some another, suitable for their machines and requirements. Manufacturers are adopting a policy of extreme caution in their buying operations, as they have sufficient stocks for some months to come, and one unfortunate feature now operating is that manufacturers, spinners and top-makers cannot secure prices for tops, yarns and piece-goods that will yield a reasonable margin of profit. All through the year wool has been top dog, and the pace has been forced from the wrong end of the industry, from a profit-making point of view. Speculative buyers have been operating heavily. Therefore, there are large stocks held in the warehouses awaiting the time for the manufacturers to operate. These heavy stocks consequently are holding up surplus money.

The prices for the last clip and the prospects for the coming one are encouraging to maintain the flocks and increase them. Conscientious users do not wish for low prices, because it is realised that there must be a fair margin of profit to the growers if supplies are to be maintained; and on the whole it is a very remunerative raw material from the growers' point of view. It is estimated that the coming clip will be worth at least £150,000 more than last year.—Yours, etc.,

J. MACAULAY.

FUNERAL OF DR. D. CARROLL.

The funeral of Dr. Don Carroll, M.C., which took place in Dundalk, was the occasion for a big demonstration of sympathy on the part of the townspeople.

The remains had lain overnight before the high altar in St. Patrick's Cathedral. In the morning Office and Solemn Requiem Mass were held. The Rev. Father Pentony, C.C., Armagh, was celebrant; the Rev. Father Tohall, C.C., deacon; the Rev. W. Butterly sub-deacon. The chanters were the Rev. C. O'Neill, Ravensdale, and the Rev. Peter Rogers, Ardee.

Two carriages were necessary to carry the very many floral tributes which had been sent by friends. A wreath was sent by his former colleagues in the Free State Army Medical Service.

Following the hearse marched the employés of Messrs. P. J. Carroll and Co. Drs. Lavery, O'Brien, Gill, McEntegart, Daly and Musgrave acted as pall bearers.

The chief mourners were:—James M., Walter J., Vincent B. and Charles A. Carroll (brothers); J. W. Callan and C. Flynn (brothers-in-law); the Rev. Peter Finnegan, P.P., Togher; the Rev. Father Pentony, C.C.; Messrs. B. Moynagh, H. Brown, G. Brown, T. L. Brown, R. Brown, R. Connick, F. Connick, Dr. Finnegan, T. Finnegan (cousins); J. Hearn, London; L. J. Smyth, L.D.S.; F. X. Smyth, L.D.S.; J. K. Smyth, Dr. J. J. Fitzsimons, T. Flynn, Birr (cousins).

There was an extremely long line of motor cars following the funeral to Castletown Cemetery, where the interment took place.

ST. JAMES'S PARISH, DUBLIN.

At St. James's Parish Church, at 11.30 tomorrow, a combined parade will be held of the Parochial Companies of the Boys' Brigade and Girl Guides, together with their juniors, the Life Boys and the Brownies. The preacher will be the Rev. John Tobias, B.D., Rector of Rathmines.

It was announced in Admiralty Fleet Orders last night that the King's birthday will be celebrated in London and at all Navy stations on Monday, June 4th.

"The Wrecker—and the Protector" by MISS EDNA DAVIES

Beauty in Distress

Miss Davies was one of the most distinguished of that benighted band of travellers who spent a night of terror waiting for the Ghost train. That "Ghost Train" certainly had a long non-stop run. And now Miss Davies has started off on another long run—in "The Wrecker," also a railway drama by the same author, which threatens to wrest the laurels of popularity from its successful predecessor. Miss Edna Davies' appealing charm has contributed much to the success of both productions by winning the sympathy of the audience and establishing the essential beauty-in-distress element on which the effect of these dramas so largely depends.

The wrecker is the weather.

"As far as the play is concerned," said Miss Davies, "I want to say nothing about 'The Wrecker.' I leave you to find that out yourself. But in everyday life the wrecker of womanly charm is exposure of the complexion to this very ungallant climate—and Pond's is the gallant protector. The weather attacks the delicacy of the skin—Pond's two creams help it to resist these attacks, first by cleansing out the deeply seated impurities before they can do any harm, second by keeping the skin always soft and supple so that it does not get harsh and dry and liable to wrinkles."

To bring back youthful softness

Miss Davies thinks that not sufficient is said about the restorative qualities of Pond's Cold Cream—the faculty it has for bringing back the youthful softness that the day's care and strain have chased away. "A cleansing with Pond's Cold Cream when you come in is the best thing I know to make you feel fresh, to make you look your best. It seems to take all the weariness out of the skin—it leaves it so soothed and supple. I suppose it is because the oils in Pond's Cold Cream take away all the harsh dirt that has been choking the pores and stifling the tissues."

A lovely bloom

"In the same way," said Miss Davies in conclusion, "Pond's Vanishing Cream adds enormously to one's confidence during the day. It holds one's powder so that one is not constantly in fear of shiny patches—and it can be depended upon to give a lovely bloom to the surface of the skin."

Sasha.

Edna Davies.

"If you look after the skin of your face and hands regularly with Pond's two creams it will remain healthily and naturally lovely, without the assistance of any artifice. That is what I do—and I am completely satisfied with the result."

POND'S
POND'S

EVERY SKIN NEEDS THESE TWO CREAMS. USED BY COUNTLESS THOUSANDS OF WOMEN TO MAKE AND KEEP THEIR COMPLEXIONS EXQUISITE.

The Pond's method

The following is the Pond's method of caring for the skin. First cleanse the skin with Pond's Cold Cream. Then remove the cream with a soft towel or wad of cotton-wool. Finally, apply Pond's Vanishing Cream to give the surface of the skin a perfect finish. Do this on every convenient occasion during the day, particularly after you have been in the open air for a long time, or when dressing for dinner, or whenever you want to look your best. Always cleanse with Pond's Cold Cream at night, and leave a little of the cream on all night if your skin is inclined to be dry. Give your face, neck and hands a touch of Pond's Vanishing Cream from time to time during the day to protect your skin from the weather and to hold your powder. This is the method that is followed regularly by countless thousands of charming women.

Pond's Vanishing Cream vanishes instantly, forming a delicate film just beneath the surface, which freshens the tired tissues and protects them from the dangers of exposure. With its delicate odour of Jacqueminot roses it has a most refreshing effect.

COIMISIUN TALMHAN NA h-EIREANN (IRISH LAND COMMISSION).

FOR SALE, CASTLEMORRES DEMESNE, COUNTY KILKENNY,

CONTAINING 623 ACRES OF GOOD ARABLE AND WOODLANDS.

This fine demesne is situate 13 miles south of Kilkenny, 15 miles north of Waterford and about 3 miles from Ballyhale Railway Station. Close to a Post Office, in a good residential and sporting centre, within easy reach of two packs of foxhounds. Good covert shooting on estate. The mansion is a large modern structure in good habitable condition, a considerable sum having been expended on an entirely new sanitary system, and on the electrification of the premises within the year. It contains 5 reception rooms and billiard room, 12 principal bedrooms, and ample servants' and storage accommodation.

The mansion stands on a slight eminence and commands a splendid view of its sylvan surroundings. A carriage drive, almost one mile long, connects it with a handsome entrance and gate lodge on the county roadside.

Out-buildings are extensive, and in every respect suitable for an estate of its dimensions.

A caretaker, residing on the premises will show intending purchasers over the buildings and point out the lands.

All requests for further particulars and offers should be addressed to the Secretary, Irish Land Commission, 24 Upper Merrion street, Dublin.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The House of Commons yesterday gave a second reading to Captain Gunston's Registration (Births, Deaths and Marriages) Bill, which seeks to improve the remuneration and conditions of service of Registrars.—(Page 10.)

ABROAD

Major Fitzmaurice to-day gives full details of the events on Greenly Island.—(Page 9.)

SPORTING

At Derby Nightfall won the Derbyshire Handicap.—(Page 12.)

At Lingfield Sunny Trace won the Lingfield Park Spring Stakes.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL

London Stock Markets were quiet. Industrials opened with a dull tone, but improved towards the close.—(Page 14.)

The Treasury bill rate was slightly higher than last week at nearly 4 1-16 per cent. Loans were in ample supply at 3½ per cent. down to 3 per cent. Discounts were firmer on the advance in Federal Reserve rates in Boston and Chicago.—(Page 14.)

The New Ireland.

Ireland, even in her most turbulent and most tortured years, was a pleasant dwelling-place—witness those who, through many generations, left her sorrowfully and dreamt of her as exiles. If the hopes of her loyal sons are fulfilled, she will be a yet more pleasant place in the future. Agriculture will be the basis of her economy. There will be no vast fortunes, but extreme poverty will be unknown. The squalor of her country towns will disappear, but will not be replaced by industrial hordes, toiling dully under smoke-palled skies. Sport will flourish; the relations between the classes will be cordial and intimate; social life, in city and countryside alike, will be informed with a gaiety that will be neither primitive nor artificial. Nevertheless, if the coming Ireland were to be this, and nothing more, she would disappoint mankind. Bœotia was not less prosperous and, perhaps, not less happy than Athens, but who remembers Bœotia? To many Irishmen to-day the question of their country's intellectual future is at least as important as the question of her economic future. Science, scholarship, literature, the arts were enriched by Irish achievement during the centuries of political dependence. What may we hope from the new era of political independence? Will the fulfilment of aspiration mean the end of inspiration? Now that the flint has gone, can we expect the spark?

Of one thing we are assured. Love of letters and the arts, and curiosity about them, never were diffused more widely in Ireland than at the present time. The years of the Free State's existence have been years of notable activity and production in literature, art, music and the drama. In the last six years Irish literature has produced many good novels, some promising poetry, some works of sound scholarship. Irish artists have made, or have increased, reputations. Their pictures are honoured abroad and are admired at home, and exhibitions of paintings in Dublin and Belfast begin to attract spectators. Irish stained glass urit et Eöos urit et Hesperios. In music the little leaven provided many years ago by the Feis Ceoil has begun of late to leaven the whole country, and it is almost safe to prophesy that Ireland soon will have exceptionally high standards of musical culture and intelligence. In drama the Abbey Theatre, though it continues deliberately to cramp its style, has secured international fame. At least we can say, therefore, that the new Ireland will not be incurious of the arts. At best we can hope that from seeds which are being planted so liberally and so widely a literary and artistic renaissance will spring that will dazzle the world. Our chief doubt, which only time can resolve, is whether this public interest in the arts will produce mediocrity or genius—whether genius will find a pou sto in the new conditions of Irish life. Will the Gaelic revival, for instance, be able to fire the spark that formerly was kindled by the battle of mighty wits and the clash of empires?

Ireland has one great advantage, which she ought to guard jealously, at this outset of her free career. She possesses in letters and the arts a magnificent legacy of achievement. It is drawn in part from her long association with England and in part from purely native sources. Deprived of either of these bequests, the tradition and stimulus of her culture would suffer sore loss. In our "Irishman's Diary" yesterday we printed a distinguished Irishman's list of the best twelve Irish novels. It includes some excellent stories, but it does not include "The Vicar of Wakefield." Maria Edgeworth's "Castle Rackrent" appears in the list; and so we infer that, while Mr. Michael MacDonagh does not exclude Anglo-Irish writers, he excludes novels which have not a definitely Irish theme. We protest that this distinction is artistically unsound and is a grave injustice to Ireland. It is unsound because, while the scenes of "The Vicar of Wakefield" are laid in England and its characters are English, only an Irishman, whose mind was stored with the circumstances of Irish life, could have given to this book its immortal pathos and whimsicality. The distinction is an injustice to Ireland because its logical result is to rob Irish literature of its greatest names. By this test Swift, save in a few pamphlets, was not an Irish writer; Burke is not the glory of Irish oratory; Sheridan's plays and, in our own time, Mr. Bernard Shaw's greatest plays, are not outstanding ornaments of Ireland's dramatic art. For an ancient country with a free future the Scottish motto, "What we have we hold," is sound advice. The new Ireland will make a new fame in literature and art only if her outlook remains both catholic and national.

Egypt's Challenge.

The latest reports from Egypt indicate that a very grave situation has been created in Cairo. During recent weeks negotiations have been in progress between the new Egyptian Premier, Nahas Pasha, and Mr. Keown-Boyd, the representative of the British Government; but it seems that they have come to a complete deadlock. The subject of discussion has been the British Note to Egypt of March 4th and the aide mémoire which followed a month afterwards. In these documents the British Government reminded the Cairo Cabinet that, as it had refused to ratify the draft treaty between Britain and Egypt, negotiated by Sarwat Pasha and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the constitutional relations between the two countries must revert to the position which they occupied before the unilateral declaration of His Majesty's Government in 1922. In other words, Britain now reserves to herself the right to maintain an army of occupation in Egypt, to guarantee the safety of foreign citizens in the country, and generally to exercise a kind of limited protectorate. Nahas Pasha, according to a circumstantial report printed in the German Press, refuses to compromise with the British Government. He takes the view that, as Egypt never was a unit of the British Empire, the British Government has no right of any kind to dictate terms to Cairo. He proposes to ignore not only the two recent Notes, but also the declaration of 1922, and declares that he will pursue his own policy as if no such country as Great Britain existed. A practical test of his intentions is at hand. One of the causes of dispute between Cairo and London is an Assemblies Bill which Nahas Pasha has introduced into the Egyptian Parliament. This measure proposes to allow virtually unhampered right of public assembly throughout the country, and the British Government objects to it very strongly on the ground that the temper of an Egyptian mob cannot be trusted. Nahas states now that the bill will be passed into law with, or without, the consent of the British Government, and that it will receive the royal assent in the ordinary way. This attitude constitutes a definite challenge to the authority of the British Government in Egypt. It has been dictated by the Wafd, the extremist organisation, which is the real arbiter of the Egyptian Government's policy, and it cannot possibly be ignored by the British authorities. The general opinion is that Nahas Pasha and his friends have decided that the time has come when Britain's power in Egypt must be put to the test, and that they have chosen this particular ground with deliberate care. It is possible that they are "bluffing"; for the mind of an Oriental is not easy to fathom. Lord Lloyd may be trusted to cope adequately with the situation on the spot, but the situation that faces the British Cabinet has some grave aspects and will need skilful treatment.

Summer-Time.

"Summer-time" begins officially to-morrow, and all careful citizens will advance their clocks and watches by one hour to-night. Although this system has been in force for several years, people never have become quite accustomed to it. We still read of the unlucky individual who puts his watch back instead of forward, and of the equally hapless creature who forgets all about the matter, only to discover on Sunday morning, when he thinks it is only nine o'clock, that it is ten. Yet "summer-time" in these islands, at any rate, has come to stay. Farmers continue to regard the snatching of an additional hour from the sun as an outrage on the natural order of things, and a few old-fashioned persons in towns and cities persist in their refusal to tinker with their time-pieces. On the whole, however, even the most prejudiced opponents of the system must admit that, on the principle of the greatest good of the greatest number, "summer-time" is an excellent idea. This year it serves a double purpose. Not only does it give the jaded city-worker an hour of daylight which otherwise he would lack, but it must convince the most sceptical that summer actually is at hand. We admit that the meteorological signs and portents are not very encouraging. The weather of the last few days in Dublin, and, indeed, throughout Ireland, has been more a reminiscence of November than a promise of May, and we fear that the "darling buds" of the merry month have had an exceedingly rough handling in advance by the icy winds of the past week. Reports from England state that the fruit crop has been almost ruined. In Dublin many an amateur gardener has seen his pear and apple blossoms perish, and altogether the horticultural prospects for the coming season are gloomy. Possibly the advent of official "summer-time" may bring some change in the weather. The wiseacres predict sunshine for next week, but we fear that their prognostications are based on the theory of "jam to-morrow" rather than on any scientific data. Come what may, however, thousands of workers to-morrow evening will rejoice in their additional hour of daylight. Youth recks little of the weather, and even Dublin's rain fails to damp the enthusiasm of its enjoyment.

Round the World.

In commemoration of Jules Verne's "Round the World in Eighty Days," which was written more than fifty years ago, a Danish Boy Scout has completed a tour of the globe in forty-four days. The world has travelled a long distance since the exploit of Phineas Fogg. Fifty years ago a world tour was a luxury, confined to the wealthiest and most adventuresome. Now it is an incident of every-day life; and, while forty-four days seems to us to constitute a remarkably short space of time for such a trip, we have no doubt that fifty years hence the young generation will be indulging in round-the-world flights which will occupy little more than a week. The flight of the Bremen to America, coupled with the various other long-distance flights of recent months, indicates what is likely to be achieved even in our own time; and, if and when science succeeds in supplying aircraft with power from the air, on the "radio" principle, there will be virtually no limit to the cruising range of the aeroplane. During the last twenty years our generation has seen the practical achievement of some of the wildest dreams of its youth. Television now is an accomplished fact, and who can forecast its future developments? The air, to all intents and purposes, has been conquered. Every day sees some new addition to man's stock of knowledge, and every step forward makes the next step more easy. Scientific progress has been so rapid that the human race has ceased to wonder. Indeed, men and women have become impatient of delay. They seem to expect nature to yield her dearest secrets without further struggle; but science still has a long way to go before it can begin even to guess at the many mysteries of the universe.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The Queen will open the Dr. Nicoll Memorial Wing of Queen Mary's Hospital in the East End on Friday, May 11th. Her Majesty will be received by the Duke of Gloucester, President, the Governors and the medical and nursing staffs of the hospital.

The Duke of York attended the Council meeting of the Hunters' Improvement and National Light-Horse Breeding Society on Thursday in London, and returned later to Windsor Castle, where, with Their Majesties and the members of the Royal Family, he was present at the funeral of Viscount Trematon yesterday.

Princess Louise (Duchess of Argyll) will attend the anniversary meeting of the Waifs' and Strays' Society, which will be held on Thursday, May 10th, in the Church House, Westminster, and will receive purses in aid of the charity. Princess Beatrice has left Malaga for Gibraltar, and is expected to arrive in London early next week.

Lord and Lady Bledisloe, whose marriage took place on Monday, are staying in Cornwall, but will leave England next Wednesday on the s.s. Andalusia for Brazil. Robinia Viscountess Mountgarret has returned to London from the Continent, and is in residence in Hans Mansions. The Earl and Countess of Northbrook will return to London from Biarritz early in May. Sir Christopher Needham has returned to London from Rio de Janeiro. The Hon. Lady Bingham will return from Biarritz to London early next week.

Lady Roche and her son, Sir Standish Roche, have gone to England from Aghade Lodge, County Carlow, where they spent Easter. The O'Conor Don and Madam O'Conor, who were abroad for the past two months, have returned to Clonalis, County Roscommon.

Sir John and Lady Lavery, who have been the guests of the Governor-General of the Free State and Mrs. McNeill at the Viceregal Lodge, have left for London, via Belfast. Major-General Sir Robert and Lady Cassels have left London for Marseilles to join the s.s. Kaisar-i-Hind, on their return to India.

A marriage has been arranged, and will soon take place, between James Kenneth Kennedy, youngest son of James Kennedy, Beechfield, Bray, and 12 Harcourt street, Dublin, and Louie Hayden, second daughter of J. J. Hayden, L.D.S., 19 Lady Lane, Waterford.

LORD ROSSMORE'S BUSINESS INTERESTS.

Lord Rossmore has contradicted a statement that he would not give so much time in the future to his jam-making concern at Slough, for which he has worked so wholeheartedly as a director. He states that he has sold some of his shares, and proceeds:—"I am remaining on as managing director, and as the business is still growing, I have in no way severed my connection. I must be in England most of the year, but will return to Rossmore whenever possible." Lord Rossmore is brother of Lady Bailey, the famous airwoman, who is now on her way to the Cape.

LONDON LETTER.

THE BREMEN'S FLIGHT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

The "boom" in aviation, created by the success of the flight of the Bremen across the Atlantic, is expected to promote a "record" in air travel during the coming summer. At Croydon Aerodrome a special flight of aeroplanes have been set apart to meet a demand by private parties for journeys to distant seaside resorts in England and to holiday resorts on the Continent. A flight of two hundred miles over seaside places along any part of the coast which may be chosen can be arranged at a cost of five pounds per head, with a minimum of four passengers. The services to the Continent will be three a day, instead of two, in order to meet the growing demand instanced by that of last week, when there were over eight hundred passengers, three hundred more than in the corresponding week of last year. No fewer than thirty thousand passengers were carried by Imperial Airways in the year ending March 31st last.

A Petrol Duty.

Members were not present in any great number at the House of Commons to-day; but those attending were much exercised at the rumour that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, in his forthcoming Budget, intends to put a duty on petrol. The figure suggested is threepence per gallon, and this, charged primarily on the importer, would be passed on to the consumer, with probably a further penny to pay for expenses. The money collected, probably, will go to the maintenance of roads of the third class not at present kept up by the Road Board, and should this prove to be the case, there will not be any pronounced opposition to the new impost. Fluctuations in price have been greater than the suggested tax, while the price of petrol is still very low. A point in favour of such a tax would be that it has operated successfully in the United States.

The Wigg-Cochrane Case.

Mr. Walter Baker, Labour member for East Bristol, who is Assistant General Secretary and head of the Research Department of the Union of Post Office Workers, has given notice that on an early day he will ask the House of Commons to express an opinion that the acquiescence of the Government in the refusal of the Irish Free State to accept the decision of the Privy Council with respect to certain civil servants is a matter of grave concern, seeing that it deprived transferred Irish civil servants of their just rights under the Treaty, as confirmed by the highest Court in the Empire. He will further ask the House to consider that the Government should review its decision. The debate on the same subject to be raised by Lord Carson in the House of Lords, as at present arranged, will take place on Wednesday next.

A Haig Memorial.

The proposed memorial to the late Lord Haig, referred by the Government to a Commission for consideration as to site and form, will shortly be reported upon. It is suggested that the memorial will take the shape of an equestrian statue, to be erected near the Cenotaph. Whitehall is very wide, and contains ample room for the erection of a suitable memorial, similar in size and shape to that of the Duke of Cambridge, placed immediately opposite the War Office. A suitable site would be provided for the Haig Memorial opposite the Scottish Office, which is very near the Cenotaph.

The New Prayer-book.

Views on Prayer-book revision from the overseas Dominions have been extraordinarily few, but yesterday the Archbishop of New Zealand, addressing his Synod, pointed out that the weaknesses in the revision were the retention of the ornaments rubric, providing alternative Service for the administration of the Sacraments and permitting continuous reservation. Whatever the ultimate fate of the measure in England, he remarked, he would be sorry to see the Church of New Zealand accept it as it stood. The Archbishop added that the Synod would join the whole Church in sympathising with the great and venerable Archbishop of Canterbury in the disappointment caused by the Commons' rejection.

The Queen's Nephew.

The Funeral Service of the late Lord Trematon in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, this morning, was extremely simple, and conducted with the utmost privacy possible in the circumstances. The coffin, covered by the Union Jack, was carried from the Albert Memorial Chapel by the members of the Windsor Castle Fire Brigade, and a little guard of honour was furnished of Princess Alice's Own troop of Boy Scouts, of which Lord Trematon was patrol leader. A purple catafalque stood at the foot of the altar steps, and the King, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester, and several other members of the Royal Family stood at its foot throughout the short Service. The Queen, who was accompanied by the Duchess of York, Princess Victoria, and a number of other Royal ladies, occupied a seat in the stalls on the left side of the chapel. All the ladies were deeply veiled. After the Service the remains were laid to rest only a short distance from the old Henry II. Tower, where Lord Trematon had spent the greater portion of his young life.

Portraits for Sale.

A number of portraits by Reynolds, Hoppner and Raeburn will be included in a sale which is to take place at Sotheby's shortly. The pictures come from the collections of the Duchess of Leeds, Lord Vernon, Elizabeth late Countess of Wilton, and Lady Hope. One Reynolds is a painting of the wife of the fourth Duke of Leeds; the Hoppner represents Viscountess Bulkeley, and the Raeburn is of a Mr. Hugh Hope. A small Rembrandt and a Rubens, as well as a remarkable drawing by Leonardo da Vinci, which was recently discovered among the pictures of the late Sir George Alford, will be included.

The Cup Final.

Interest in the Football Cup final match at Wembley to-morrow, so far as London is concerned, is somewhat diminished this year; for, though Blackburn Rovers and Huddersfield are both popular teams, the absence of Southern clubs, after their successes in the earlier rounds of the competition, is disappointing. The efforts to prevent speculation in tickets has met with only a limited amount of success; for the two-shilling tickets are still available for those who are prepared to pay ten for them. Both teams arrived in London to-day, and large parties from the North began to arrive early this evening, to be followed by further contingents during the night and to-morrow morning.

An Egyptian Consul.

An Egyptian Consul has been appointed to Manchester, following directly upon the visit of the King of Egypt, and it is considered that the appointment is likely to lead to a great increase in trade between this country and Egypt at a moment when any such increase would be particularly welcome in Lancashire. The new Consul is A. F. Assal Bey, and, as an indication that the position is regarded as important in Cairo, it may be mentioned that he was formerly the principal Egyptian Consul in the United States. Assal Bey will now be responsible for Lancashire, the North of England, and Scotland.

The Earl of Verulam and Mr. Alfred James Towle Taylor were yesterday elected to the board of directors of Sir G. Armstrong, Whitworth and Co., Ltd.

LIFE ON GREENLY ISLAND.

THE BREMEN THE AIRMEN'S FIRST CARE ON LANDING.

SALVING THE PLANE.

ANOTHER CABLE FROM MAJOR FITZMAURICE.

BY MAJOR FITZMAURICE.

[All Rights Reserved—Copyright in the United States of America and Canada by the NEW YORK TIMES, and in Great Britain, Ireland and other European Countries by the IRISH TIMES.]

MURRAY BAY, QUEBEC, Friday.

Our landing on Greenly Island was a bitter disappointment. We knew that gathered on the flying field near New York thousands of persons were awaiting us, and we would disappoint them. Furthermore, the machine that had brought us safely across the huge expanse of water was tilted on its nose, damaged.

Upon getting out of the machine our first concern was to ascertain as near as possible the full extent of the damage. We surveyed the machine thoroughly, and found the propellor tip bent, but this was all.

Our first job was to lower the tail of the machine to the ground. This was extremely difficult; for, although the three natives of the island came to our assistance, the number was far too small to be really effective.

In addition, the necessary tackle or equipment for the work of this nature was not available. Fortunately for us, a gale was blowing, which tended to force the tail of the machine down to the ground by the pressure of the gale on the tail.

FIRST-AID FOR THE 'PLANE.

Gradually forcing the nose of the machine out of the ice, we were gravely worried that the tail would drop suddenly to the ground and result in irreparable damage to the craft.

Three men lay on the nose of the machine to balance the pressure, and rope was obtained and lassoed round the tail skid. We were delighted when we succeeded in lowering it gently to the ground. All this had occurred in about half-an-hour, and we had been exposed to bitter cold and lashing wind.

THE BARON'S MISHAP.

It was then suggested that we should adjourn to the comfortable quarters of the lighthouse, Baron von Huenefeld having already gone there because of a slight mishap in getting out of the machine. He fell into the water twice, and it had been necessary for him to leave us that he might dry himself before freezing.

The suggestion that we should go to some place of comfort was not pleasing to Captain Köhl; for he, like a good airman, wanted to stand by the damaged machine, and said so.

The upshot was we did not go. In the falling snow and the howling wind we carried on with the work of examining the machine more closely, endeavouring to lift the wheels out of the water, with the intention of rolling it back on to solid ground.

We got some planks, and iron bars were used as levers for the work; but, unfortunately, after having succeeded in getting the right wheel on to solid ice, a big bang occurred, and we discovered that the axle had snapped in the middle.

WORK IN VAIN.

It was just too bad, and we were almost broken-hearted because, with the tools available in connection with a small forge at the lighthouse, we could have straightened the propeller and gone on to New York.

On the collapse of the under-carriage the machine subsided into water again, and our work for nearly two hours had been all for nothing.

We decided that nothing further could be done, so we obtained some rope for the purpose of securing the machine, which might have been still more gravely damaged by wind during the night.

A new difficulty now arose; for pegs could not be driven into the ground for the simple reason that it was just like solid rock, owing to the intense cold experienced in this district.

The machine was secured in the end by tying ropes round the large boulders, which were littered about the place, for it should be borne in mind that we were at the very edge of a reservoir.

The water was drained out of the radiator, which, of course, would have been badly damaged by frost had we not done so.

Plenty of sacking was procured, and the engine carefully wrapped up for the night. A man was employed to guard the machine throughout the night, not that we thought anyone would steal it, but to warn us should the storm increase to greater force.

Feeling assured now that our stout little craft was as comfortable as we could make her for the night, we adjourned to the lighthouse, where our hostess, Madame Tamplier, greeted us with the charming hospitality so characteristic of French people—particularly French Canadians.

Our sheepskin flying boots and socks, which became saturated during the work and became frozen, so that they were literally two cakes of ice, were removed, and we were provided with stockings and moccasins.

THE FIRST MESSAGES.

Our first consideration here was to write and despatch cables to our people notifying them of our safe arrival on the American continent.

We had learned there was a telegraph office at Blanc Sablon, about two miles away, but it was almost inaccessible because of snow and ice.

The assistant keeper of the lighthouse, however, very kindly volunteered to execute this commission for us, and we were happy in the thought that the waiting world would soon have news of our safety, for we realised all were anxious because now we were long overdue.

OUR FIRST MEAL.

Madame Tamplier now informed us that tea was ready. We sat down to our first meal in Canada, and the first real one since the day before, when we had breakfast at 4.30 in the morning, with only sandwiches in between.

AND SO TO BED.

It would be impossible to describe how wonderful this meal tasted. Extreme fatigue had now overtaken us, so were were shown to our bedrooms. Here there were two beds, Baron von Huenefeld and Köhl took one, and I the other. We undressed, tumbled into bed, and were instantly asleep.

I woke about noon next day, to be informed by the Baron that Captain Köhl, after having had three or four hours' sleep, awoke and had been working virtually throughout the whole night, compiling notes on scientific data, etc., which he had collected during the flight, whilst the matter was still fresh in his memory.

TRIBUTE TO CAPTAIN KÖHL.

Nobody but a man with tremendous will-power, keenness for his work, and concentration on his undertaking, could have done such a thing. Köhl has all these qualities.

As a result of our long rest we felt very fit, with the exception that our eyes were bloodshot and bunged up with pus. The strain had caused this, because we had only one pair of goggles, Köhl's having been lost out of the machine. We took turns in wearing the pair we had.

A HARD DAY'S WORK.

After bathing our eyes in water we felt very well, and after breakfast we went straight to work.

The second message from Major Fitzmaurice, which appeared in our late editions yesterday, is reprinted on Page 10.

Large petrol drums and planks were obtained, also a considerable supply of timber, and by nightfall we had succeeded in lifting the weight of the machine off the under-carriage by building up props under the wings.

We realised that we could do no more now, and went back to the lighthouse and despatched cables calling for assistance, notifying the Junkers Company in New York as to the extent of the damage to the machine, and materials and spare parts required to get it in trim for a continuation of our flight to New York.

There was nothing to do now but wait for help, and on Sunday we received news from Point Amour Radio Station that Duke Schiller, the famous Canadian pilot; Dr. Louis Cuisinier, Technical Director of the Canadian Trans-Continental Airways, and Eugene Thivault, mechanic, were on the way in a Fairchild machine for the purpose of assisting us.

THE RELIEF PARTY.

As this machine could not arrive before 5 o'clock we spent the afternoon preparing messages recounting our experiences and our needs. At half-past five we were sitting in the lighthouse, when, hearing the drone of an aeroplane, we pulled on our things, ran out and saw the machine circling over the island.

A Verey light was fired from her, and she circled up to land on the ice of a frozen bay, about a mile away. We travelled over by dog sledge and met those who had come to our relief.

That night we held a conference, and learned that a considerable number of misleading reports had come out as a result of the poor telegraph system and the enormous traffic on the line due to our landing.

GARBLED MESSAGES.

Our messages had been garbled and our needs not made clearly known. It was, therefore, decided that the machine should leave for Murray Bay the following morning, and that one of us should accompany Duke Schiller to Murray Bay to meet Miss Junkers, whom we understood would be there upon our arrival to explain to her the exact position with regard to our requirements in order to ensure that the flight could be continued with the least possible delay. It was decided I should undertake this commission.

At noon the following day, leaving Cuisinier and the mechanic behind, we left Greenly Island en route for Murray Bay.

Dr. Cuisinier, we learned, rose at five o'clock in the morning, secured additional assistance, which he could more readily direct because of his knowledge of the language and the people, and procured virtually every dog team and sledge in the countryside for the purpose of carting material to the scene of our landing.

His intention was to lower the water in the pond by drainage, so that a wooden platform could be built under the machine to enable mechanics to work in dismantling the damaged under-carriage and fitting a new one when it arrived.

He confidently assured me before I left that he would have the work completed within ten hours. I could not possibly see how he was going to do it, but do it he did, as I have since learned. It was a splendid feat of engineering.

Shortly after leaving Greenly Island we encountered fog and heavy snow, and, in addition to that, the east wind which prevailed at Greenly at our departure changed round to west after about an hour's flying.

This slowed us considerably and compelled us to land at Natashquan.

There we stayed the night, and were very hospitably received.

On the following day at noon we left in a howling gale and heavy snow, and succeeded in reaching Clarke City about five in the afternoon.

There again we had to land, and were received with the utmost hospitality by Mr Coller, manager of the pulp mills, and at noon the following day took off for Murray Bay, where we met Miss Junkers and explained our situation to her.

NO FILM OFFERS ENTERTAINED.

FLIGHT NOT A "STUNT."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
QUEBEC, Friday.

In an interview, Major Fitzmaurice said that he was unable to say how long he expected to remain in the United States. He will, however, return to Canada to thank the Canadian people for their hospitality.

He stated that he was not interested in any possible offer to enter the "movies," saying: "This flight is not a stunt."

The Quebec Government has invited Major Fitzmaurice, Captain Köhl and Baron von Huenefeld to be the guests of the Government, and has offered them all possible assistance.

"FLIGHT NOT A STUNT."

PRESSMEN'S 'PLANE FORCED DOWN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
QUEBEC, Friday.

The Canadian aeroplane with Pressmen and cinema operators on board, which was returning from Greenly Island, was forced down last evening at Sacre Coeur, twenty miles north-east of Murray Bay, by a snowstorm.

SUMMER-TIME.

Summer-Time comes into force in the British Isles to-morrow at 2 a.m. All clocks should be advanced one hour.

CHARGES AGAINST RUSSIA.

MR CLYNES AND THE GOVERNMENT.

Addressing a meeting at Cory Hall, Cardiff, last night, Mr. J. R. Clynes, M.P., said:—If the implication that the Russian Government is using its money to support, in England, gunmen who are plotting a rebellion is not to be viewed as only another stunt of a Tory Minister, it must be viewed as a most serious charge against Russia. Labour proclaims its unqualified hostility to methods of revolt and to unconstitutional action. But no Government should treat another as the Russian Government is being treated by the Tory Party. The Russian offer now made for the most searching investigation should be accepted, and the charges should either be established or withdrawn.

The only gunmen we have known in this country are leading members of the Government who, in the year before the war, publicly supported acts of revolt in the Army and proclaimed their intention to resist the forces of the Crown if self-government were established in Ireland. They are the last men to be horrified at the foolish illegalities of others.

THE ISSUE OF PEACE.

The supreme consideration of world-peace offers now to the leaders of European nations, and to America, the opportunity of proving that they are statesmen, and not mediocre bunglers, who are throwing away the greatest chance of the age.

Every other issue, great as it may be, is secondary to the issue of enduring peace, and constant failures to agree may soon create a position in which democracy will despair of any beneficial change. Security against war is professed as the outstanding desire of all men who lead great nations. That state of security can best be found in agreement not to engage in war.

The objects of the League of Nations have been supplemented by the American offer to enter into treaties with other great nations to discard war as a means for settling anything, and men who cannot make the best of this new spirit must have learned nothing from experience, and are continuing to act as though no great war had impoverished the world.

FORD AEROPLANE FOR MAJOR FITZMAURICE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MURRAY BAY, Friday.

A three-engined Ford aeroplane from Detroit, piloted by Messrs. Balcken and Bennett, who will accompany Commander Byrd on his Antarctic flight, arrived here this afternoon, having covered the first 800 miles in nine hours. It left Detroit at 7 a.m. laden with 400 gallons of petrol and other equipment.

The aeroplane is expected to go on to Greenly Island with Major Fitzmaurice and spare parts for the Bremen as soon as practicable.

If the Bremen cannot be repaired, it is planned to bring Captain Köhl and Baron von Huenefeld from Greenly Island to Murray Bay in a relief 'plane, which will take off for the island to-morrow morning.

Besides spare parts, the 'plane will take with it clothes, food, cigars and cigarettes for the fliers.

A ROUND TRIP.

GERMANS WANT TO FLY BACK TO GERMANY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
GREENLY ISLAND, Friday.

Captain Köhl informed the Canadian Press that he and his German comrade intend to attempt to fly the Bremen back to Germany, thus making the first Transatlantic round trip.

Both Captain Köhl and Baron von Huenefeld talked freely with the correspondents, and posed for films to be taken.

When asked what their plans were for the future, Captain Köhl said: "As soon as the 'plane is repaired we will fly to New York, probably calling at Murray Bay and Montreal on the way. After that we hope to be able to arrange a flight from New York to our homeland."

Both airmen declared that they were in excellent health and high spirits. The forced landing made by the Bremen caused a slight cut on Captain Köhl's head, but Baron Huenefeld said: "It did not even force my monocle out of place."

Captain Köhl agreed with the statement made by Major Fitzmaurice in his message (published in yesterday's Irish Times), that the experiment of coating the wings of the 'plane with paraffin as a protection against snow and sleet freezing on during the flight had been a great success.

The correspondents subsequently had luncheon with the flyers. The party consisted of the two Germans, three French-Canadians, a Swede, an Englishman, and an American.

The "joint" consisted of salt pork and corned beef, and a toast to the airmen was drunk in milk.

Nearly thirty men are helping the flyers to repair their machine, but work is at present held up till the necessary spare parts arrive. The airmen have been overwhelmed with messages of congratulation from all parts of the world. They express the greatest appreciation of the "courtesy and kindness" which they have received from everyone.

THE LIGHTHOUSE CATERING.

The German airmen declare that they are now having a unique experience living with the lighthouse keeper and his family. Baron von Huenefeld especially requested the correspondents to point out that the lighthouse keeper in such a bleak spot should be provided with better food.

PERSIAN REBELLION CRUSHED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
TEHERAN, Friday.

The situation throughout Luristan is now reported to be satisfactory. Some rebel chiefs have submitted to the General Officer Commanding at Khoramabad, and declared their allegiance to the Shah. After visiting Khoramabad, the Shah has gone to Kermanshah.

[Note.—The Shah's troops were at the beginning of March reported to have finally subdued the insurgent Lurs. Only a fortnight ago, however, came the news that the Minister of Public Works had been killed in a skirmish with Lurs while on a tour of inspection. This led to a decision to despatch a punitive expedition, of which the Shah was reported to be taking personal command.]

5,000-YEAR-OLD TOMB.

KING ZOSER'S BODY MISSING.

WAS HE BURIED IN STEP PYRAMID?

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CAIRO, Friday.

Long and patient excavation work at a tomb at Sakkara that dates back fifteen centuries before that of the famous Tut-Ankh-Amen has ended in the discovery that, instead of containing, as had been hoped, the body of King Zoser, the builder of the Step Pyramid the sarcophagus chamber is empty.

Though some remarkable finds have been made in the course of the work, this ending to Mr. Cecil Firth's long and hazardous labours on behalf of the Department of Antiquities is naturally a great disappointment. Archæologists throughout the world have been anxiously awaiting the lifting of the veil of mystery surrounding the burial of the great Egyptian monarch whose reign marked the beginning of extensive building in stone and with whom the Third Dynasty arose. There were so many indications that the Sakkara tomb would prove the burial place of King Zoser that it became generally known as Zoser's tomb.

WONDERFUL FIGURES.

The excavation work done to reach the funerary chamber, far underground, has been followed with more than usual interest. The tomb has many unique features. Early stages of the excavation revealed two rooms, once finely decorated with blue tiles. One room contained limestone reliefs of King Zoser in the finest style of the Third Dynasty. The figures stand out by only a millimetere, yet every muscle is distinctly shown.

It is certainly the most remarkable tomb of the archaic or pre-pyramid age hitherto discovered, dating back fifty centuries—or fifteen centuries earlier than that of Tut-Ankh-Amen—and it is the earliest tomb to contain limestone relief. There were some remarkable specimens of alabaster wine jars—averaging three feet in height—in the passages, and it was confidently anticipated that something more than an empty granite sarcophagus chamber awaited the eye of the anxious excavator. But Mr. Firth will take his place philosophically in the already long line of similarly baffled archæologists who have endeavoured to probe the mystery of King Zoser's birthplace.

A TEMPORARY TOMB.

The sarcophagus chamber has not been plundered. It is simply empty, and yet the burial appears to have taken place there; for the funeral equipment has been found in one room. The most likely explanation is that it was a temporary resting place for the King's body, pending the completion of the Step Pyramid. If so, however, the body only remained there a short time before its removal to the more grandiose tomb in the Step Pyramid.

That the tomb has been found to be empty seems to confirm the impression that King Zoser was buried in the Step Pyramid, but nothing is definitely known, as that Pyramid was very thoroughly plundered before archæologists had any chance of investigating the interior, and maybe Kinz Zoser's remains have long since been blown to the four winds. Another, but less likely, supposition is that the tomb under excavation was the ritual tomb to commemorate His Majesty's attainment of a certain age.

CANADIAN AIR MAIL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENTS.
OTTAWA, Friday.

A tri-weekly air mail service from Rimouski, where the Atlantic steamers land the mails to Quebec, Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto, will shortly be established, effecting a saving of approximately twenty-four hours in the transport of the British mail to Toronto.

A service in the reverse direction to convey the mails to outgoing steamers will mean a similar speeding up of the deliveries.

JAPANESE LAND AT TSINGTAO.

CHINESE NATIONALISTS CLAIM SUCCESS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENTS.
SHANGHAI, Friday.

The Japanese landed 550 marines at Tsingtao this morning.

Nationalist headquarters report the capture, on April 16th, of Kufow-Hsien, the birthplace of Confucius, and a strategic centre, at which Chiang Kai-shek's and Feng-hsiang's armies have now formed a junction. The Nationlists also claim the capture of 32,000 prisoners, 32 field-guns, 18,000 rifles and 6,000 machine-guns.

WHY THE TROOPS WERE LANDED.

TOKYO, Friday.

In a statement regarding the reasons for the despatch of Japanese troops to China, Japan recalls that when she withdrew from Shantung last year she warned China that she was prepared to take steps to send a further expedition to protect Japanese lives and property if peace and order in the locality should again be disturbed.

The statement emphasises that the present despatch of troops does not imply unfriendly intentions in regard to China or interference in the military operations of either faction, and it declares that the troops will be withdrawn as soon as the danger to Japanese lives and property is past.

ITALY AND UNITED STATES.

ARBITRATION TREATY SIGNED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
ROME, Friday.

A Treaty of Arbitration between Italy and the United States of America was signed yesterday in Washington. At the beginning of this year the Italian Government informed the United States Government that it was ready to renew the Treaty of Arbitration which expired in 1924. In the meantime negotiations between the two Governments have proceeded with the greatest cordiality on both sides, and they have ended with the signing of the Treaty in Washington yesterday.

The desire for perpetual peace between the two peoples is expressed in the preamble to the Treaty. Various clauses fix the procedure for judicial arbitration and for dealing with possible disputes that are not embodied in the list of disputes which may be settled by means of arbitration.

In the first article of the new Treaty explicit reference is made to the other Treaty between Italy and the United States still in force, which was signed in Washington on May 5, 1914. The Treaty makes it obligatory for the two contracting parties to appeal to a permanent International Commission, comprising delegates from the two States, before resorting to military measures.

LORD TERRINGTON.

LODGED IN A LONDON POLICE STATION.

Escorted by Scotland Yard detectives, Lord Terrington arrived in London from France last night and was taken to Moor Lane Police Station, to which an infirmary is attached. It is understood that he will appear at the Mansion House Police Court to-day.

Hundreds of people who had gathered at Victoria Station, London, to see the arrival of Lord Terrington, were cleverly hoaxed by the police. Lord Terrington travelled up from Folkestone under an escort of two detectives in a private compartment in the front part of a Pullman coach. He was accompanied by Lady Terrington and several friends.

FOILED.

Uniformed and plain-clothes policemen kept a passage-way clear through the crowd to the motor car stand, but, while necks were craned to see him alight from the train, Lord Terrington was taken along the corridor and out through a door at the back of the train. He passed behind the waiting crowd and entered a private motor car, which immediately drove off. The crowd remained unenlightened as to what had happened for fully another ten minutes.

Lady Terrington, accompanied by a friend, then left the closely-watched door of the carriage and walked rapidly across the platform to another car, which also left immediately.

Even after this people still waited for Lord Terrington to emerge, and it was nearly half-an-hour after the train's arrival before they realised that they had been the victims of a smart ruse on the part of the police.

Lord Terrington, accompanied by Lady Terrington and two hospital attendants, left Douai for Boulogne at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. He travelled by taxi-cab, and twice during the journey complained of heart attacks. At Boulogne he he was examined by a French doctor and an English doctor before being handed over to Scotland Yard detectives, who brought him to England.

COMMANDER DANIEL LEAVES THE NAVY.

SEEKING A NEW POST.

Commander Daniel, who has decided to seek a new profession, following the Admiralty's decision respecting the court-martial sentences passed on the officers concerned in the incidents on the Royal Oak in the Mediterranean, told a Press Association reporter yesterday that he had cleared away every doubt with regard to his position.

"Had there been any hope," he said, "I should have clung to it. I feel, however, that such employment as the Admiralty could give me—and I appreciate the offer—would be distasteful to me. Naturally, it was with the very greatest regret that I have taken this decision to leave the Fleet."

ON HALF-PAY.

Commander Daniel went on: "There are many billets for commanders that are not on ships, and, in fact, the vacancies afloat are extremely few. The reason that I have not formally resigned is that I have not yet ascertained how this step should be taken to my best advantage financially, and being on half-pay allows me sufficient freedom to adopt a new profession within very wide limits.

"As for what I am going to do, I do not know yet. I am putting out feelers in every possible direction—industry, the Colonies—in fact, I am willing to consider anything. I have had no definite offers, and would not even go so far as to say I am in negotiation yet. I am keeping my eyes open all round."

POLITICS.

Commander Daniel, in reply to a suggestion that he might take an interest in politics, said: "Ah, I should have liked to. But to go in for politics requires money. If I had that money, I should certainly have liked something of the kind.

"My costs in connection with the court-martial have been very heavy, you know.

"There are many good fellows as able as myself doing nothing, unable to get jobs; but I am hopeful that something will turn up."

When the interview ended Commander Daniel remarked with a laugh: "Well, good-bye. I hope next time I see you I shall be able to tell you about a lucrative appointment."

AEROPLANES COLLIDE.

ACCIDENT AFTER NIGHT FLYING.

A Vickers Virginia bombing 'plane, descending after night flying practice at Biggin Hill Aerodrome early yesterday, ran along the ground and crashed head-on into a stationary bombing machine.

Both machines, which were locked together, were badly damaged, but no one was injured.

ATLANTIC "RECORD" CLAIMED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Friday.

Under such headings as "Sea Leadership Confirmed," to-day's evening papers give prominence to a Cherbourg despatch claiming a new speed "record" of 30 knots for the great liner Leviathan during yesterday's sailing.

The message states that the vessel, which had the advantage of a following wind, maintained this speed for several hours.

The "record" for the trans-Atlantic crossing from the United States to England is at present held by the Mauretania, which maintained an average speed of 27.5 knots during a period of twenty-four hours in April, 1922.

With regard to the Leviathan "record," Cunard officials here informed Reuter's Correspondent that they never considered any period shorter than twenty-four hours worth recording, or as constituting a fair test of real sustained speed, and pointed out that it was only reasonable to suppose that the Mauretania during her "record" run easily attained a speed of 35 knots for part of the time, if she did not actually exceed it.

TAX ON BUTTONS.

"SAFEGUARDING" PROPOSAL IN BRITAIN.

Should the recommendation of the Committee appointed by the Board of Trade under the Safeguarding of Industries Regulations be accepted, buttons imported into Great Britain will be taxed 33⅓ per cent.

In reports issued yesterday the Committee reject applications to safeguard pins, safety pins, hairpins, hooks and eyes, snap fastenings, glove domes, grips and similar fasteners, and refuse applications respecting hosiery and monumental and architectural granite.

LATE NEWS.

SITUATION IN MEXICO.

CHARGE AGAINST ARCHBISHOP.

FINANCES SAID TO BE IMPROVING.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Friday.

Mexican Government troops are still engaged in pacifying the State of Jalisco. The latest reports say that 18 rebels were recently killed in that State in two encounters.

The Government has brought a charge of violating the religious laws against the Archbishop of Yucatan and Senor Carlos Menendez, Director of El Diario de Yucatan, alleging that the publication some time ago of a pastoral letter of the Archbishops in the newspaper was an incitement to rebellion.

APPEAL FOR CLEMENCY.

The newspaper El Universal reports that a petition for clemency has been presented to President Calles on behalf of a priest and several other Roman Catholics of good character, who are now herded among a hundred persons in Mexico City prisons, awaiting deportation to the penal settlement in the Tres Marias Islands in the Pacific.

Another newspaper, El Sol, asserts that within a year 142 pieces of valuable church property, other than churches, have been taken over for Government uses.

FINANCE.

The Mexican Minister of Finance, Senor Montez de Oca, announced yesterday that the Mexican Government was now in a position, through effective economies, to meet its commitments for the current year without recourse to new taxation.

Among other things, he said that since the end of March the Government had been paying in cash all its indebtedness to the national railways; that Federal salaries had been paid in full to April 15th without the aid of the Bank of Mexico, and that £1,350,000 of Government debt had been paid in the first quarter of 1928, of which £450,000 was the balance of the second half of last year's service on the foreign debt.

The Government had discounted notes for £900,000 with the Bank of Mexico, but of these notes it had already amortised £160,000.

The improvement in Mexican finances had occurred, he said, in spite of an enormous reduction in the Federal receipts from oil taxation. Such receipts in the first quarter of 1925 had been £1,140,000, but by the first quarter of 1928, they were down to £260,000.

He said that there would be available for irrigation, road building and school building this year £3,000,000. Senor de Oca would not discuss plans for a new agreement on the foreign debt service.

EGYPTIAN PUBLIC MEETINGS.

THE NEW LAW.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—The Egyptian Government is faced by a serious responsibilty. A new law concerning public meetings was recently submitted to the Chamber by the then Prime Minister, Sarwat Pasha, and his colleagues. There it was amended to an extent that aroused great misgivings, both among European residents and among Egyptians. These misgivings were shared by His Majesty's Government. Before the contention of the Egyptian Prime Minister, that Great Britain is interfering unwarrantably in the domestic concerns of Egypt is examined, something must said of the bill to which the Government of this country has taken exception. The careless drafting and loose phraseology of the bill are bound to make it the firebrand's joy, and the despair of the police, who must wait, according to the letter of the law, till a mob actually begins to break heads or loot bakeries before they may call upon it to disperse.

Quite apart from its bearing on the relations between Egypt and Great Britain, the law is calculated to discredit the Egyptian Parliament. Before complaining that British interference would paralyse the Egyptian Legislature, Nahas Pasha might have inquired whether the action threatened by his Legislature would not paralyse the Egyptian Executive.

THE IRISH FREE STATE

STEADY MARCH TOWARDS PROSPERITY.

In a leading article on an interview which its Special Correspondent had with President Cosgrave, the Daily Express says:—All is well with the Irish Free State. That is the message which Mr. Cosgrave gives to the world this morning. The world in general, and Great Britain in particular, will receive it with the utmost gratification. Of the Irish Free State it can be said that it has not a single external enemy on earth. The whole Empire watches the steady march of the Free State towards prosperity and a mastery of the very difficult adventure of self-government with complete sympathy and admiration. What was always hoped for by the advocates of Irish Home Rule was that there would develop responsibility and a sense of realities. That hope is being realised abundantly.

The Free State has within her all the elements that make for stable government and material well-being, and she is turning them to account with an efficiency that, in the circumstances, is little less than astounding. Mr. Cosgrave may be very sure that the heartening record of progress he is able to present gives nowhere more satisfaction than among his fellow-citizens of Great Britain.

WALK TO TURKEY.

ENGLISH GIRL'S PLANS FOR A SIX MONTHS' TOUR.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Friday.

From the Lower Pyrenees to Constantinople on foot—that is the task that an English girl, Miss Jessie Reynolds, has set herself. She arrived at Bayonne by train from London and turned up at Mouguerre, to the surprise of a landowner, who saw her preparing her tent in his field. It was raining, and there was a cold wind.

The landowner engaged in conversation with Miss Reynolds, but could not make headway, as he did not understand English and the traveller was not at home with the French language.

A Marist monk in a château near by came to the rescue and got to know all about the English girl's plans. Miss Reynolds will walk through the Pyrenees and the South of France, stopping at Marseilles. She is in no great hurry. She will walk leisurely through Italy, Yugo-Slavia, and Rumania, and then go on to Constantinople.

Miss Reynolds hopes to reach Constantinople in six months.

YESTERDAY IN THE DAIL.

DEPUTY WHO LOST HIS WAY.

NOVEL VIEWS ON VACCINATION.

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

It is a certainty that, when they were publishing that bright little daily journal, the Acta Diurna, in ancient Rome, some politician got up now and again and demanded that the scribes be thrown to the lions. How Mr. Sean Lemass (Fianna Fail) would have enjoyed being a politician in those spacious days by the rolling Tiber!

PRESS ACCUSED OF IMAGINATION.

Restraining himself with difficulty until the House had passed a couple of bills and given them a parting shove on the way to the Senate, Mr. Lemass rose in his seat yesterday morning, with portentous mien that dimmed the pleasant sunshine, and launched a philippic against the Press Gallery. Having failed to subtract £27,360 from £25,636 on the previous day, he now added 2 and 2 and made the total fifteen.

BUSINESS DONE.

1—Second Report of the Committee on Procedure and Privilege laid on the Table, and ordered to be printed.
2—Weights and Measures Bill, 1928, passed and ordered to be sent to the Senate.
3—Local Government (Rates on Small Dwellings) Bill, 1928, passed and ordered to be sent to the Senate.
4—Estimates (1928-29) for Public Services (In Committee on Finance). Railway Tribunal Vote of £5,065 passed by 73 votes to 50.
5—Second Reading of Vaccination (Amendment) Bill debated two hours and adjourned.

The vote which he was moving on Thursday to reduce by £27,360, was, he declared most emphatically, a vote for £52,136. "There is no such figure mentioned throughout the estimate," said he, "as £25,636. It is a pure concoction, which originated in the imagination of the reporters present, and nowhere else."

SUPPORT FOR THE SCRIBES.

Unfortunately for Mr. Lemass, he was promptly set right by both President Cosgrave and the Minister for Industry and Commerce.

"That (£25,636) is the sum I moved for," said Mr. Cosgrave.

Mr. McGilligan was serenely indifferent to "the dispute between Deputy Lemass and the newspapers, but, in the interests of accuracy, the vote moved for yesterday (Vote No. 57) was that a sum not exceeding £25,636 be granted."

Mr. Lemass was frankly bewildered. The vote had not appeared on the Order Paper or in the Estimates. Somebody must have produced it like a rabbit out of a hat. These conjuring tricks really should be discouraged in the Dail.

He did not say that: he merely stated that it had not appeared in either of the official publications mentioned.

SPEAKER'S HELPING HAND.

The Speaker did his best to help the distressed deputy, but Mr. Hayes's statement, comprehensive though it was, might be found impossible of understanding in some cases without a wet towel tied around the head of the student of parliamentary procedure.

"The error," said the Speaker soothingly, "is one that is quite easy to make, and is not of an overwhelming or extravagant nature. When it was seen it was solved in quite a simple way, with the co-operation of Deputy Lemass and the Chair."

AN UNNECESSARY ADDITION.

There was no statistical tangle about the vote for £5,065 to complete the sum necessary to defray the salaries and expenses of the Railway Tribunal, but the Minister for Industry and Commerce had a hard time trying to convince Mr. Lemass and one or two of his friends of the necessary limitation of the scope of the debate.

When the Speaker put the vote to the House he declared it carried, as was, indeed, obvious. But, after a moment's pause, a voice from the Opposition benches murmured "Votail." Members of other parties audibly expressed their disgust, but there was no help for it, and they had the satisfaction, at any rate, of seeing the vote carried by 73 votes to 50.

BRIGHTER VACCINATION.

A relaxation of the political tension was almost immediately noticeable when the debate was resumed upon Mr. Everett's (Labour) bill to abolish compulsory vaccination.

As. Mr. Gerald Boland remarked, ingenuously: "This is not a party question: we all say what we wish on this," a naïve confession which moved even his own front-benchers to hearty laughter.

Mr. Boland's speech was easily the brightest of the debate, which was a very sluggish and solemn affair on the whole. Pro-lymphites and anti-lymphites quoted divers medical authorities and marshalled facts against one another with grim determination. Mr. J. J. Byrne (Cumann na nGaedheal) for the "antis" strayed off to Brazil for ammunition, while other deputies ransacked India, Prussia and the Netherlands for evidence.

SIMILAR IDEAS.

Mrs. Collins-O'Driscoll, who rarely contributes to the debates, poured the vials of her wrath on Mr. Everett and his followers, and incidentally caused much amusement. Mr. Byrne had alluded to his family responsibilities: Mrs. Collins-O'Driscoll retaliated by stating that she had "a family running into two figures," and knew what she was talking about. They had all been vaccinated, and it did not do them a bit of harm.

A gale of laughter shook the House when she read an ancient anti-vaccination pamphlet which warned all whom it might concern that people who submitted to the injection of lymph

Became ox-faced;
Developed abscesses which grew into horns;
Assumed the visage of a cow; and

"There seems to be as much sense in that," said Mrs. Collins-O'Driscoll, triumphantly, "as in some of the arguments put up in this House against vaccination."

to the faces of the medical men present when, in an endeavour to emphasise the responsibilities of the profession, he said that the doctor in a country district was looked upon as a sort of a deity.

The Minister for Local Government and Public Health flooded the House with statistics against the measure and made out a truly formidable case. Following on his heels, Mr. Boland, in the course of a very racy speech, assured the House, "I won't worry you about figures, because I hold if one takes statistics to prove a case, they can prove practically anything."

The House laughed all the louder because Mr. Boland had spent some ten minutes reading pages of statistics aloud from a bilious-looking sheet, which he stated was the "Vaccination Inquirer."

DOUBTING THOMAS.

"I would ask the deputy does he believe everything in that paper?" queried Mr. Mulcahy.

"No," said Mr. Boland, with a promptness that sent the House off again. "I never believe anything I see in any paper."

"I will now go to England," he continued, turning over a page, and there was more laughter, which was redoubled when he proceeded to suggest that some of the "doctor deputies" might not have had very much experience of small-pox.

"I have had experience of two epidemics of small-pox," said Sir James Craig, "and I vaccinated myself on each occasion."

"Ah," said Mr. Boland, waving the pale yellow sheet airily, "they were very small beer compared to England." The House by this time was thoroughly enjoying itself, including Mr. Boland's own colleagues.

WHOLESALE INOCULATION.

Why rest content with inoculating for small-pox only, asked Mr. Boland, if this system was so efficacious; why not inoculate one's child against tetanus in case he or she got a fall in the garden; why not inoculate for tuberculosis and all the rest?

He was not quite decided on the matter, however. His principal objection was to compulsory vaccination. "I think," he proclaimed, "it is like what they call Prussianism in excelsis."

In conclusion, he told the House that if there was an epidemic approaching, he would probably get his children vaccinated as the lesser of two evils, but was not going to be compelled to get them vaccinated when there was no sign of an epidemic on the horizon.

"Stout fella!" ejaculated somebody as he sat down.

Progress was reported almost immediately afterwards, and the House adjourned until 3 p.m. on Wednesday next.

AMERICAN PILGRIMAGE TO CROAGH PATRICK.

SPECIAL STEAMER TO SAIL FOR GALWAY.

One of the most interesting pilgrimages from America to the Irish Free State begins on July 14th from New York to Galway by the Cunard liner Samaria.

The Mayo Men's Association, of New York, has selected this luxurious post-war Cunarder to take part in the annual pilgrimage to Croagh Patrick—Ireland's holy mountain. A thousand Irish-Americans are expected.

This will be the first time for a great 20,000 ton liner to make the call at Galway, and will also be the first occasion on which a special Cunard sailing has been made in connection with this annual pilgrimage.

Special events arranged for the pilgrims during their stay include a visit to the grave of Michael Davitt at Straide, and a journey to Balla, where the visitors will pay tribute to the memory of P. W. Nally. Trips will also be made to Irishtown, the birthplace of the Land League, and to Killala.

At the present time Father Patterson, of Westport, is in America completing the arrangements for the departure of the pilgrims from New York and their reception on arrival at Galway in the Samaria.

OTHER SAILINGS EXPECTED.

It is confidently expected, our Galway Correspondent writes, that the sailing of the Samaria to Galway will be followed by a number of others by the Cunard Company. It is stated that the White Star Line is also contemplating the running of sailings to Galway Harbour from New York during the coming tourist season. Three of the five great shipping lines that call at Queenstown will then have made Galway a second Irish port of call.

It is quite possible that a White Star liner may arrive in Galway even before the Cunarder. Officials of the Cunard and White Star Companies were in Galway yesterday.

A DISINFECTING STATION.

Members of the Galway Urban Council commented in strong terms on the action of the Government in regard to the erection of a disinfecting station at Galway to provide facilities for passengers embarking on liners for America. It was stated that the Council were at first given to understand that there would be no inquiry necessary before sanction was given for the erection of the station. An inquiry was held.

Mr. J. S. Young (Vice-Chairman), who presided, said that if they had been told of the inquiry at the beginning they would not have minded. The way that the Council was treated was perfectly scandalous.

Mr. E. J. O'Flaherty—We were led to believe that no inquiry was necessary.

Mr. Conaire—They do not want it here at all, Mr. O'Flaherty; down South is coming at them.

Mr. O'Flaherty—I think that this Council should enter a strong protest, and that it should be conveyed to the local deputies.

Mr. Faller said that they should insist on their deputies doing what they wanted.

A resolution of protest was passed.

THE HARBOUR BOARD.

Reference was also made to the matter at the Harbour Board meeting, at which Mr. Martin McDonagh, T.D., presided. The neglect of the fishery shed at the docks was also referred to, and a resolution of protest passed.

The Chairman criticised the Fishery Department, stating that he had more boats fishing than the board, although they had four inspectors between Galway and Cleggan. They have perfectly good boats there, he said, and a storeful of gear, and why not give them to the fishermen and let them pay by result?

It seems, said Mr. Jackson, that the affairs of the nation are going to the dogs.

When a discussion concerning the development of the docks arose Mr. Young remarked that it would be a good thing if something could be done.

Mr. Jackson—They ought to be able to do something. They are collecting a great deal of money.

Mr. Young—That is all they are good for. (Laughter.) Some of the members are all right, but I would wipe the Cabinet off the slate. (Laughter.)

Chairman—You would not take their position to-morrow. They deserve a lot of credit, considering their experience and the sort of country they got.

Mr. Young—I admit all that, but why would they not try to consult local people and local bodies?

Mr. Jackson—A lot of the local bodies do not deserve much consideration.

A ROTARIAN'S ADVICE.

"HOLD YOUR TONGUE" IN RHYME.

Mr. J. R. Roberts, clerk to the Newcastle Justices since 1887, addressing the Newcastle Rotary Club yesterday, said that there was too much public speaking and writing to the Press. It was so easy to be misunderstood, and for jokes to be misinterpreted. Therefore, he offered this classic advice:

"If your lips would keep from slips, five things observe with care—To whom you speak, of whom you speak, and how, and when and where."

Mr. Roberts stated that, while he had been clerk, 400,000 cases had been heard at Newcastle Police Court, and there had only been three appeals, all being dismissed with costs.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

APPOINTMENT OF REGISTRARS.

A BOON TO TEACHERS.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.
WESTMINSTER, Friday.

Ten minutes after the House met this afternoon less than a score of members were in their places, and Mr. Thurtle called a count as the most effective method of whipping up the laggards. In any case, under the Standing Orders, the utmost that could have happened in the absence of a quorum was the suspension of the sitting for an indefinite period, but fortunately for the prospects of Captain Gunston's Bill, dealing with the appointment of Registrars of Births, Marriages and Deaths, there was a sufficient response to enable the debate to proceed.

Captain Gunston, in moving the second reading of the bill, said that the present system governing the appointment of these officials was hopelessly out of date and wholly illogical. The Registrars of Births and Deaths were paid on a sort of piecework scale. They got 1s. 3d. for the registration of a death, but 2s. 6d. for the mere copy of any entry, except in certain cases where social reform Acts of Parliament had reduced the fee for death certificates to sixpence. For attesting marriage notices they received nothing.

The system of remuneration by fees was out of date, and the bill proposed to substitute for it payment by a fixed salary, the scale of which had to be approved by the Treasury.

Mr. G. Peto, in seconding the motion, said that the only opposition to the bill came from crusted Whigs, bigotted reactionaries, and the admirers of the legislation of a bygone age.

Sir Kingsley Wood, for the Ministry of Health, gave his blessing to the bill, and it was read a second time without a division.

A second reading was also given to a bill brought in by Mr. Sandeman Allen, which provided that teachers who proceeded abroad for the prmary purpose of educating British children should be permitted to count four years' service in a foreign country towards the period which would qualify them for a pension, provided that they continued their superannuation payments.

Mr. Somerville, in seconding the motion, urged that a constant stream of teachers between this country and schools abroad would be a distinct advantage. Lord Eustace Percy, Minister of Education, warmly supported the bill, which, indeed, was approved of by members of all parties.

The bill then passed through its remaining stages, and was read a third time.

DIVIDED VILLAGE.

COMEDY OF 1,000 YEARS OLD BOUNDARY.

An extraordinary situation exists in Hockliffe, Bedfordshire, owing to the fact that half the village lies on the opposite side of Watling street and in a different ecclesiastical parish from the other half.

The Rector, the Rev. T. B. Tatham, told the Eton Bray Rural Council yesterday that half of the villagers belonged to a parish three miles away, so that he had to seek special permission from the ecclesiastical authorities to be chairman of his own school managers. When the villagers wanted to get married at their own church they had to resort to all kinds of ruses, such as renting a room or living with a friend on the other side of the road while the banns were published. If they did not do so they had to be married at Chalgrave Church, three miles away.

Even when they died they had difficulty in getting buried in their own parish. The Watling street boundary of the parishes was one thousand years old, and was made when there was not a single house in what was now the village of Hockliffe.

The Rural Council decided to petition the Bedfordshire County Court to alter the boundaries.

THE BOOK OF MORMON

DECLINED BY BELFAST LIBRARIES.

The Libraries, Museums and Art Committee of the Belfast Corporation had before them yesterday an offer to supply copies of "The Book of Mormon" for the city branch libraries. The offer was declined.

"We are desirous of placing a copy of 'The Book of Mormons' in each of your libraries, and we will appreciate the privilege of doing so."

This was the essence of a letter written to the Committee by Lovell Youngberg, travelling missionary, Ulster District "Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints," Limestone road, Belfast; but the proposal did not meet with the approval of either the Chairman or his colleagues, and was marked "declined."

CATHOLIC SOCIAL LIFE IN HOLLAND.

LECTURE IN DUBLIN.

In connection with the Catholic Young Men's Society Social Week in Dublin, Heer Serranens, of Holland, delivered a lecture to a large audience last night in Clery's Restaurant, on "Catholic Social Life in Holland." Mr. James McMahon presided.

Heer Serranens said that he should like to correct some mis-statements which may have arisen through misunderstandings. As he had said in his first lecture, he did not come to Dublin in order to give lessons either to Irish trades unions or to Irish Catholics, nor was he invited for such a purpose. His position was that he wanted to make quite clear what was the position on the Continent, and to tell them that the purposes and means of their Christian Trade Union International, which was sure to find friends in Ireland. He would leave it to the Irish people to draw their own conclusions. After his lectures several Irish trade union leaders took the floor to declare that the Irish trade unions were Christian unions; that they were chiefly composed of Catholics, but that they were led according to Christian principles. He was glad to be able to note this.

In the course of his address he sketched the difficulties and the persecution which his co-religionists underwent in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries from the majority of the population and from the Governments. At length they combined and demanded their rights as citizens, and they went on from one stage to another until at present they had full freedom, socially and religiously. Since 1868, when the five bishops of Holland issued a joint pastoral, in which they demanded their rights for their flocks, matters improved considerably. Their social organisations, in every grade of society, were working on strictly Christian principles, and their schools were admirably managed.

On the motion of Mr. T. J. O'Connell, T.D., seconded by Mr. Frank Duff, the thanks of the meeting were given to the lecturer.

THE MARGARET STOKES MEMORIAL LECTURES.

THE BLASKET ISLANDS.

Two lectures will be delivered at Alexandra College, Dublin, under the Margaret Stokes Memorial Trust, by Dr. Robin Flower on the afternoons of Wednesday, April 25th, and Thursday, April 26th, at 4 o'clock. The subject is "The Blasket Islands," where Dr. Flower has spent many months on different occasions. The lectures are entitled:—I., "An Island in Kerry: from the Present to the Past"; II., "An Island in Kerry: the Past."

Dr. Flower is recognised by Irish scholars as a leading authority on mediæval literature, both Irish and Continental, and has closely identified himself with Irish studies by his writings. Last year he delivered before the British Academy the Sir John Rhys Memorial Lecture, taking as his subject "Mediæval Ireland." At the lecture next Wednesday the chair will be taken by the Provost of Trinity College, and on Thursday by Dr. J. Joly, F.R.S., Warden of Alexandra College. Each lecture will be illustrated at its close by lantern slides, showing the scenery and people of the Blasket Islands.

LESSONS AND INCIDENTS OF THE ATLANTIC FLIGHT.

WIRELESS NECESSARY, SAYS MAJOR FITZMAURICE.

MURRAY BAY (QUEBEC), Thursday.

In this article I intend to go into the details concerning the successful flight by Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Köhl across the Atlantic, and tell of the hazards we encountered throughout the latter part of our trip.

For the first four hours we had fair weather, and then we worked our way round local snowstorms. With exceptions, light snow showers fell until we reached a point about three hundred to four hundred miles off Newfoundland These isolated snow-sleet storms presented a beautiful spectacle. They appeared like huge sprays of steam issuing up from the ocean with sheer edges all round.

We skirted the fringe of several of these for the purpose of ascertaining what they were, and in each case found them to be snow sleet, caused by precipitation in cold air. At times we saw what we thought to be icebergs in the distance, but by the use of binoculars found them to be merely shadows of clouds on the water.

LIGHT THAT FAILED.

As soon as it got dark, Köhl switched on the interior cabin lights, but for some reason they did not work, and we found ourselves in darkness. Fortunately, we had some small torches, but we could only use these in flashes, as a continuous beam made too much glare inside the cockpit. Once while resting, with Köhl flying, I dropped off to sleep with a torch in my left hand, and the torch slipped out of my hand and dropped to the floor of the cockpit under my feet. It was missed immediately I awoke, as I wanted to glance at the instruments, particularly the compass, but, owing to the confined space in the pilot's cabin, it was extremely hard to retrieve this torch. Eventually it was fished up from the bottom of the machine.

Through the day Köhl and I flew in turn, each taking three hours on and three off; but at night we worked one hour on and one off. We sat side by side with the Baron in the cabin behind. We navigated entirely by the sun during the day and by the stars at night, when they were visible.

CHECKING THE DRIFT.

Flying over Galway and Slyne Bay our drift was carefully checked. Throughout the whole day we were fortunate to have the sun for our guide, except for short intervals when obscured by clouds. Every four hours special smoke bombs were dropped into the water and the machine was circled, with the drift gauge brought into operation. Direction and approximate velocity of the wind were obtained, and our course was altered when necessary.

From Ireland to mid-Atlantic light East-South-East winds were encountered; for we were passing over an area that had been a low pressure area a few days earlier but had started filling up the evening before we left. These light, variable winds did not have much effect on the navigation of the Bremen.

In mid-Atlantic a fairly gusty North-Easterly wind was experienced. White horses had indicated as much to us. Of course, a smoke bomb was immediately dropped to obtain the direction and velocity of this wind.

We estimated the velocity at between fifteen and twenty miles an hour at the surface. There was nothing very alarming in this, and we realised these conditions existed over merely a small area. Our estimation was correct, and during the latter part of the evening, up to the time we reached the fog bank, the sea looked like sheet glass, with scarcely a ripple on it, and there was hardly any wind to bother about.

GALE AND FOG.

The gale that we encountered off Newfoundland was accompanied by fog. Both Köhl and myself had lots of experience of flying by night and in fog, and were not apprehensive. We knew that the machine was good, that our instruments were good, and that we were capable of doing it. We were concerned, more than frightened, simply because we knew that we were approaching land as darkness was falling. We also realised that fog would prevent us from sighting any landmarks, such as lighthouses or lighted towns, which otherwise would give us every indication that we had reached the coast.

Our fears were perfectly correct. We did fail to sight land until we were many miles inland, and I have no hesitation in saying that, had it not been for that frightful fog off Newfoundland, we could easily have reached New York on the following day without any bother.

The trip from Newfoundland to New York was quite the simplest part of the whole journey. We all deeply regret we did not make the last leg of the journey, for I understand there was a large crowd awaiting to welcome us. We were frightfully sorry to have disappointed them, but it was not our fault.

MEALS IN THE AIR.

The food we carried on the journey consisted of about a dozen beef sandwiches, some peeled oranges, bananas, hard-boiled eggs, coffee, tea and beef tea—rather an ugly mixture, and one that made me sick a little later on.

I had never been sick in the air before. When we required anything to eat the Baron passed it round, our first helping consisting of a sandwich each, some hard-boiled eggs and tea, which we had at 11 o'clock that first morning.

THE BARON SERVES TEA.

About five o'clock Köhl pointed to the chronometer, and jokingly remarked:—"It is now tea-time." Tea was duly served by the Baron. During that time we were in a bad storm, flying low over the water.

But before darkness fell Köhl and I decided to have a substantial meal to last us through the night, as we would be too occupied later on. We ate beef sandwiches, bananas, and coffee. I thoroughly enjoyed that meal until after drinking the coffee, which did not taste very nice. This, coupled with the fact that I was sitting on the exhaust side of the engine, with exhaust fumes of benzol coming into the cabin, made me dreadfully sick. However, I felt fine after it was over, my only regret was that my effort eating this meal was for nothing.

As a precaution against the formation of ice on the wings, the whole machine was swabbed down with paraffin oil. We had heard quite a lot about the formation of ice on wings, and experiments carried out in Germany to ascertain the effect of this. It was found that paraffin oil was the only effective preventive, and although we flew through thick fog, sleet, and snow for a considerable time, no ice formed on the wings of the Bremen.

FIFTY FEET ABOVE THE SEA.

All day from the time of leaving the Irish coast until arrival off the fog bank, the Bremen was never more than fifty feet above the surface of the water, except on stretches where we encountered east winds, when we pulled up to about one thousand feet in order to obtain the greatest advantage by reason of increased velocity at greater height; but, where adverse winds were met, we stayed as low as possible.

During the night, in case we should reach the coast without knowing it, and possibly run into a mountain, the machine was taken up to six thousand feet, at which height it remained throughout the night.

A SCIENTIFIC ENDEAVOUR.

The flight of the Bremen was no mere stunt. It was a carefully prepared scientific endeavour, in which every possible danger or cause of failure was written down, considered from every possible angle, and the best possible precautions adopted to eliminate or reduce them to the lowest point of danger.

The question of wireless received a serious consideration, but it was decided that an efficient useful wireless set would weigh approximately one hundred and eighty pounds. It was decided that this weight of benzol would be better.

WIRELESS ESSENTIAL.

This was the one weak point in the organisation of the flight. As we now realise, had we had a wireless set on board, upon our estimated arrival in the neighbourhood of Newfoundland we could have been given almost our exact position by direction-finding stations along the coast, have been informed of the precise direction and velocity of the wind over the sea, and would have made New York easily with our objective accomplished.

We consider that wireless is absolutely essential for all future undertakings of this nature.

A glance at the map does not give much idea of the formation of the Labrador-Newfoundland-Nova Scotia coast. It is one of the most difficult places in the world in which to arrive, and to locate one's position upon arrival.

It is quite possible for the pilot of the machine in poor visibility to strike the North American Continent between Cape Race and Cape North, flying in over the large Gulf of St. Lawrence, and still to think that he is flying over the Atlantic Ocean. He would easily run out of petrol over this huge expanse of water—the size of which can be appreciated by comparing it with a map of Ireland—and to be forced to alight in the water, which is equally as rough and dangerous as the Atlantic Ocean itself.

A further point is that arrival at Newfoundland on all East to West flights should be scheduled to take place in or about dawn, not at night, when the difficulties of finding one's position are a hundred per cent. more difficult.

COMPASS USELESS.

Our experience over Labrador, and a comparison of the actual lay-out with the charts available, lead us to believe that there are large hills containing heavy deposits of magnetic ore in the neighbourhood, on account of which the magnetic compass is of no practical use.

If a small Gyro compass could be perfected this difficulty would be eliminated. In our own case the compass was used only during fog. Later, on clearing the fog, direction was maintained with the aid of stars. For all these reasons and all these difficulties we realise that we, too, might have shared the tragic fate of those glorious pioneers who failed had it not been for our careful consideration of all the problems involved, and the measures we took to overcome all the formidable obstacles we encountered.

WAR ON RATS.

FIRST INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

PARIS, Friday.

What is probably the "First International Congress on the Rat" will be opened in the Grand Amphitheatre of the Sorbonne on May 16th. Despite the rather facetious title of this assemblage the scientists from England, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy and America who are to take part in it, declare that the rat business is a serious one, and calls for the consideration of the best brains of the scientific and legislative world. While most people think of the rat as an annoying household pest, few of them realise, the scientists point out, that this little animal, working away out of sight, is one of the most dangerous enemies of mankind.

In France alone, according to the available statistics, rats annually destroy more than 1,000,000,000 gold francs' worth of property. "Rats are making good progress in conquering the world," according to Professor Calmette, President of the Committee. "For the past two centuries, by means of the commercial trade, which is multiplying between nations, they have crossed the seas and invaded our ports. To-day our cities and countryside are swarming with immense numbers of them. They devour the grain which we transport on our vessels, or pile up on our docks; they attack the harvests of our fields. And not only are they developing in a manner which threatens to be ruinous to our agriculture, our commerce and our industries, but they are revealing themselves as a terrible danger to public health. They carry and disseminate pestilence, trichinosis, the rabies and scurvy; they are commercial travellers for the germs of death for humanity."

During the twelve days of the Conference experiments in rat-extermination will be carried out in the medical school in the suburbs, and finally at Havre.

BALKAN EARTHQUAKE.

GREAT DESTRUCTION AT PHILIPPOPOLIS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SOFIA, Thursday.

Except for a small area, about a quarter of a mile across, which is situated on high ground in the centre of the town, Philippopolis has suffered severely from the earthquake. Over a dozen of villages have been so damaged that only a few houses can be seen among the ruins.

The casualty list is increasing steadily. At present more than a hundred dead bodies have been counted, but it is not yet known how many are buried under the ruins.

In two quarters of Philippopolis alone 1,036 houses have been destroyed, and 110 others are uninhabitable.

Friday.

At half-past nine o'clock last night a severe earthquake shock was felt at Haskovo, 44 miles south-east of Philippopolis, a village of over a thousand inhabitants and a tobacco centre. The shock was a violent one, and was followed by others less severe, which continued throughout the night. Haskovo had been relatively free from the previous earthquake shocks, which had only brought down a few chimneys and cracked some houses. Last night's shock, although more violent than any of the others, did not cause any great destruction, apart from fallen chimneys and damaged walls. The population, warned by the previous shocks, had left their houses, with the result that no one was hurt.

FLYING PILOT'S DEATH.

LIEUTENANT KINKEAD'S ERROR OF JUDGMENT.

EXPERT'S VIEW AT THE INQUEST.

It was revealed yesterday at the resumed inquest, at Calshot, on Flight-Lieutenant Kinkead that at the moment of his death he had probably decided to abandon his attempt to break the world's flying "record" owing to the weather conditions.

Major J. P. C. Cooper, Inspector of Accidents to the Air Ministry, put forward this view, and stated that, in his opinion, Kinkead misjudged his altitude above the water, and "stalled" at a height of about fifty feet.

HEIGHT MISJUDGED.

Major Cooper said that, as a result of his examination of the wreckage, he came to the conclusion that no part of the aircraft structure or controls broke or failed to function normally during the flight; nor did the engine fail.

I am of opinion, he said, that the machine "stalled" at the height of about fifty feet when the pilot was attempting to land, and that Kinkead misjudged his height above the water. I think he had abandoned the idea of flying the speed course.

The Coroner—So far as you know there was no reason why he should abandon the flight?

Major Cooper—My opinion is that he abandoned it because of the weather conditions.

He added that he was definitely of opinion that Kinkead did not do, or omitted to do, anything as a result of being affected in the slightest degree by fumes. He had heard of the evidence to the effect that the tail and rudder was fluttering, but he was convinced that was an illusion caused by the reflection of the light off the rudder on to the tail. There was a deflector on the windscreen to throw off any fumes from the centre block of cylinders. It would be a disadvantage to have the pilot entirely enclosed in the cockpit of a machine of this type.

OUT FOR SPEED.

"We are out for speed," said Major Cooper, "and we have got to sacrifice certain things to attain that end." Everything possible had been done to eliminate danger from fumes and to reduce the possibility of accident to a minimum.

The Coroner—I understand that another attempt to break the record is going to be made, and it would be lamentable if there were another fatality.

Major Cooper—I think you can take it that everything that can be done has been done, and will be done.

INSPECTOR'S PROPHECY.

He added that possibly in a year's time everybody would be flying at two hundred to three hundred miles an hour.

The Coroner said that Kinkead's death was due to misadventure, caused by hemorrhage, shock and extensive injuries, as a result of the seaplane diving into the sea owing to the loss of flying speed when he was attempting to land.

"I feel sure that everything possible will be done to eliminate the danger from fumes, and I am satisfied that in a machine of this type it is not feasible totally to enclose the pilot in the cockpit."

DUBLIN WORKING GIRLS.

DRILL COMPETITIONS.

There was a very large attendance last night at the annual competitions of the Dublin Working Girls' Drilling Association in the Metropolitan Hall.

Lady Moore presided and presented the prizes. Eighteen teams competed.

The Lady Moore Cup for skipping was won by Una Ford.

The Dorothy Ashe Cup for solo club swinging—1, M. Fegan; 2, A. Fegan.

Open Skipping Competition—1, B. Daly; 2, A. Murray.

The Katherine Ross Cup—M. Carter.

Free Work Competition—Grangegorman "A" Team.

Cup open to any team not winning a prize within the last ten years—St. Barnabas' Team (C.M. Hall).

The Strand Street Cup—1, Emerald Rechabite Club; 2, Grangegorman "A"; 3, St. Catherine's. All three teams were trained by Miss E. K. Pemberton.

Sir John Lumsden congratulated the performers very heartily on the splendid demonstration, and said that he had enjoyed the evening's entertainment very much. "You are all very beautiful-looking young women," he said. (Laughter and applause.) "There is beauty of character, beauty of voice, beauty of face, and beauty of gait and carriage. I think that a woman who knows how to walk, how to stand and how to move is a most attractive and beautiful thing. I have noticed in recent years a most extraordinary improvement in gait and deportment and carriage. I believe that it is due to physical culture such as you carry on here. I hope that this association of yours will go on and prosper; it is a most important thing for the community."

Lady Moore thanked Sir John Lumsden for coming to speak, and asked for a hearty cheer for him that would ring in his ears all the way home.

THE HON. LOIS STURT

RECEIVED INTO ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The Hon. Lois Sturt, sister of Lord Alington, who to-day is to marry the Hon. Evan Morgan, Lord Tredegar's son, at the Brompton Oratory, London, was received into the Roman Catholic Church by the Rev. Father Martindale, S.J., yesterday. The ceremony took place at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Farm street. Miss Sturt had been instructed by Father Martindale.

HAPPY TRAMPS.

REST HOUSE WITH GRAND PIANO

The house is furnished with lighting facilities, pots, pans, crockery and a grand piano. Numerous games, including draughts and dominoes, are also provided.

NEW IRISH WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

The first issue of The Standard, a new Irish weekly organ of Roman Catholic opinion, will be published on the 19th of next May. It has been established in response to a desire expressed at the National Synod of Maynooth. A company has been formed with a capital of £20,000, the greater part of which has been subscribed, and the directors include four clergymen—one representing each ecclesiastical province of Ireland—and four representative laymen. Dr. Arthur Conway, D.Sc., F.R.S., of University College, Dublin, is chairman of the board, and the managing director is Mr. Andrew O'Shaughnessy, of the Dripsey Paper Mills. The Rev. Joseph Deery has been appointed editor. One page of the new paper will be devoted entirely to the Irish language.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY.

There will be a general meeting of the Royal Irish Academy at the Academy House, 19 Dawson street, Dublin, on Monday, 23rd April, 1928, at 4.15 p.m., for the transaction of general business. Papers to be read:—Thomas J. Nolan, B.A., D.Sc., and Michael T. Casey, M.Sc.—"The Nature of the Pigment of the Elderberry" (Part I.). Herbert Wood, B.A., F.R Hist.Soc.—"The Offices of Secretary of State for Ireland and Keeper of the Signet or Privy Seal."

EARL'S SISTER'S PRECEDENCE.

It is announced in the London Gazette that the King had ordered that Wilhelmina Joan Mary FitzClarence, sister of Geoffrey, Earl of Munster, shall enjoy that title, rank, place, pre-eminence and precedence which would have been hers had her father, the late Harold Edward FitzClarence, survived his brother Aubrey, Earl of Munster, who died on January 1st, and thereby succeeded to the title of Earl of Munster.

U.S. MARKETS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)
NEW YORK, Friday.

The Stock Exchange will be closed to-morrow. Stocks opened weak, and prices broke sharply, following the higher rediscount rates and an increase of 135,000,000 dollars in brokers' loans for the week, early losses ranging from 2 to 7 points. However, buying support by powerful pools resulted in a brisk rally, and 4½ p.c. call money stimulated the recovery. Radio broke 7 points to 175½ before reacting. Delaware and Hudson rallied from 190 to 197, and numerous others advanced 3 to 6, while New York Tractions were heavily bought and Oils well supported. In the final dealings an organised bear attack carried down representative shares to the lowest levels for the day, and Du Pont, General Motors, Hudson Motors, International Nickel, New York Central, Radio, Case Threshing Machine, and Commonwealth Power declined 4 to 10 points, and the substantial advances in Local Tractions, Oils, and miscellaneous issues were either cancelled or largely reduced. The market closed weak. Government Bonds and Railroad Bonds easy. The day's sales totalled 3,789,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady at 4½ p.c. bid and 4¾ asked. Actual business ranged from 4½ p.c. to 4¾ p.c., with the ruling rate 4¾ p.c. The last loan was made at 4½ p.c. Sterling exchange steady. Silver ⅛c. lower at 57⅞.

Railroad earnings for the month of March Kansas City and Southern, gross $1,777,000, decrease $58,000; net $476,000, decrease $29,000.

NEW YORK COTTON.

COTTON commenced steady, 1 point higher to 3 lower. A forecast for better weather caused some recessions early; then an official report of an outbreak of pink bollworm in West Texas, causing quarantine in nine counties, influenced commission house buying. Later, however, Southern selling and less alarm over the bollworm report brought recessions, and the market closed barely steady at 12 to 5 points fall. Spot quiet and 5 points lower. New Orleans futures opened 5 to 7 points higher. After moderate reactions prices rose again, and at 11.45 May reached 19.87, July 19.74, October 19.46, and December 19.46; but the improvement was not maintained, and around 1.45 May was quoted 19.73, July 19.57, and October 19.30. The market closed 7 to 3 points down. Spot 7 points lower.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Friday.

WHEAT opened easy, 2½c. to 1½c. lower, on weak Liverpool advices, and was further depressed by the official Argentine report stating that eighty million bushels of wheat remain on hand for export. Advices of some rains over parts of Missouri, Kansas, and Texas assisted the bearish sentiment, and the market finished weak, 2⅞c. to 3⅜c. down. CREDULOUS MAYO FARMER.

"MONEY MAKERS" PAY THE PENALTY.

The story of a tinker's promise to turn £5 10s. into £65 was told at Kiltimagh (Mayo) District Court, when Owen and Patrick Maughan, tinkers, of no fixed abode, were charged, on remand, with obtaining money by false pretences.

Michael Hyland, a farmer, said that he met the defendants at the fair of Kiltimagh on March 29 last, when they told him they would make £65 in money for him if he gave them £5 10s. After selling a cow he gave them the £5 10s. Before that they had "made" some money for him. He did not get the £65. He was given a parcel and a bottle containing a mixture of water, stout and soda. (Laughter.)

Owen Maughan, who is 73 years of age, admitted getting the £5 10s. from Hyland, who was always pressing them to "make" money.

The defendantes were each sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

LONDON, Friday.

Miss Margaret Kennedy and Mrs. Basil Dean are jointly responsible for the new play, "Come With Me," at the New Theatre. It is another version of the eternal triangle. A modern young woman, wealthy, well-connected, and reasonably intelligent, is torn between her love for a young mechanic and the attraction which a charming cousin has for her. She decides in favour of the poor suitor and love in a cottage, but reckons without the commonplace happenings of every-day life and the interference of silly relations.

Both families do their best to bring about a rupture between the young people, and the husband does not help matters by neglecting his young wife in order to complete a gearless motor car. A dramatic climax is reached when the husband shoots the lover cousin in his garage in mistake for a burglar, and the trial that ensues is one of the best court scenes I have ever witnessed.

The piece needs a little cutting, especially in the first act. One of the most entertaining scenes in the play is the tea party at the husband's garage. Here the contrasting types of the wife's people and the husband's relations are most amusingly shown.

Every part was well played. Mr. Dean has a flair for correct casting. Miss Edna Best, as the wife, was in tune with all the characters' varying moods. Her last scene with Herbert Marshall, the husband, after he has been acquitted, was a sincere and impressive one. Mr. Marshall's own work was consistently good, and Miss Ada King and Mr. Gordon Harker contributed two excellent little character sketches. Others in the cast who deserve special mention are Norman V. Norman, Henry Oscar, Ian Hunter, Aubrey Mather, Lydia Sherwood, Eliot Makeham, and Marcus Barrow.

"LOVE IN A VILLAGE."

Mr. Nigel Playfair has a positive genius for the production of eighteenth century comic opera. He was responsible for reviving Gay's "The Beggar's Opera," and he also produced "Polly," "Sheridan," and later Isaac Bickerstaffe's "Lionel and Clarissa."

Mr. Alfred Reynolds, who conducted the performance, arranged the score with considerable skill, and his own additions to Dr. Arne's music are most ingenious.

Mr. George Sheringham, who designed the scenery and costumes, is also to be congratulated on some charming settings and dresses; while the acting and singing of all taking part in this revival is delightful.

Many of the tunes are very gay and pretty; the dances are most attractive in their simplicity, and the whole production reflects the greatest credit on Mr. Playfair.

Miss Sybil Crawley sings sweetly as Lucinda, Miss Rose Hignell is altogether charming as Rosetta, and Mr. Frederick Ranalow was in excellent voice as Hawthorn. The trio at the end of the second act, splendidly rendered by these three characters, is one of the best things in the opera. Stanley Lothbury, Una O'Connor, Viola Lyle, Leonard Gowlands and Leslie Holland also are in the cast.

PLAY BANNED BY LORD CHAMBERLAIN.

OBJECTION TO BRANDING SCENE.

A new play, entitled "Danger," which was about to be produced in Great Britain, has been banned by the Lord Chamberlain, who objects to a scene in which a girl is branded with a red-hot iron by a Spaniard. The play was submitted to the Lord Chamberlain's Office for licence by Mr. Norman Lee, the well-known theatrical producer, and he received the following reply from the chief clerk:—

"I am desired by the Lord Chamberlain to inform you that 'Danger' has been read and passed on the understanding that the torture scene is modified to the extent of omitting entirely the tearing off of the dress of 'Ruth' and the actual production of the red hot iron. On receipt of an undertaking to this effect the licence will be forwarded to the manager of the Theatre Royal, Inverness."

Mr. Lee wrote in reply to the Lord Chamberlain pointing out that licences had been given to plays where a man was hanged, where a man was electrocuted, and where a man had his throat cut. His play, he said, had been written around the branding scene, and to withdraw it would ruin the whole play. He guaranteed that if the production was allowed the hot iron would not be placed within reach of the girl's flesh.

Mr. Lee, who is at present rehearsing the play on the stage of the theatre at Perth, Scotland, made a public appeal to a full house on Thursday night, and he states that his attitude was approved.

£500 GIFT TO THE NATION.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has received from Lloyd's Bank £500, as a contribution from one of their customers, who desires to remain anonymous, towards the reduction of the national debt. Mr. Churchill desires to express the thanks of His Majesty's Government for this gift to the nation, and their appreciation of the donor's generosity and patriotism.

Her last scene with Herbert Marshall, the husband, after he has been acquitted, was a sincere and impressive one. Mr. Marshall's own work was consistently good, and Miss Ada King and Mr. Gordon Harker contributed two excellent little character sketches. Others in the cast who deserve special mention are Norman V. Norman, Henry Oscar, Ian Hunter, Aubrey Mather, Lydia Sherwood, Eliot Makeham, and Marcus Barrow.

"LOVE IN A VILLAGE."

Mr. Nigel Playfair has a positive genius for the production of eighteenth century comic opera. He was responsible for reviving Gay's "The Beggar's Opera," and he also produced "Polly," "Sheridan," and later Isaac Bickerstaffe's "Lionel and Clarissa."

Last night Mr. Playfair presented the last-mentioned author's "Love in a Village," to a thoroughly appreciative audience, at the Lyric, Hammersmith.

Mr. Alfred Reynolds, who conducted the performance, arranged the score with considerable skill, and his own additions to Dr. Arne's music are most ingenious.

Mr. George Sheringham, who designed the scenery and costumes, is also to be congratulated on some charming settings and dresses; while the acting and singing of all taking part in this revival is delightful.

Many of the tunes are very gay and pretty; the dances are most attractive in their simplicity, and the whole production reflects the greatest credit on Mr. Playfair.

Miss Sybil Crawley sings sweetly as Lucinda, Miss Rose Hignell is altogether charming as Rosetta, and Mr. Frederick Ranalow was in excellent voice as Hawthorn. The trio at the end of the second act, splendidly rendered by these three characters, is one of the best things in the opera. Stanley Lothbury, Una O'Connor, Viola Lyle, Leonard Gowlands and Leslie Holland also are in the cast.

PLAY BANNED BY LORD CHAMBERLAIN.

OBJECTION TO BRANDING SCENE.

A new play, entitled "Danger," which was about to be produced in Great Britain, has been banned by the Lord Chamberlain, who objects to a scene in which a girl is branded with a red-hot iron by a Spaniard. The play was submitted to the Lord Chamberlain's Office for licence by Mr. Norman Lee, the well-known theatrical producer, and he received the following reply from the chief clerk:—

"I am desired by the Lord Chamberlain to inform you that 'Danger' has been read and passed on the understanding that the torture scene is modified to the extent of omitting entirely the tearing off of the dress of 'Ruth' and the actual production of the red hot iron. On receipt of an undertaking to this effect the licence will be forwarded to the manager of the Theatre Royal, Inverness."

Mr. Lee wrote in reply to the Lord Chamberlain pointing out that licences had been given to plays where a man was hanged, where a man was electrocuted, and where a man had his throat cut. His play, he said, had been written around the branding scene, and to withdraw it would ruin the whole play. He guaranteed that if the production was allowed the hot iron would not be placed within reach of the girl's flesh.

Mr. Lee, who is at present rehearsing the play on the stage of the theatre at Perth, Scotland, made a public appeal to a full house on Thursday night, and he states that his attitude was approved.

£500 GIFT TO THE NATION.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has received from Lloyd's Bank £500, as a contribution from one of their customers, who desires to remain anonymous, towards the reduction of the national debt. Mr. Churchill desires to express the thanks of His Majesty's Government for this gift to the nation, and their appreciation of the donor's generosity and patriotism.

EXPLOSIVES IN SWISS TUNNEL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT

According to the National Zeitung, the police have arrested at Kuessnacht a young man suspected of being responsible for having placed detonators on the St. Gothard line, in the tunnel between Kuessnacht and Immensee, last Saturday. It is stated that the man stole the detonators from a workshop adjoining the line.

The paper remarks that the whole episode was probably intended to be a practical joke, and that the joker himself did not realise the danger of what he was doing.

SUNNY TRACE SCORES.

A PROMISING COLT.

TAMPION REVERSES FORM WITH SWOOP.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LINGFIELD, Friday Night.

This day's racing has not been very interesting, probably owing to the clashing with Derby and Bogside, and the only thing that lifted it above tedium was the presence in the Lingfield Park Spring Stakes of Lord Dewar's classic candidate, Sunny Trace. It would have been more interesting if some of the good ones had turned out against him, but such as Hot Night, Nance and Gang Warily (with the last-named of whom all is far from well, I understand) absented.

Maer Hills was the only one at all fancied to beat Sunny Trace, but this filly, who ran so close up to Pharamond and Parwiz in the Middle Park Stakes, has not done well, is light-looking and weak, and will require much more time. Sunny Trace, on the other hand, has done well, and, if he is far from being a big one, he has grown normally, and is a very nice, round, well-balanced colt. He looked rather on the big side this afternoon.

It was Tuborg, a useful colt last season, but still backward, who made the running, and he was out two lengths clear at one time; but when Richards moved up on the favourite he slipped right away and won easily by four lengths from Tuborg. He is delightful when extended, with low, easy action and a deceptive way of stealing over the ground. Lord Dewar thinks he will not only win the Guineas, but the Derby as well, which remains to be seen.

WON BY A NECK.

Lord Dewar is always very much to the fore at Lingfield, his home meeting, and he won a later race, the Lingfield Spring Plate, with Jonah's Trace, a half-sister by Abbot's Trace to that dashing sprinter of a few seasons ago, Heverswood. The filly started favourite and made all the running, but had only a neck to spare from Pink Potato. She is a very nice filly and will probably win again.

There were some indifferent animals in this race, but there was one which showed much promise. This was a very nice bay medium-sized colt with taking action, by Soldennis out of Othello's First, the dam of the Lincolnshire winner, Dark Warrior. He is the first of the produce of Soldennis to run in this country, and he shaped remarkably well. Victor Smyth, who trains him for Mr. V. P. Misa, has done very little with him so far, and he started among the 20 to 1 others here, but he showed a fine turn of speed, and lay well up all the way. We can put this colt down as a likely winner when his trainer has him ready.

Leading Article, a filly by Orthos, had nothing to do to land the odds laid on her in the Surrey Selling Plate, and then Tampion, at a disadvantage in the weights, reversed the Birmingham form with Swoop, whom he beat by two lengths. The Victoria Spring Handicap fell to Mr. Michalino's Double Bud. This Bachelor's Double colt took up the running from Prince Ian before coming into the straight, and then resisted Ballyscanlon and beat him a head.

He is the first winner trained in England by Major Moloney, an Irishman, who was in an Indian cavalry regiment, which he left to start training. He is now in charge of Mr. Michalino's private stable at Jevington, that owner having taken back to his own place in Sussex the horses he had with Barling last year.

A FAVOURITE FAILS.

A son of Tetratema in the good-looking Four-in-Hand, who is now trained by Tom Waugh, was a clever winner of the last race of the day, the Felbridge Handicap, by a length and a half from the favourite, African Smoke.

The Lingfield Handicap is the big event here to-morrow. A chance can be given in this to Archway, who ran well at Kempton, and I believe that Curialis is fancied. I think, however, that ORBINDOS, who was, perhaps, an unlucky loser of the Newbury Cup last week, will beat all the others.

LOOK AROUND is a possible winner of an open race for the Mapleton Plate. THE MYTH II. failed when much fancied at Newmarket, and I give him another chance in the Four Elms Maiden Plate.

PLAYBOY is a likely winner of the Doveridge Handicap at Derby, where FELINA FILLY may win the Osmaston Plate, and ROSIERA the Chaddesdon Handicap.

GOLDEN LULLABY'S SECOND WIN.

A very enjoyable afternoon's racing was provided at Leopardstown yesterday under conditions which, compared to what we have become accustomed to this spring, would be put down as favourable. There were a couple of showers which were of short duration, and the ground, having recovered well under the influence of a drying wind, yielded splendid going. The two-year-old races were naturally the chief attraction of the afternoon, and it was remarkable that both of these should fall to the progeny of the same sire—namely, Bay d'Or.

Santhome, despite his big impost of 12st. 7lb., was made favourite for the Tower Hurdle Plate, and he ran right well, without, however, having any prospects of accounting for the winner, Starman, who passed the post with a fair amount in hand. It was an interesting race, and, after Buster and Prince Hiram had made the running in turn, Starman drew into the lead as they approached the last hurdle. Maqueda, who had been in the rear, also loomed large in the picture at this stage, and for a moment she looked like troubling Starman; but the effort to make up the leeway told its tale in the run home, and Starman won with a bit in hand. Santhome, who was eased when pursuit of the winner was seen to be hopeless, was probably second best in the race.

Tan Girl and Annanias, the two best fancied horses for the Stand Maiden Hurdle Race, cut up in disappointing style, and the finish was disputed by the two outsiders, Prince Lomond and Lady Jackie, the former staying on the better to score by a length. Jill took a long lead half-way through the race, and was still in front as they approached the last hurdle, but a mistake here threw her out of the reckoning.

Much interest was naturally taken in the batch of two-year-olds appearing for the Glencairn Plate, and the general opinion expressed by the critics favoured the Flying Orb colt, Flying Blood. Gladiolus and Morceau were others well supported, but the winner in this instance also turned up from amongst the outside division. Golden Idyll was always in a good position in the race, and, taking command after a couple of furlongs, she stayed on well and won a bit comfortably from Unprofitable and Gladiolus. The winner, who is by Bay d'Or—Ka-Lu-A, is a good mover, and was picked up at the Ballsbridge sales by Mr. F. Clarke for 40 sovs. She was the mount of V. Coombs, a brother of the Curragh trainer, who had not previously ridden in a race, but did a lot of stable riding when apprenticed to Captain Bewicke.

The Foxrock Plate, another two-year-old event, brought out a field of nine runners, which included Golden Lullaby, who had won the first two-year-old race of the season at Mallow on Easter Monday. She was not so well supported as the Mountjoy Lodge candidate, Borphorus, but she won in impressive style. With a quarter of a mile to go it looked odds against her getting on terms with the leaders, but running on very gamely she came through in fine style to win by half a length from Knight's Battle. Golden Lullaby was purchased by Mr. R. More O'Ferrall cheaply at the Doncaster Yearling Sales for 250 guineas.

It looked as if backers would get their turn in the Silverpark Plate when Goose Green, the favourite, drew to head the field as they swung into the straight. Sparsholt, however, was also going well at this stage, and Wing, availing of a chance to go through on the rails, got his mount up in the last couple of strides to snatch a neck victory. West Wicklow scored a runaway win in the Stillorgan Plate, but was subsequently objected to by the rider of Tiddley Baits on the grounds of crossing, and the objection will be investigated at the Phœnix Park to-day. Details:—

Betting—2 to 1 agst. Santhome, 4 to 1 each STARMAN and Prince Hiram, 5 to 1 Lady Lavender, 6 to 1 each Maqueda and Fighting Lights, 10 to 1 Kanowna, 20 to 1 any other.

Buster settled down from Prince Hiram, Kanowna, Starman, Santhome, Grosvenor Happy Boy, Fighting Lights, Maqueda, and Lady Lavender, for half the journey, when Buster was in advance of Prince Hiram, Starman, Kanowna, and Fighting Lights, with Maqueda last. A quarter of a mile from home Prince Hiram held a slight lead of Starman, Kanowna, and Buster. At the last hurdle Starman took command, and, coming on from Prince Hiram and Maqueda, won by six lengths; three lengths separated second and third, Kanowna was fourth, Santhome fifth, Buster sixth, and Lady Lavender next. Time—4 mins. 11 1-5 secs.

Betting—5 to 4 agst. Tan Girl, 2 to 1 Annanias, 10 to 1 each PRINCE LOMOND, Lady Jackie, Primtoi and Jill, 20 to 1 any other.

Jill went on with a long lead of Lady Jackie, Tan Girl, Annanias, Primtoi, Prince Lomond, and The Black Fellow, with Willie Haki last, for half-way when Jill was leading from Lady Jackie, Primtoi, Annanias, Tan Girl, Prince Lomond, and The Black Fellow. At the last hurdle Jill made a mistake, and Prince Lomond drew out, with Lady Jackie and Primtoi in attendance, and won by a length; three lengths. Tan Girl was fourth, Jill fifth, The Black Fellow sixth, and Annanias next. Time—3 mins. 9 4-5 secs.

3.45—GLENCAIRN PLATE of 75 sovs., of which the second receives 10 sovs. and the third 5 sovs. For two years old. 5 f.

(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. Flying Blood, 4 to 1 each Gladiolus and Morceau, 6 to 1 Bray Beau, 10 to 1 each GOLDEN IDYLL, Unprofitable, or any other.

Unprofitable was quickest to begin, with Golden Idyll, Flying Blood, Bray Beau, Bloemfontein, and Morceau next, for two furlongs, when Golden Idyll drew to the front, with Flying Blood, Unprofitable, and Morceau next. Close home Unprofitable took second place, but failed to get on terms with Golden Idyll, who won by three-quarters of a length; three lengths separated second and third. Morceau was fourth, Bray Beau fifth, Flying Blood sixth, and Countess Galahad next. Time—73 secs.

Percival Boy showed in front of Merry Essex, Golden Lullaby, Bosphorus and Ballinalee, with Meliferus next. So they ran for half-way, when Percival Boy was in front of Ballinalee, Bosphorus, Merry Essex, and Golden Lullaby next. At the distance Golden Lullaby headed Percival Boy, and, resisting the challenge of Knight's Battle, won by two lengths; two lengths separated second and third. Percival Boy was fourth, and Ballinalee fifth. Time—68 secs.

(Winner trained by P. Sleator.)

Betting—5 to 4 on Tiddley Baits, 2 to 1 agst. WEST WICKLOW, 5 to 1 Sirreus, 100 to 1 each Betty's Jap and Our Nan.

Tiddley Baits went on from Our Nan, West Wicklow, Sirreus and Betty's Jap for half-way, when Betty's Jap drew into the front, attended by Tiddley Baits, West Wicklow, Sirreus and Our Nan. Approaching the straight West Wicklow headed Tiddley Baits to win by ten lengths; four lengths separated second and third. Sirreus was fourth. Time—4 mins. 18 secs.

An objection to the winner for crossing will be investigated at the Phœnix Park to-day.

PHŒNIX PARK.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The Phœnix Park meeting to-day will furnish a fitting wind-up to Punchestown week. The programme is suggestive of entertaining sport, and, as is customary here, the two-year-olds are well catered for, a moiety of the half-dozen events being set apart for them, and considerable interest will, of course, be taken in their running. The great majority of the juveniles will be making a first acquaintance with a racecourse, and beyond the stable connections little is known of their merits, which renders the offering of selections a more than usually difficult and hazardous undertaking, and market movements may be the best guide, so far as the two-year-old races are concerned. The price of admission to the members' enclosure has been reduced to 25s., and the charge for ladies to the grand stand to 7s. 6d. A special train leaves Broadstone at 2.15 p.m. for Ashtown and returns at 6 o'clock. Selections are appended:—

HALF-MOON.—April 22nd—Annual meeting at headquarters at 12 o'clock.

FUNERAL OF MR. J. G. REID, SOLICITOR.

There was a large attendance of clergy and leading Churchmen of the Diocese of Clogher at the funeral yesterday of the late Mr. J. G. Reid, solicitor, of Castleblaney, who died after a very short illness. He took a prominent part in the Church life of the diocese, was a leading member of the Diocesan Council, and a member of the Fermanagh Protestant Board of Education, and a Governor of Portora Royal School, Enniskillen.

NENAGH'S REDUCED ESTIMATE.

Mr. Frank Flannery (Chairman) presided at a special meeting of Nenagh Urban Council, when the Clerk submitted his estimate for 1928-29, which amounted to 11s. 2d. in the £ on buildings and 3s. 6½. on land, as compared with 11s. 9d. on buildings and 4s. 1½d. on land last year. He estimated the expenditure at £6,497, which included County Council demand, £2,726.

The estimate was adopted.

TEAMS FOR TO-DAY.

Three Rock Rovers—F. Eustace; C. S. Large, J. Mahony; R. Brown, O. Boyd, J. Leonard; S. Leonard, J. M. Eyre, W. Aykroyd, N. H. Medcalf, A. Robinson.

Railway Union—W. C. Leopold; N. Brown, M. C. O'Donoghue; J. J. Corscadden, W. Chiddick (capt.), R. Williams; T. C. Browner, C. Sully, V. Sully, H. Sully, W. E. Hennessy. Meet at Harcourt street at 2.15, for Foxrock.

DALKEY H.C.—Wind-up of season, Married v. Single, at 4.15. All members are requested to attend.

GAELIC GAMES.

DUBLIN CHAMPIONSHIPS.

COLLEGE HURLING.

(BY PAT'O.)

Gaelic football adherents have a full programme at Croke Park to-morrow, where both semi-finals in the Senior Championships are listed. Geraldines have shown some improvement recently. They are strong and earnest enough, and their rural excursions have brought them some needed experience. Their championship displays, particularly against Parnells, were not convincing, and few will expect a win for them against O'Toole's to-morrow.

The North City team have found their best form, and no secret is made of their confidence. Their forward line is quite as good as ever; their wings are fast and clever, and their defence is seasoned and steady. John McDonnell, in goal, is a great asset to any team. He has never played better than in his latest matches, and goals against O'Toole's are rare. A few of his back line are past their best, but all have trained steadily for to-morrow's game. That Geraldines may extend them is the best we can hope.

The Guards and Balbriggan O'Dwyer's are well matched. They drew in an exciting finish three weeks ago, when O'Dwyer's late rally surprised nobody more than the Guards. This North Dublin fifteen is a light, speedy, evenly balanced side. They have played consistently attractive football since their promotion, and their big, enthusiastic following add interest to every Croke Park fixture in which O'Dwyer's are engaged.

Guards have lost some of their best players since they won last year's championship. They have gone to help other counties; but I learn that J. Smith may be in his usual place in attack to-morrow. If he lines out, his presence may change the whole strength of Guards' forward line, which has been very erratic since the season opened. A close game is certain, and another draw quite possible. Guards' weight may be effective on a sod which is still slow.

Faughs and Kickham travel to Tullamore to play Leix and Kildare, respectively, in the Smullen Tournament. Both Dublin clubs have made careful selections, though Kickhams are limited by the Dublin engagements of the four leading clubs.

At Croke Park to-day some good hurling will be seen between the Drogheda C.B.S. and Glasnevin College (St. Kevin's) in the Leinster semi-final. The Dublin College includes some clever young hurlers from the provinces. The Drogheda boys have had a long run of victories at home, and expect to qualify for the final with some scores to spare.

FIXTURES.

Croke Park—To-day—Leinster Colleges Hurling Semi-Final—Drogheda C.B.S. v. Colaiste Caoimhin, Dublin, 2.30 p.m. Referee—Mr. F. Burke (St. Enda's).

CHESS.

LEINSTER JUNIOR TOURNEY.

The Dublin University Chess Club has had a sweeping victory this year in the Leinster Junior Tourney by winning easily each of its four matches. This club accordingly takes its place once more among the Senior competitors, to whom possession of the Armstrong Cup is confined. Last year it was ousted from the position by University College, which will now return to the Junior ranks. Second place was taken by Dublin Corporation, and third by the Jewish Social and Literary Union, which, like University College, found it hard to muster a full team at critical moments. The last-named club has a more hopeful prospect next season, for in the Junior Tourney six players instead of eight suffice.

GREYHOUND RACING.

KYLE BOY WINS THE LEINSTER PLATE.

There was a big gathering at Harold's Cross Park last night, and the six events on the programme provided some excellent racing.

The chief event, the Leinster Plate, was won by Kyle Boy, who, getting well away, never left his supporters in doubt. Though on the 6 to 1 mark the winner was well supported. The favourite, Curristown, was in front for a good part of the journey, but coming into the straight he lost his place, and Kyle Boy proved an easy winner. Details:—

ENGLAND V. IRELAND.

At a meeting of the International Selection Committee of the F.A., held yesterday, it was decided that next season's match with Ireland be played on the ground of the Everton Club, Goodison Park, Liverpool, on Monday, October 22nd.

BIRTHDAY GIFT FOR MR. WALL.

Sir Charles Clegg, on behalf of the Council of the English F.A. yesterday, presented to Mr. F. J. Wall a cheque for £1,000, as a birthday gift, he having reached the age of seventy on the 14th of April. In making the presentation, Sir Charles said:—I have had the pleasure of working with him all through the period of his office. I think when Mr. Wall was appointed secretary it was one of the best day's work ever connected with the Association.

GALLAGHER TO REMAIN WITH FALKIRK.

Patsy Gallagher, the possessor of eleven Irish International caps and who for many seasons was with Glasgow Celtic, is one of the notable players re-engaged for next season by the Falkirk Club.

DUNN FOR EVERTON.

James Dunn, the Hibernian and Scottish International inside right, has been transferred to the Everton Club. He assisted Scotland on five occasions against Wales and Ireland in 1925, against Ireland in 1927, and against Ireland and England this season. He also helped the Scottish League to victory over the Irish League at Glasgow in 1923.

THE JUNIOR FINAL.

The Junior Committee of the Free State Football Association have fixed the final of the Free State Junior Cup, between Richmond United and Cabir Unknowns, for Tolka Park, Dublin, on 29th April, at 3.30. Referee—Mr. Gray (Dundalk).

THE CUP FINAL.

Fine weather is promised for the Cup final at Wembley to-day. The Meteorological Department of the Air Ministry stated last night that the game will probably be played under excellent conditions, but advised machintoshes as a safeguard against possible showers. "All's well" was the report from both camps last night.

DAVIS CUP TRIALS.

SINGLES AND A DOUBLE TO-DAY.

At a meeting of the Selection Committee, held yesterday, the following matches were arranged as the first of a series of trials for the Irish team to meet Holland on May 10th, 11th and 12th, in the first round of the Davis Cup.

Both E. A. McGuire and V. Allman Smith figured on last year's side, while G. S. B. Mack and G. W. Scroope have represented Ireland against England.

In the doubles the pairing of G. S. B. Mack and C. D. O'Callaghan should provide a severe test for the Davis Cup pair, who had some experience in partnership last season. O'Callaghan, who ran-up to G. P. Hughes in the recent Hard Court Championships, proved himself a more than useful player, and is expected to go very near a place on this year's team.

The matches will be played on Fitzwilliam Hard Courts, Wilton place, starting at 3 o'clock, and will be five sets.

3.0—V. Allman Smith v. G.B. S. Mack and
E. A. McGuire v. G. W. Scroope, followed by
McGuire and Allman Smith v. Mack and C. D. O'Callaghan.

THE ENGLISH TRIALS.

In the Davis Cup trials yesterday at Kensington G. R. O. Crole-Rees and C. G. Eames (Probables) beat C. H. Kingsley and J. C. Gregory (Possibles)—6-4, 9-7, 6-0.

FRENCH TEAM'S RETURN.

A WIMBLEDON FORECAST.

CAPE TOWN, Friday.

The French lawn tennis team, which concluded its world tour yesterday, sailed for home to-day. Interviewed on board the liner, Borotra paid a tribute to the high standard of the game in South Africa, and added that France was lucky to win the rubber. He said that, in pursuance of his policy of combing business with sport, he would return to South Africa shortly and establish a business.

Brugnon expressed the opinion that the Wimbledon title this year would be a keen fight between W. T. Tilden, Rene Lacoste, H. Cochet, and J. Borotra.

WOMEN'S TRIAL MATCHES.

Yesterday two Women's Doubles trial matches were played at Wimbledon, with a view to selecting the British Wightman Cup team against America.

Miss Betty Nuthall, using an over-hand service, and partnered by Miss Eileen Bennett, beat Miss Colyer and Mrs. Lycett in two sets, 6-4, 6-1. Midway through the second set Miss Nuthall fell and hurt her right hand. The game was delayed while she received attention; but, in spite of the handicap, when she resumed her side quickly finished the match.

In the second match Miss P. Saunders and Miss G. Sterry beat Mrs. McIlquham and Miss Goldsack, 6-2, 6-4.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES.

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN IRREGULAR.

DUNLOP RUBBERS LOWER.

Preliminary arrangements for the settlement were current yesterday on 'Change, but "carrying over" business in this market was practically negligible, though adjustment transactions were occasionally noticed. Government National and other Loans continue in firm request, with Land Bonds and Second National Loan scarce. British Funds scarcely moved. Consols and War Loan 5 per cent. closed without change, but Conversion 3½ per cent. closed easier. There were minor alterations in Banking securities. Bank Stock gave way, as did Northern "A" Shares, while Munster and Leinsters were the turn higher. Nationals, Provincials and Royals closed firm. Guinness Ord. opened with a show of strength, but at the later market eased back again. Distillery Shares generally closed firm. Grand Canal Ord. remain bid for. Marconi hardened, and the same remark applies to Canadians and Radio, though the latter did not change hands. Great Southern Rails left off the turn lower. Trams closed firm. Imperial Chemicals received a further large volume of support at higher prices, and Margarine issues tended still to improve. Goulding and Co. Ord. rose sharply at the close on the more favourable trading reports. Tobaccos were a shade harder. Coats and Courtaulds both eased on sales for the account. Vickers were less firm. A. Armstrong Pref. Shares were lifted to 9s. buyers. Lever Brothers were bid for. Dunlop Rubber Ord. were weak on the proceedings at the annual meeting held the previous day. Match Shares were firm on the Bryant and May somewhat higher profits. Gramaphone issues went ahead strongly, especially Duophone Records.

LONDON QUIET.

INDUSTRIALS UNCERTAIN.

Quiet conditions ruled in most directions in the London Stock Markets yesterday, members' attention being principally concerned with the preliminary arrangements for Monday's carry-over, but, despite the paucity of business, a generally satisfactory tone ruled. Underwriting was taking place yesterday in connection with an issue by Western Australia of £3,000,000 stock, bearing interest at 5 p.c. The issue price is to be 98 p.c., and the redemption date 1945-75. British Funds developed a slightly reactionary tendency, but, with the exception of Consols 4 p.c. and the 3½ p.c. Conversion, each of which closed ⅛ lower, the overnight levels were repeated. Foreign Government Stocks were usually quiet and unaltered, but the few movements recorded were of an irregular character. German Sevens were a firm market, and they closed a point better at 105 x.d. Poland Sevens also moved forward the turn, but elsewhere prices where changed were quoted lower. Argentine 5 p.c. 1886 dropped a point to 101, and Chinese 5 p.c. Reorganisation Loan at 61 were a full point easier. Among Home Rails, Underground issues continued a fairly active centre, but apart from these descriptions little of interest transpired. Despite the slackness of interest, however, quotations were fairly well held, and, with the exception of Midland 5 p.c. Pref. (1923), which lost ¼ to 75¾, and Southern Pref. Ord., which finished ½ down at 77½, values were maintained. Underground Ord., despite the continued activity, declined to 27s., or 6d. lower. Colonial and Foreign Rails were quiet and steady, but here and there a slightly firmer tendency ruled. "Can. Pacs." stiffened a point to 216, and San Paulo recorded a similar advance to 209½.

Industrials opened in a very uncertain fashion, but later in the day dealings broadened slightly, and values were not slow in responding. Many shares were sold and re-bought for "new time." Dunlops were a dull spot in the early dealings, but they rallied somewhat later. Imperial Chemicals were again in good demand, and Photomatons rallied, while an outstanding feature was provided by Combined Pulp and Paper, the quotation rising smartly on dividend hopes and a renewal of reports of acquisition. "Records" issues moved in an uncertain manner, but after initial dulness a better tone developed. Tobacco issues showed some improvement, and the Wireless group displayed strength. Textiles were generally uncertain, but Artsilks stiffened again here and there after being lower at the start. Business started in Denmans Pictures Debs. on the basis of 2 dis. to par. A firmer tendency developed in the Rubber Share Market, and higher levels were returned in a number of instances, some of the improvements being of quite a substantial character. Oils made a dull start owing to the possibility of a tax on petrol, but recovered later. Among Mines, Kaffirs, although less active, continued firm in tone, but Tins were rather easier. The metal rose 5s. per ton to £234 13s. 9d.

MEXICAN EAGLE CANADIAN SHARES.

Much interest has been taken in the question as to when dealings will start in the shares of the Canadian Eagle Oil Company, which was recently formed in the Dominion to take over the assets of the Mexican Eagle outside Mexico. Canadian Eagle First Preference are likely to be introduced next month. On 30th April the half-year's interest falls due on Mexican Eagle First Preference, and when the warrants are lodged for the payment it is understood that holders will receive in exchange for each 10 peso share one Mexican Eagle 4 peso share and one Canadian Eagle $3 share.

GERMAN MATCH SALES.

The German Match Sales Company, in which the Swedish Match Trust has the controlling interest, reports a loss for the past year of £4,437, bringing the total loss since the company's establishment in September, 1926, up to £12,650. The board attributes the loss to the delay in the passage of the bill restricting the erection and expansion of match factories in Germany. It acknowledges that it was not possible to meet the demand of customers. Promise is made that in future sufficient stocks will be kept in hand.

SCOTTISH ARTIFICIAL SILKS, LTD.

Mr. J. Morrison, Chairman of Scottish Artificial Silks, Ltd., has issued the following official disclaimer:—"With reference to the rumours appearing in the Press I think it is only right to state in the interests of the shareholders and the general public that this company has received no offer from J. and P. Coats, Ltd., of Paisley."

CHEMICAL FIRM'S RECONSTRUCTION.

British Glues and Chemicals, Ltd., whose offices are at Kingsway, London, W.C., in a circular issued last night to shareholders, give details of a scheme of reconstruction by which the issued capital will be reduced from £1,400,000 to £700,000. It is proposed to reduce the nominal value of the £875,000 issue £1 Ordinary shares to 4s. per share—a cut of £700,000. This will be applied in writing down the book value of the land, buildings and plant by £384,432 and goodwill by £312,624. The goodwill will then stand at £80,000 and the £525,000 8 p.c. Preference shares will remain. The directors propose to cancel the arrears of dividends, and in exchange, after paying 5 p.c. on reduced Ordinary shares to add right to further participate in profit up to 2 p.c., making 10 p.c. in all.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

BRITISH COLUMBIA ELECTRICS HIGHER.

GRAMOPHONE GROUP IRREGULAR.

Owing to preliminary carry-over arrangements considerable irregularity was witnessed in the Industrial Market yesterday. There was some curtailment of facilities, but many shares sold for cash were repurchased for new account. The Talking Machine issues proved very uncertain in their movements, though support was forthcoming for Columbia Graphophones, Vocalions, and Duophones, the last-named being assisted by rumours of a pending deal. Artsilks and Textiles continued to display hesitation, and a mixed showing was made by Iron and Steel descriptions. Electricals were easier for choice, also Shipping issues, but good support was again noticeable for Insurance Shares.

In other directions Margarine Unions attracted attention in anticipation of favourable developments, and Imperial Chemicals continued in request. British Columbia Electric Railway issues further advanced on the Board's decision to accept the new offer, details of which were given yesterday. Of the Talking Machine issues, Columbia Graphophones gave way at one time to 12¹¹⁄₁₆, but recovered later to 12¹⁵⁄₁₆, with Vocalions 71s. 6d. after 70s. Vocalion Foreign closed steady at 30s. prem. Duophones were well supported, advancing ³⁄₁₆ to 3½, but Edison Bell Ord. gave way ⅛ to 3, and Victors were marked down 1¼ to 84¾.

Most of the Artsilks were allowed to sag, owing to lack of interest. All the Celanese issues closed fractionally easier, British Celanese Ord. receding to 4½, American Celanese Common to 17⅜ and Canadian Celanese to 12⅜. Courtaulds remained around 4³⁄₁₆, and Snia Viscosa closed buyers at 40s. 6d., but Nuera Ord. were offered at 41s. 3d.

Among Textiles, J. and P. Coats stiffened to 75s., but Listers gave way to 31s. 6d., and Fine Spinners shed a few pence to 55s. 6d. No decided tendency was shown by Iron and Steel descriptions. Ordem Coal were marked up ⅛ to 2³⁄₁₆ on the approval of the capital increase at the meeting, and the announcement that an important financial group were taking a large interest in the company. Chinese Engineering found buyers at 3½, Consett Irons at 15s. 6d., Guest Keens at 40s. 9d., Lamberts at 48s. 6d., and Vickers at 14s. 6d., but Mond Nickels receded to 7⅝, William Corys to 57s. 6d., Bolckow Vaughans to 9s., Cammell Lairds to 6s. 6d., Dorman Longs to 13s. 4½d., and Pease and Partners to 7s. 9d. Electricals finished easier.

Of the Equipments, Johnson and Phillips were marked down 9d. to 46s. 3d., with English Electrics offered at 6s. 9d., General Electrics at 36s. 3d., and India Rubber Gutta Percha at 13s. 3d. Among the Supply Shares Bournemouth and Poole were subject to profit-snatching, but, after dipping to 83s., rallied later to 85s., which left them 1s. 3d. down on balance. Newcastles gave way to 26s. 6d., but Electric Supply Corporation Ord. closed firm at 54s.

Some of the Shipping issues came on offer, Cunards losing 6d. at 32s., and Court Lines a similar amount at 31s. The rest of the section closed steady. A fair investment business was again recorded for the leading Insurance Shares. Atlas improved to 28, General Accident to 10⅞, London and Lancashire Fire to 31, North British and Mercantile to 35, Royal Insurance to 44½, and Sun Insurance to 35½. Banks became irregular. Midlands were favoured at 9³⁄₁₆, National Discount "B" Shares at 10, National Provincial £5 Shares at 18⅜, and Union Discount at 10⅛; but lower prices were marked for Hong Kongs at 129½, National of India at 52⅜, and Union of Australia at 14¹⁵⁄₁₆.

Marconi Ord. trended upward again, putting on 1s. 6d. to 63s.; the Debs., however, fell back 2 to 180½, and both Marconi Marines at 46s. 6d., and Canadian Marconis at 28s. 9d., shed a few pence at the close. British Columbia Electric Railway issues were the feature of the Canadian-American group, in response to the new offer, both the Deferred and Preferred Stocks rising 15½ to 306 and 266, respectively. Canadian Car Common improved to 61, Shawinigans to 91½, and Hydro-Electrics to 72¼; but International Holdings gave way to 240, Brazilian Traction Common to 242, and Mexican Light and Power to 92½.

Motor shares showed little variation, with Thomas Tillings closing at 4½. Breweries remained fairly active, though irregular. Most of the leading counters closed unchanged, but City of Londons eased to 4⅛, and Taylor-Walkers to 36s. 6d. A few selling orders were received for some of the Tobacco issues, Carreras losing ⅜ at 19⅝, with Copes at 2³⁄₁₆ and R. and J. Hill at 1½, each ¹⁄₁₆ down. Support was given to Godfrey Phillips, which rallied ¹⁄₁₆ to 1¹⁵⁄₁₆. Both "Bats" and "Imps" finished quietly steady.

Fair trading was reported among Stores, Catering and Food Supply shares. Most of the interest centred around Margarine Union issues, the Ord. being marked up 1s. 3d. to 41s., with the Prefd. also in demand 9d. higher at 23s. 3d.; while Margarine Unie. were advanced 1s. 6d. to 40s. 6d. Swears and Wells Ord. put on 2s. 6d. to 42s. 6d., and the Pref. 9d. to 36s 3d.; with Maples closing buyers at 43s. 6d. Bovril Defd. hardened to 40s. 9d., but Aerated Breads reacted slightly to 33s., Liptons to 15s. and Schweppes Defd. to 53s.

Land shares were subject to a few end-account sales, Hudsons Bays receded ⅛ to 5¹⁄₁₆, and Sudans ¹⁄₁₆ to 3²⁹⁄₃₂. Forestals eased to 31s., and Duff Devs. to 9s. 6d. Associated Anglo-Atlantic Ord. were firm at 52s. 6d. Nitrates generally were dull. Cements moved irregularly, with buyers in evidence for Associated Portlands at 26s. 6d.

In other directions, Imperial Chemicals continued in demand, the Ord. touching 37s. 4½d. and closing at 37s. 1½d., with the Defd. finally 10½d. to the good at 14s. 10½d. Combined Pulp and Paper Ord. changed hands up to 60s., on a renewal of acquisition reports. Swedish Match "B" shares eased to 20⅜, but British Match Ord. were maintained at 35s. Dunlops dipped at first to 29s. 7½d., but strengthened later to 30s. 1½d. British Cyanides hardened further to 6s. 9d. Gaumont-British improved to 33s. 6d.; Primitive Gas reacted 1s. to 27s.

OIL SHARES FIRM.

Having regard to the approach of the settlement business in Oil Shares was on a satisfactory scale. At the outset some hesitation was observable, owing to fears of the possibility of a duty being placed on petrol, while a further factor is the likelihood of the price cutting war being intensified. Among the recognised leaders Shells continued to change hands freely, the day's turnover being again considerable, and a further improvement of ¹⁄₁₆ was scored. Anglo-Americans were again on the dull side, further declining ¹⁄₁₆ to 3¹⁵⁄₁₆. End of the account realisations led to a decline of ³⁄₃₂ in Burmahs, which left off at 4¹⁹⁄₃₂. Anglo-Persians made a firm start at 3⁹⁄₁₆, but gradually weakened to 3½, at which a loss of ¹⁄₃₂ was recorded. Mexican Eagles, which gave way in the early hours, came into renewed demand later, and finished unaltered. An outstanding feature of the day's business was provided by Anglo-Egyptian B Shares, which, although quoted at 2 in the morning, came into keen demand later, and spurted to 2³⁄₁₆, at which an advance of ⁵⁄₁₆ was recorded.

RUBBER SHARES FIRMER.

A distinctly firmer tendency prevailed in the Rubber Share Market, and after their recent sharp slump values recovered sharply in several directions. The volume of business done in this section showed no material expansion, but the better tendency was the result of the firmer tone of the raw material. A fair trade was met in the commodity market, and spot to May stiffened from 8⅛d. to 8¼d. per lb., while October to December, after opening at 8⅜d., went to 8½d. per lb. It is expected that the London stocks of the raw material will be fully two thousand tons lower on Monday next. In the share market Bah Lias rallied smartly to 30s., or 2s. 6d. better, while a similar improvement was scored in Java Amalgamated to 30s. c.d. Grand Central finished 10½d. harder, and Kuala Muda closed 1s. 3d. better. Malacca put on 1s. 10½d., as did Telogoredjo, while United Sua Betong spurted to 51s. 3d., or 3s. 9d. higher. Rubber Trusts were another firm market, an advance of 9d. being returned, while Anglo-Dutch put on 6d. to 35s. Glenbervie and Java Para, on the other hand, were each quoted half-a-crown easier, and Seremban dropped back to 6s. 10½d. c.d., or 3s. 1½d. lower. Bukit Rajah, Buntar, F.M.S. Plants, and Labu were other dull spots, a decline of 1s. 3d. being recorded in each instance.

OIL PRODUCTION.

Mexican Eagle Oil Co.—Production for the week ended 14th April, 1928, was 109,000 barrels.

LONDON MINING MARKET IDLE.

KAFFIRS LESS ACTIVE.

In view of the approach of the week-end dealings were on a modest scale in the Mining market yesterday. The excitement of the preceding day or two, which was the result of the aggressiveness of Paris, died down considerably. "Kaffirs" had an irregular appearance, but there was some quiet buying of several of the finance descriptions, Anglo-American, C.M.S., and Rand Selection being in request on home and Cape account. Central Mining relapsed on heavy profit-taking following their recent spurt, and Gold Fields were easier in sympathy with Paris advices; but "Johnnies" came into good demand and went ahead sharply. There was not a great deal of business passing in Rhodesians, and Chartered, lacking the stimulus of Paris support, moved idly within narrow limits all day, closing a trifle on the wrong side. Tanganyika Goldfields lost the turn, despite the issue of an important circular announcing the co-operation of an important Brussels group which has acquired the balance of the unissued capital of the "Tank" Goldfields. The company's cash resources are stated to be in excess of £125,000, and it is proposed to extend largely the sphere of operations, particularly in the matter of acquiring interests in other approved mining ventures. Diamonds were quiet, as a rule, but there was a little investment buying of De Beers Pref., and Consolidated Diamonds were also being quietly picked up and left off higher. The price of tin rallied 5s. to £234 13s. 9d., but dealings were still on a small scale. Idris were being picked up on the dividend announcement. Pengkalen were also a strong spot in anticipation of a favourable statement at the meeting, which is due to be held shortly. Closing prices:—

BELFAST LINEN TRADE.

NEW BUSINESS IN DRESS LINENS.

There is nothing new to report in the Irish flax market. Courtrai supplies have further decreased, so that even the limited demand has increased the price of the better qualities of fibre; medium flaxes remain firm, but lowest classes have also advanced in price. Limited Soviet sales are still possible at about last prices, but no very great quantities on offer. Very little is held for sale outside the Russian monopoly. The Russians still insist on a proportion of tow being taken with the flax.

YARNS.

In many cases the holidays have been more prolonged than usual, a number of yarn mills having not yet resumed work. There is, therefore, little of interest to report. The reduced production will have one good effect, in preventing accumulation of stocks which keep in very moderate bounds. Business in weaving has been resumed after the holidays, but there has been no accumulation of orders. There is considerable inquiry about, but actual transactions are of a sorting-up character. Needless to say, prices are very unremunerative, and manufacturers cannot see cost on current rates.

Merchants report that very little change has taken place since last report. Orders keep coming in over all lines, and as usual at this time of the year handkerchiefs are well to the front. Damasks show an encouraging amount of vitality, but general housekeeping goods are only in moderate demand.

There is little change in the dress linen market conditions so far as coloured linens are concerned. A fair amount of new business has been placed during the past fortnight, but warmer weather would help the demand in home trade. Shipping markets are interested in coloured and printed linens, and reports from U.S.A. are more optimistic.

THE MONEY MARKET.

TREASURY BILL RATE HIGHER.

Applications were received at the Bank of England yesterday for £35,000,000 Treasury bills. Tenders dated Monday to Saturday of next week at £98 19s. 8d. get about 19 p.c., above in full. These figures indicate an average rate of nearly 4¹⁄₁₆ p.c., which is slightly above last week's figure.

Conditions remained quite comfortable in Lombard street, there being an ample supply of loans offering at 3½ p.c. down to 3 p.c., while old money was renewed at 3½ p.c. for either a day or a week.

The tone in the discount market was distinctly firmer on the advance in the Boston and Chicago Federal Reserve rates, which may foreshadow a rise in the New York Federal Reserve rate. The general quotation for fine commercial bills of all dates was 4 to 4¹⁄₁₆ p.c., while the "hot" Treasuries were called 4¹⁄₃₂ p.c. There was still a good demand for May bills at 3¹⁵⁄₁₆ to 3⅞.

The Bank of England announced the purchase of bar gold valued at £128,000, believed to form a further part of the Russian consignment. As a result of China selling, silver fell ⅛d. for spot and ¹⁄₁₆d. for forward delivery to 26¹⁄₁₆d. per ounce. Gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per fine ounce.

Following the rise in rediscount rates in America, the New York exchange at one time fell to below 4.88¼, the closing quotation of 4.88¹⁄₁₆ showing a fall of ⅛ on the day. Montreal dropped ¹⁄₁₆ to 4.88¹⁄₁₆, having been still lower. Apart from a rather sharp depreciation in Dutch guilders, the Amsterdam rate rising ¹⁄₁₆ to 12.11⅛, and a slight adverse movement in Italian lire, European currencies were better where altered. In no instance, except perhaps Austrian schillings, was the change important.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

HIBERNIAN FIRE AND GENERAL INSURANCE CO.—The report of the directors to be presented at the meeting of the shareholders, at the offices, 48 and 49 Dame street, Dublin, at 11.30 a.m., on Friday, the 27th inst., states that for the year ended 31st December, 1927, the revenue of the company from fire, employers' liability and general accident departments, including interest and dividends on investments, amounts to £93,208. To this are to be added the funds for unexpired risks at the beginning of the year, bringing the total available up to £158,790. The losses and expenses amount to £107,949. Reserve amounting to £41,146, being 46.9 per cent. of the premium income, have been provided to meet unexpired liability, and £950 to cover agents' bad debts. The balance to credit in the profit and loss account, after transferring £7,000 to general reserve, is £21,777, out of which the directors recommend a dividend to be paid at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, free of income tax, on the paid-up capital of the company, which will absorb the sum of £2,000, leaving £19,777 to be carried forward to next account. The retiring auditors, Messrs. Kean and Co., chartered accountants, offer themselves for re-election.

DUNVILLE AND CO., LTD., BELFAST.—The directors have declared an interim dividend of 5/- per share, less income tax, for the year ending 30th September, 1928. Dividend warrants will be posted on 30th inst. (Same.)

ALABAMA COAL, IRON, LAND AND COLONISATION.—Distribution of 18¾ per cent. (9d. per share), free of tax. (Same.)

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN OILFIELDS.—Dividend of 17½ per cent., less tax, on the "B" shares for the year 1927. (12½ per cent. in 1926.)

BRISTOL BREWERY, GEORGES AND CO.—7½ per cent. (1/6 per share) on Ordinary. Tax-free, interim. (Same.)

ENGLISH ELECTRIC CO.—After making the usual provisions, including depreciation, the trading profit amounts to £76,256. The corresponding figure for 1926 was a profit of £10,243. Against this profit there has to be set interest on the 5½ per cent. 1st Mortgage Debs. and the 6 per cent. Convertible Debs. Stock and trustees' fees, amounting to £122,166, and additional depreciation on tools, patterns, and drawings, etc., of £88,493, making a loss of £134,404. During the year the directors have carried out an extensive reorganisation (states the report), and have made provision for certain expenditure incurred previously, which, under normal circumstances, would have been spread over a number of years. The sum required for these purposes is £123,905. It has been necessary to provide for a further liability to income tax amounting to £63,000. As a result of these provisions, the balance at debit of profit and loss account brought forward, which amounted to £78,590, has been increased to £399,899.

HALFORD CYCLE.—Interim dividend of 6d. per share, free of tax. (Same.)

HEPWORTH AND GRANDAGE.—Interim dividend of 10 per cent. per annum, less tax, for the six months ended March 31, 1928. (First dividend.)

INVESTORS' MORTGAGE SECURITY CO.—Interim dividend on Ordinary stock for half-year to March 31 at the rate of 15 per cent. per annum, less tax. (Same.)

INTERNATIONAL LINOTYPE.—Balance dividend of 4 per cent., making 6½ per cent. for the year ended March 31, 1928.

J. B. BROOKS AND CO.—Interim dividend at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, less tax, on the Ord. Shares.

LABU (F.M.S.) RUBBER.—Final dividend of 7½ per cent., less income tax, making 12½ per cent. for the year, leaving £7,467 to be carried forward.—Meeting, 2 Idol lane, E.C., April 27, at 2.30 p.m.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL TRUST.—Final dividend of 4½ per cent. actual on the Ord. Stock for the year ended March 31, 1928, making 7½ per cent. (Same.)

MERLIMAU RUBBER.—In view of the present position of the industry and of the necessity for conserving funds, the directors do not recommend payment of a final dividend for 1927. (An interim of 5 per cent. was paid. Last year there was a total distribution of 25 per cent.)

NORTH BRITISH CANADIAN INVESTMENT.—Dividend of 5 per cent. Carry forward, £8,893. (Same.)

OCEAN COAL AND WILSONS.—Dividend of 2 per cent. on Ordinary shares, less tax, and dividend of 2 per cent. on employés' Ordinary shares, less tax. (Same.)

ODHAMS PRESS.—A dividend of 12½ per cent. on the Ord. Shares. (Last year 10½ per cent.)

RIVOLI CINEMAS.—Dividend of 4d. per share, carry forward, £400.

SCOTTISH AUSTRALIAN INVESTMENT.—An interim dividend declared of 5 per cent. on Consolidated Ord. Stock in respect of profits of year to June 30 next, less tax.

SECOND INVESTORS' MORTGAGE SECURITY CO.—Interim dividend on Ordinary stock at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, less tax, for half-year to March 31. (11 per cent. last year.)

SCOTTISH, ONTARIO AND MANITOBA LAND.—Dividend of 5 per cent., and carry forward £11,109. (Same.)

CATTLE.

BIRKENHEAD.—Supplies: 1,164 Irish cattle and 988 lambs. A fair selling trade was experienced for the cattle on offer yesterday. Choice small heifers 11d., bullocks 10½d., secondary and middling descriptions 9½d. to 10d., cows and bulls 7d. to 8d. Trade ruled firm for the best quality hoggets, which made up to 1/5, poorer descriptions difficult to cash.

GRAIN.

DUBLIN GRAIN.—Values of oats strong to firmer. Whites 18/6 to 19/- and 19/6, blacks average 17/6 to 18/-, and, perhaps, 18/6 per barrel. Specially good parcels in some hands quoted higher in retail transactions.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (BALTIC).—WHEAT—A quieter tone prevailed in the floating and forward cargo market, buyers being more reserved in face of weaker American cables and freer offers, and prices were reduced by 3d. per quarter, except for Australian qualities. White Pacific June sellers 55/3, August 52/3; No. 3 Northern Manitoba (Vancouver shipment) shipping-shipped 55/3, Rosafe (63lbs.) afloat 52/9, do. (63lbs.) last half April 52/6; Australian end April 55/9. Parcels dull and the turn in buyers' favour; Rosafe (63lbs.) May sold 52/3 to 52/- per 480lbs. BARLEY steady, but inactive; parcels of No. 3 Canadian Western April sellers 40/-, No. 2 Federal American 38/9, Karachi April-May 39/6, May-June 39/3; Persian April-May 36/9, Algerian Tunisian June-July 34/-, Moroccan June-July 33/9 per 400lbs. OATS firm and reservedly offered; Plate f.a.q. April-May sellers 32/-. Chilian afloat, also April-May 32/- per 320lbs.

MARK LANE CORN.—There was a fair attendance of buyers at the week-end market, and a moderate business resulted at full to firmer prices. WHEAT quiet; No. 3 Northern Manitoba ex ship 57/9, Vancouver 57/6, No. 4 Vancouver 56/-, Atlantic 55/3, No. 5 Vancouver 53/-, Atlantic 51/3, Rosafe 63lbs. ex ship to arrive 54/9, Australian 57/6 ex ship per 496lbs., English 10/- to 10/10 per 112lbs. FLOUR steady; London standard grade 45/-, town whites 46/-, patents 47/- to 48/- per sack, delivered in the home counties, with 6d. to 1/- per sack less for deliveries in the London districts. Of imported Manitoba patents range from 40/6 to 44/6, Minneapolis 41/- to 44/-, Australian 38/6 to 39/6 ex store on c.i.f. terms; Manitoba top patents April-May quoted 41/6 to 42/6, export ditto 39/6 to 40/6, Ontario winter patents 38/- to 39/-, Australian 36/6 to 37/6 per 280lbs. MAIZE firm; forward Plate landed 45/3, ditto ex ship old 43/9, new 43/3, new crop March-April 39/9, April-May 37/6, May-June 37/-, June-July 36/6 ex ship; Plate Cinquintina landed 46/-, white flat African 43/6 landed per 480lbs. Yellow maize meal £11 15/- ex wharf, white African £9 12/6 ex ship per ton. BARLEY firm, but quiet; Californian ex store 51/6 to 64/-, Chilian Chevalier 64/- to 70/-, Australian Chevalier 56/- to 60/-, Slovakian 63/- to 72/- per 448lbs.; Marmora landed 38/6, Plate 40/6, Algerian 38/- to 39/-, Egyptian 38/-, Persian ex ship 37/-, No. 3 Canadian Western ex store 41/- per 400lbs.; English malting 10/6 to 13/9, feed 10/- to 10/3 per 112lbs. OATS strong at a further sharp advance on scanty offerings; La Plata landed 34/-, ditto ex ship to arrive 33/-, No. 3 Canadian ex ship 35/6, landed 36/6, mixed Canadian feed ex ship 29/3, landed 30/6, American mixed feed 29/- ex ship, Chilian tawny 33/6 ex ship, ditto white 40/-, mixed white 38/- landed, Vancouver 32/- ex ship per 320lbs.; English black and grey 11/8 to 12/6, white 12/4 to 13/6 per 112lbs. MILLERS' OFFALS firm to dearer; broad digestive bran 9/6, middlings 9/-, fine ditto 10/6, feed oatmeal 10/-, light oats 9/6, No. 1 cat feed 10/6, ground oats 14/- per cwt., bags included, ex mill. Oatmeal firm, and reservedly offered. London made flaked 26/6, rolled oats 24/6, fine cut 24/6, medium and coarse pinhead 24/6, whole groats 23/6 ex mill per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—Higher quotations from Chicago were counteracted by easier Winnipeg and Argentine cables, and forward deliveries of wheat here gradually gave way, with slight fluctuations, until a heavy decline had been registered, but afternoon cables were not so bad as expected, and final rates showed a moderate recovery from the worst point. C.i.f. parcels of wheat Western Australian afloat sold at 54/4½ and Rosario-Santa Fe (63lbs.) May 52/3 to 52/- per qr. C.i.f. parcels of maize River Plate March-April sold at 38/6, April-May 36/- per qr. Chilian tawny oats afloat sold at 31/- per qr. Wheat on the spot dull and easier. MAIZE spot parcels firm and dearer at 9/5½ to 9/6 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR firm. Official price of straight run 40/- per 280lbs. ex mill. Graded wheat futures opened ½d. to 1d. per cental lower, further gave way with slight fluctuations until 2½d. to 2¾d. decline had been registered, but a steady tone prevailed at the close, when prices showed 1½d. to 2d. decline from Thursday night.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON.—BUTTER—Market continued quiet, although it is generally realised that quantities from New Zealand during the next two or three months will be materially less than at the same time last year. New Zealand finest salted quoted 166/- to 170/-, good to fine 160/- to 164/-, inferior 150/- to 154/-, unsalted 168/- to 176/-, Australian salted and unsalted finest 156/- to 160/-, good to fine 148/- to 154/-, inferior 146/- to 148/-, Australian finest unsalted 154/- to 160/-, good to fine 150/- to 152/-, inferior 148/-, Irish creamery 168/- to 170/-, Danish 178/- to 180/-, Dutch 172/- to 176/-, Esthonian 168/- to 170/-, Latvian 166/- to 168/-, Siberian 154/- to 156/- per cwt.; Dutch rolls 19/- to 19/6 per dozen lbs. CHEESE—Market quite nominal for English in absence of supplies. Smaller supplies from New Zealand are due to reach London during the next two months owing to drought, but spot stocks so far are quite adequate to the regular consumptive trade. Very little Canadian on the market, and a few choice September-made realise relatively high rates. Dutch easier and the general course of trade quiet. Canadian white 106/- to 114/-, coloured 102/- to 110/-, New Zealand white and coloured 95/- to 98/-, Australian coloured 93/- to 96/-, Dutch Edam 40 p.c. 76/- to 82/-, 30 p.c. 62/- to 68/-, 20 p.c. 50/- to 54/-, Goudas 45 p.c. 87/- to 90/-, 40 p.c. 74/- to 78/-, 30 p.c. 59/- to 62/-, 20 p.c. 49/- to 52/- per cwt. BACON—A good demand continues for Danish, followed by Dutch and Swedish; Irish and Canadian moved rather quietly. Officially Irish raised 2/- to 4/-, Dutch 3/- to 5/-, Swedish 4/-. Danish killings for the week, 107,400. Irish quoted 100/- to 112/-, Danish 82/- to 87/-, Swedish 66/- to 78/-, Canadian 76/- to 85/-, Dutch 74/- to 78/- per cwt. HAMS—Market rather quiet but steady. English quoted from 145/- to 224/-, as to weight; Canadian short cut 86/-, American long 80/- to 102/-, short 75/- to 80/-, picnics 58/- to 60/- per cwt. LARD firmer with a fair demand; American boxes 61/- to 62/9, pails 66/3, cartons 1lb. 65/3, 4lb. 67/9, Danish bladders 60/- to 62/-, boxes 56/-, Dutch boxes 57/6 per cwt. EGGS (Borough)—Market generally steady, but supplies of most kinds are equal to requirements. Pickling and cold-stored operations are proceeding at most Continental centres, thus absorbing large quantities for the time being. Quotations:—English 11/- to 13/6, Danish 18lbs. 13/- to 14/-, 15½lbs. 11/- to 12/-, Belgian 11/- to 11/6, Dutch mixed 11/6 to 12/-, all brown 12/6 to 13/-, Brittany 9/6 to 10/6, French all brown 12/- to 13/-, Egyptian 6/9 to 7/3, Polish 8/3 to 9/3, all per 120.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—London weekly quotations showed no change, but Manchester raised Swedish 2/- and Dutch 3/- per cwt., though past week's Danish killings, contrary to general expectations, show a large increase, instead of a falling off, as was predicted; Irish is quoted scarce, Danish 1/- dearer, but Swedish raised to 76/- to 80/- and Dutch 76/- to 79/-, with Irish 98/- to 110/- per cwt. American selections steady, with Cumberlands advanced 1/- to 2/-, prices now ranging from 70/- to 75/-, long clear backs being 1/- dearer at 74/- to 78/- and 70/- to 78/- per cwt., respectively. HAMS and shoulders quiet on seasonable conditions. LARD on the spot held for 1/- advance owing to higher c.i.f. rates; prime steam now 61/- to 62/- and American refined 60/- to 62/- per cwt., with a fair business reported in latter. CHEESE steady for Canadian owing to scarcity, but New Zealand quietly steady. BUTTER steady for Danish at 2/- advance—viz., 184/- to 188/- per cwt., with a fair demand, but Colonial quiet and unchanged. EGGS quiet at 10/9 to 11/9 per 120 for Irish fresh hen, 10/6 to 11/- duck and 7/6 for Egyptians.

MANCHESTER.—BUTTER—Danish official quotation wired four kroner lower at 298 kroner per 100 kilos, against 302 the previous week and 286 the corresponding period of last year. Spot market opened firm, and in some quarters it is thought that the bottom price has been reached. Supplies of Irish creameries show some signs of increasing, but prices remain nominal. Choicest qualities quoted:—Danish 181/- to 185/-, special dairies extra; Swedish 174/- to 176/-; Finnish 174/- to 176/-; New Zealand 170/- to 174/-. BACON—Irish in small supply, and officially advanced 4/-; Danish unchanged, but Swedish 2/- and Dutch 3/- higher. General quotations—Irish 101/- to 104/-; North of Ireland rolls 108/- to 112/-, according to weight and cure; Danish 86/- to 91/-, Swedish 76/- to 81/-, Dutch 75/- to 82/-. LARD dearer; English refined 66/-, boxes wholesale; American 63/- to 66/-, according to brand. CHEESE—Finest Cheshire firm in country, and this is reflected on the spot, prices being around 1/1½ per lb.; New Zealand steady, 99/- to 101/-. EGGS—Spot supplies still small compared, and prices firm. Irish hen 17lb. quoted 12/6, Portadowns 12/3, extra selected 11/6, mediums 10/- to 10/6, duck 12/- to 12/6. English hen 11/3 to 13/-, Dutch 12/- to 12/6.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLES—Imported fruit of much the same liberal extent and character as previously, with quiet off-take at stock-list prices; imported tomatoes lower, 1/9 to 2/- per lb. (Canary Island), Continentals 5/- to 7/- per case; cucumbers 7/- to 30/- per dozen, bus onions 19/- to 20/-. Conditions remained quite comfortable in ombard street, there being an ample supply loans offering at 3½ p.c. down to 3 p.c., hile old money was renewed at 3½ p.c. for ther a day or a week.

The tone in the discount market was disnctly firmer on the advance in the Boston d Chicago Federal Reserve rates, which ay foreshadow a rise in the New York ederal Reserve rate. The general quotation r fine commercial bills of all dates was 4 to ⅛ p.c., while the "hot" Treasuries were lled 4 1/16 p.c. There was still a good demand r May bills at 3 15/16 to 3⅞.

The Bank of England announced the purase of bar gold valued at £128,000, believed form a further part of the Russian congnment. As a result of China selling, lver fell ⅛d. for spot and 1/16d. for rward delivery to 26 5/16d. per ounce. Gold mained at 84s. 11½d. per fine ounce.

Following the rise in rediscount rates in merica, the New York exchange at one me fell to below 4.88¼, the closing quotation 4.88 5/16 showing a fall of ⅛ on the day. ontreal dropped 1/16 to 4.88 3/16, having been ill lower. Apart from a rather sharp depreciation in Dutch guilders, the Amsterdam te rising 1/16 to 12.11⅛, and a slight adverse ovement in Italian lire, European currencies ere better where altered. In no instance, cept perhaps Austrian schillings, was the ange important.

PRODUCE AND FOOD MARKETS.

CATTLE.

BIRKENHEAD.—Supplies: 1,164 Irish cattle and 988 lambs. A fair selling trade was experienced for the cattle on offer yesterday. Choice small heifers 11d., bullocks 10½d., secondary and middling descriptions 9½d. to 10d., cows and bulls 7d. to 8d. Trade ruled firm for the best quality hoggets, which made up to 1/5, poorer descriptions difficult to cash.

GRAIN.

DUBLIN GRAIN.—Values of oats strong to firmer. Whites 18/6 to 19/- and 19/6, blacks average 17/6 to 18/-, and, perhaps, 18/6 per barrel. Specially good parcels in some hands quoted higher in retail transactions.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (BALTIC).—WHEAT—A quieter tone prevailed in the floating and forward cargo market, buyers being more reserved in face of weaker American cables and freer offers, and prices were reduced by 3d. per quarter, except for Australian qualities. White Pacific June sellers 55/3, August 52/3; No. 3 Northern Manitoba (Vancouver shipment) shipping-shipped 55/3, Rosafe (63lbs.) afloat 52/9, do. (63lbs.) last half April 52/6; Australian end April 55/9. Parcels dull and the turn in buyers' favour; Rosafe (63lbs.) May sold 52/3 to 52/- per 480lbs. BARLEY steady, but inactive; parcels of No. 3 Canadian Western April sellers 40/-, No. 2 Federal American 38/9, Karachi April-May 39/6, May-June 39/3; Persian April-May 36/9, Algerian Tunisian June-July 34/-, Moroccan June-July 33/9 per 400lbs. OATS firm and reservedly offered; Plate f.a.q. April-May sellers 32/-, Chilian afloat, also April-May 32/- per 320lbs.

MARK LANE CORN.—There was a fair attendance of buyers at the week-end market, and a moderate business resulted at full to firmer prices. WHEAT quiet; No. 3 Northern Manitoba ex ship 57/9, Vancouver 57/6, No. 4 Vancouver 56/-, Atlantic 55/3, No. 5 Vancouver 53/-, Atlantic 51/3, Rosafe 63lbs. ex ship to arrive 54/9, Australian 57/6 ex ship per 496lbs.; English 10/- to 10/10 per 112lbs. FLOUR steady; London standard grade 45/-, town whites 46/-, patents 47/- to 48/- per sack, delivered in the home counties, with 6d. to 1/- per sack less for deliveries in the London districts. Of imported Manitoba patents range from 40/6 to 44/6, Minneapolis 41/- to 44/-, Australian 38/6 to 39/6 ex store on c.i.f. terms; Manitoba top patents April-May quoted 41/6 to 42/6, export ditto 39/6 to 40/6, Ontario winter patents 38/- to 39/-, Australian 36/6 to 37/6 per 280lbs. MAIZE firm; forward Plate landed 45/3, ditto ex ship old 43/9, new 43/3, new crop March-April 39/9, April-May 37/6, May-June 37/-, June-July 36/6 ex ship; Plate Cinquantina landed 46/-, white flat African 43/6 landed per 480lbs. Oatmeal firm, and reservedly offered. London made flaked 26/6, rolled oats 24/6, fine cut 24/6, medium and coarse pinhead 24/6, whole groats 23/6 ex mill per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—Higher quotations from Chicago were counteracted by easier Winnipeg and Argentine cables, and forward deliveries of wheat here gradually gave way, with slight fluctuations, until a heavy decline had been registered, but afternoon cables were not so bad as expected, and final rates showed a moderate recovery from the worst point. C.i.f. parcels of wheat Western Australian afloat sold at 54/4½ and Rosario-Santa Fe (63lbs.) May 52/3 to 52/- per qr. C.i.f. parcels of maize River Plate March-April sold at 38/6, April-May 36/- per qr. Chilian tawny oats afloat sold at 31/- per qr. Wheat on the spot dull and easier. MAIZE spot parcels firm and dearer at 9/5½ to 9/6 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR firm. Official price of straight run 40/- per 280lbs. ex mill. Graded wheat futures opened ½d. to 1d. per cental lower, further gave way with slight fluctuations until 2½d. to 2¾d. decline had been registered, but a steady tone prevailed at the close, when prices showed 1½d. to 2d. decline from Thursday night.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON.—BUTTER—Market continued quiet, although it is generally realised that quantities from New Zealand during the next two or three months will be materially less than at the same time last year. New Zealand finest salted quoted 166/- to 170/-, good to fine 160/- to 164/-, inferior 150/- to 154/-, unsalted 168/- to 176/-, Australian salted and unsalted finest 156/- to 160/-, good to fine 148/- to 154/-, inferior 146/- to 148/-, Australian finest unsalted 154/- to 160/-, good to fine 150/- to 152/-, inferior 148/-, Irish creamery 168/- to 170/-, Danish 178/- to 180/-, Dutch 172/- to 176/-, Esthonian 168/- to 170/-, Latvian 166/- to 168/-, Siberian 154/- to 156/- per cwt.; Dutch rolls 19/6 to 19/9 per dozen lbs. CHEESE—Market quite nominal for English in absence of supplies. Smaller supplies from New Zealand are due to reach London during the next two months owing to drought, but spot stocks so far are quite adequate to the regular consumptive trade. Very little Canadian on the market, and a few choice September-made realise relatively high rates. Dutch easier and the general course of trade quiet. Canadian white 106/- to 114/-, coloured 102/- to 110/-, New Zealand white and coloured 95/- to 98/-, Australian coloured 95/- to 96/-, Dutch Edam 40 p.c. 76/- to 82/-, 30 p.c. 62/- to 68/-, 20 p.c. 50/- to 52/-, Goudas 45 p.c. 87/- to 90/-, 40 p.c. 74/- to 78/-, 30 p.c. 59/- to 62/-, 20 p.c. 49/- to 52/- per cwt. BACON—A good demand continues for Danish, followed by Dutch and Swedish; Irish and Canadian moved rather quietly. Officially Irish raised 2/- to 4/-, Dutch 3/- to 5/-, Swedish 4/-. Danish killings for the week, 107,400. Irish quoted 100/- to 112/-, Danish 82/- to 87/-, Swedish 66/- to 78/-, Canadian 76/- to 83/-, Dutch 74/- to 78/- per cwt. HAMS—Market rather quiet but steady. English quoted from 145/- to 224/-, as to weight; Canadian short cut 86/-, American long 80/- to 102/-, short 75/- to 80/-, picnics 58/- to 60/- per cwt. LARD firmer with a fair demand; American boxes 61/- to 62/9, pails 66/3, cartons 1lb. 65/3, ½lb. 67/9, Danish bladders 60/- to 62/-, boxes 56/-, Dutch boxes 57/6 per cwt. EGGS (Borough)—Market generally steady, but supplies of most kinds are equal to requirements. Pickling and cold-stored operations are proceeding at most Continental centres, thus absorbing large quantities for the time being. Quotations:—English 11/- to 12/6, Danish 18lbs. 13/- to 14/-, 15½lbs. 11/- to 12/-, Belgian 11/- to 11/6, Dutch mixed 11/6 to 12/-, all brown 12/6 to 13/-, Brittany 9/6 to 10/6, French all brown 12/- to 13/-, Egyptian 6/9 to 7/3, Polish 8/3 to 9/3, all per 120.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—London weekly quotations showed no change, but Manchester raised Swedish 2/- and Dutch 3/- per cwt., though past week's Danish killings, contrary to general expectations, show a large increase, instead of a falling off, as was predicted; Irish still scarce, Danish 1/- dearer, but Swedish raised to 76/- to 80/- and Dutch 76/- to 79/-, with Irish 98/- to 110/- per cwt. American selections steady, with Cumberlands advanced 1/- to 2/-, prices now ranging from 70/- to 75/-, long clear backs being 1/- dearer at 74/- to 78/- and 70/- to 78/- per cwt., respectively. HAMS and shoulders quiet at recent currencies. LARD on the spot held for 1/- advance owing to higher c.i.f. rates; prime steam now 61/- to 62/- and American refined 60/- to 62/- per cwt., with a fair business reported in latter. CHEESE steady for Canadian owing to scarcity, but New Zealand quietly steady. BUTTER steady for Danish at 2/- advance—viz., 184/- to 188/- per cwt., with a fair demand, but Colonial quiet and unchanged. EGGS quiet at 10/9 to 11/9 per 120 for Irish fresh hen, 10/6 to 11/- duck and 7/6 for Egyptian.

MANCHESTER.—BUTTER—Danish official quotation wired four kroner lower at 298 kroner per 100 kilos, against 302 the previous week and 286 the corresponding period of last year. Spot market opened firm, and in some quarters it is thought that the bottom price has been reached. Supplies of Irish creameries show some signs of increasing, but prices remain nominal. Choicest qualities quoted:—Danish 181/- to 183/-, special dairies extra; Swedish 174/- to 176/-, Finnish 174/- to 176/-, New Zealand 170/- to 174/-. BACON—Irish in small supply, and officially advanced 4/-; Danish unchanged, but Swedish 2/- and Dutch 3/- higher. General quotations:—Irish 101/- to 110/-, North of Ireland rolls 108/- to 112/-, according to weight and cure; Danish 86/- to 91/-, Swedish 76/- to 81/-, Dutch 75/- to 82/-. LARD dearer; English refined 66/-, boxes wholesale; American 60/- to 60/6, according to brand. CHEESE—Finest Cheshire firm in country, and this is reflected on the spot, prices being round 1/1½ per lb.; New Zealand steady, 99/- to 101/-. EGGS—Spot supplies still small compass, and prices firm. Irish hen 17lb. quoted 12/6, Portadowns 13/-, extra selected 11/6, mediums 10/- to 10/6, duck 12/- to 12/6, English hen 11/3, Polish blues 10/-, reds 9/6, others nominal.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLES—Imported fruit of much the same liberal extent and character as previously, with quiet offtake at stock-list prices; imported tomatoes lower, 1/9 to 2/- per lb. (Canary Island), Continentals 5/- to 7/- per case; cucumbers 7/- to 10/- per dozen, bag onions 19/- to 20/-. Home-grown vegetables in fair compass and good demand; Cauliflowers 2/6 to 7/6, 4/9 and 5/6 per dozen, seconds 1/6 do.; sprouts 2/6 to 3/6 per float, York cabbage 35/- to 50/- and 70/-, and extras up to 90/- per load; rhubarb 3/6 to 5/6, 7/6 and 9/6 per dozen bundles, celery 1/- to 2/- per dozen, beet 1/- to 2/- per dozen, table quality Swede turnips 3/6 to 4/6 and 5/- per cwt., mangolds to dairymen 2/3, 2/6 and 2/9 per cwt., parsnips 6/- to 10/- per bag, carrots 2/- to 2/9 and 3/3 per dozen bundles, 7/6 to 9/6 per bag; parsley 10d. to 1/3 per tray, and 2/6 to 3/- per half-bushel; lettuce 1/6 to 2/6 per dozen, leeks 8d. to 9d. and 1/- per bunch, scallions 8d. to 1/- and 1/1 per do., white turnips 7d. to 10d. and 1/- per bundle, radishes 9d. to 1/- per dozen bunches, seakale 1/- to 1/5 per bundle, thyme 4d. to 8d., mint 3d. to 4d. per bunch.

DUBLIN POTATO.—Trade slow for potatoes, and prime table qualities getting scarce alone command full prices, white quality potatoes 5/6 to 6/-, special dates 6/6, and red soil sorts 6/6 to 6/9, with some extra good Northern arrivals quoted at 7/- to 7/6 per cwt., country bulk arrivals of champions, etc., £4 15/- to £5 5/-, ex rail, etc.

DUBLIN POULTRY MARKET.—Everything in way of poultry scarce; ducklings especially so; in fact, late season and unfavourable weather is keeping supplies back in all lines; good quick sale for poultry and rabbits. Chickens 1/4 to 1/6 per lb., fat young hens 2/6 to 3/3, others 1/- to 2/- each, prime fat young ducks 3/6 to 4/6, seconds 2/6 to 3/-, old ducks 1/9 to 2/- each, rabbits 1/6 to 1/9 each.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG.—Markets are rather weak for Colonial and Danish butter, but Irish creams are now showing better quality, and attract keener attention; they also indicate a firmer undertone that may soon develop into some appreciation in values. Current spot values fine creameries 1/5½ to 1/6, perhaps 1/6½ per lb., fair to mediums 1/5 to 1/5½, Danish 1/8 to 1/8½, New Zealand and Australian 1/5½, factories 1/3 to 1/4, and farmers' lumps 1/1½, and cools 1/3 to 1/4 per lb. Trade for eggs is rather improved in export direction, but in home offtake it looks as if bulk of transaction is for cold storing. Ordinary and selected arrivals of clean hen eggs 10/- to 11/-, extra selected parcels 12/- to 12/6, medium 9/- to 9/9, others 8/6 to 8/9 per 120. Duck eggs plentiful, but in poor request at 9/6 to 10/3, and selected around 11/- to 11/6 per 120.

DUBLIN FISH.—Just 36 packages of salmon and some oddments of head white fish from country and local sources, for which trade was fair; 300 boxes of mackerel and 120 boxes herrings proved a veritable glut, and were difficult to dispose of. Salmon averaged 2/- to 2/3 per lb., turbot 1/- to 12/-, brill 6d. to 6/- each, best soles 25/- to 35/- per lot, mediums 12/6 to 17/6 and 22/6, slips 5/-, 7/6 and 10/- per load, half boxes plaice 20/- to 40/-, codfish 15/- to 17/6, ray 10/- to 15/-, herrings 6/- to 7/6, mackerel 4/- to 5/- and 6/- per box.

BILLINGSGATE FISH.—Liberal supplies. Good demand. Soles 18d. to 22d., slips 12d. to 20d.; salmon, English 27d. to 29d., Scottish 27d. to 30d., Irish 26d. to 28d. per lb.; live eels 35/-, dead 28/- per draught; turbot 14/- to 16/-, brill 11/- to 17/-, halibut 15/- to 17/-, cod 4/6 to 7/-, hake 6/- to 9/-, skate 3/- to 5/-, haddocks 3/- to 7/- per stone.

MANCHESTER MEAT.—Home-killed beef, sides, 8½d. to 10½d., mutton 1/3, lambs 1/2 to 1/10, ewes 11½d. to 1/-, calves 10d. to 1/2, porkets 9d. to 11d.; chilled beef, hindquarters 7d. to 7¾d., forequarters 5½d. to 6d.; frozen hindquarters 4½d. to 4¾d., forequarters 3½d. to 3¾d.; mutton, wethers 5¼d. to 6¼d., ewes 5½d. to 5¾d., lambs 7¼d. to 10d.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW.—Hay supplies continue to show a shrinkage on our bi-weekly markets recently, and values keep constantly hardening. To-day's deliveries were very stinted, and did not near cover requirements. Practically all loads readily cashed as they came to hand. Values averaged:—Prime first crop hay 7/3 to 7/6, medium strong qualities 6/9 to 7/-, best old meadow 6/- to 6/6, other sorts 3/6 to 5/- and 5/6 per cwt. Straw also was short of wants and sold out quickly at 3/- to 3/9 per cwt. for both wheaten and oaten descriptions.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN DEARER.

At first change TIN was accorded better support, and with sellers more reserved a steadier tone prevailed, though dealings were attended by some irregularity, especially forward positions. On balance cash ruled 5/- and forward 10/- per ton dearer. Standard cash quoted £234 12/6 to £234 15/-, three months £234 5/- to £234 7/6; settlement price £234 12/6. 700 tons sold; cash at £234, £233 17/6 and £234 10/-, three months £233 5/-, £234 and £234 7/6; English ingots quoted £234 10/- to £235 10/-. Sales in the East amounted to 175 tons at £236 15/-, being a decline of 5/- per ton on previous close c.i.f. terms. COPPER in slow request, but sellers reserved and tone firm, with forward positions 1/3 [illegible] on balance. Standard cash quoted £61 12/6 to £61 13/9, three months £61 15/- to £61 16/3; settlement price £61 12/6. Sales only 50 tons; three months at £61 15/-; electro quoted £66 10/- to £67, wire bars £67, B.S. £64 5/- to £65 10/-, S.S. £92. At second change TIN experienced a quieter demand, and with some pressure to sell an easier tone resulted. Sales, 200 tons; three months £234 to 233 10/-. COPPER idle. LEAD encountered a steady demand, but values showed an easier tendency. 400 tons changed hands; good soft foreign pig April sold £20 12/6, May £20 12/6 to £20 11/3, July £20 13/9, August £20 15/-. SPELTER in moderate demand, and market steady. Sales, 200 tons; May £25 17/6, June £25 15/- per ton. LEAD again firmer, with moderate dealings. 300 tons sold; good soft foreign pig April at £20 12/6 to £20 13/9, May £20 13/9, August £20 15/-; settlement price £20 15/-. English quoted £22. SPELTER in fair demand, and market firmer. 500 tons sold; May at £25 18/9 to £25 17/6, June £25 13/-, July £25 13/9; settlement price £26 per ton.

GLASGOW IRON AND STEEL.—Scrap Metal—The position is slightly easier this week, and prices generally are lower. Current quotations are as follows:—Heavy steel melting scrap 62/6, heavy basic scrap 57/6, heavy machinery 57/6, good ordinary foundry grade 65/-, steel works' scrap 60/-, all per ton, delivered consumers' works.

CLONTARF METHODIST CHURCH.

CORK STREET FEVER HOSPITAL AND HOUSE OF RECOVERY.

The Managing Committee held their usual meeting in the Board Room of the Hospital on Thursday, the 19th April, 1928, at 9 o'clock a.m., E. A. Pim in the chair. There were also present:—William R. Wigham, Barclay C. Goodbody, Thomas S. Martin, Alexander Malcomson.

			Beneavin.
No. of Patients in Hospital on the 29th February, 1928 ...	219	20	239
Admitted during the month of March, 1928	247	23	270	509
Died	38	—	38
Discharged cured	220	25	245	283

The accounts for supplies to the Hospital during the month were examined and paid. The Medical Superintendent reported that March was a very busy month; diphtheria, scarlatina, measles and chickenpox were very prevalent; influenza, complicated by pneumonia, and rheumatic fever, also helped to fill our beds.

Messrs. William R. Wigham and Edgar A. Pim were appointed Visiting Governors for the current month.

After the transaction of the necessary business the Board adjourned.
